Budget Reaction Is Favorable

Few Demands For Additional Pruning Heard

Criticism By Demos Centers On Failure To Balance Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The 65½ billion dollar Eisenhower budget evoked a generally favorable reaction in Congress today although there were some demands for still more pruning and a few misgivings about defense cuts already ordered.

The most frequently heard Democratic criticism centered on the administration's failure to balance the budget. Both Democrats and Republicans criticized foreign aid spending plans and President Eisenhower's request that the statutory debt limit be raised.

As a whole, the budget stirred comment ranging all the way from "a masterpiece of statemanship" by House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) to "as phony as a wooden nutmeg" by Rep. Cannon (D-Mo), senior minority member of the House Appropriations Committee.

Defense Plan Applauded

Most Congress members applauded Eisenhower's "new concept" of military planning, which shifts the emphasis from manpower to air power, but there was some headshaking.

House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas expressed hope the defense budget "hasn't been cut too deeply" and said:

"I would much rather be alive with an empty pocketbook than dead with a full one."

On the other hand Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the 37½ billion dollars provided in the military budget would give the armed forces "all the money they can efficiently use."

Joint Chiefs Satisfied

Saltonstall said Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had outlined the Eisenhower administration's "new look" military program at a closed-door session of his committee and added:

"Adm. Radford gave us every confidence that the chiefs of staff are satisfied there are sufficient new funds in the budget, together with carryover funds, to carry forward their needs as far as they can be this year."

Similar confidence was voiced by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), head of the appropriations subcommittee on armed service funds, who said the administration has evolved a realistic defense pattern that is "eliminating guesswork, waste and inefficiency."

Nautilus Takes First Dip

The atomic-powered submarine U.S.S. Nautilus hits the water in the Thames River at Groton, Conn., in its launching yesterday. Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wife of the President, had christened it moments before the craft slid down the ways.

First Lady Launches Huge Atom Submarine

GROTON, Conn., Jan. 21 (AP)—The first lady of the land today launched the world's first atomic warship, the huge, blunt-nosed submarine Nautilus.

Built for war, the Nautilus also was heralded as an omen of peaceful progress if that day comes when man devotes his atom ingenuity to the pursuit of happiness.

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, in fur coat and pink hat, cracked a bottle of domestic champagne on the ship's prow. Then she bit her lip in grave concentration as the Nautilus slid into the water to mark a new era in the age-old history of the sea.

She was the first President's wife ever to christen a submarine.

"Hit it hard," a spectator had admonished Mrs. Eisenhower. And she did, as 12,000 onlookers roared and river craft set up a din of whistling.

Thick, damp fog lifted suddenly, almost at the instant the Nautilus began its slide down the 400-foot ways. Bright sunshine bathed the 340-foot hull and set the blue waters of the Thames River to shimmering as the Nautilus took gracefully to the water.

Her test runs are five or six months ahead of her. Her atomic power plant is not yet complete. If she lives up to expectations, the Nautilus' almost unlimited range, her speed and her diving power will make her the most lethal warship in naval annals.

Music and bunting and speeches marked the sendoff of the submarine, which draws on nature's elemental energy for her power.

Aboard the Nautilus, manning her rails as she slipped into the water, were most of her crew.

Her first skipper, Cmdr. Eugene Parks Wilkinson, 35, of San Diego, Calif., stood straight and proud on the bow of the 3,000 ton hull.

Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, hailed the Nautilus as either a potential for peaceful use of atomic energy or an omen of devastation as he told the crowd:

"Nautilus is a symbol of man's dreaming—his bright dreams, certainly; and, if man is not wise, nightmares, too."

Eats Lily Bulb For Onion, Dies

GREENFIELD, Ind., Jan. 21 (AP)—A visiting grandmother mistook a lily bulb for an onion in preparing a family chili supper last night and strangled from the resulting nausea.

Coroner John L. Pasco said today the woman, Mrs. Claudia R. Gunn, 60, Denver, Ind., died from a throat hermorrhage as a result of violent retching within 20 minutes.

Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jarrett, and their two young sons were treated in Hancock Memorial Hospital and released.

Four other relatives were affected.

Committee Fires Second Prober

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Rep. Kearney (R-NY) said today the House Un-American Activities Committee has dismissed a second investigator, Charles McKillips.

He said the group voted unanimously in a closed door meeting early this week to fire McKillips for inefficiency and gave him a month's notice.

Kearney made the statement to newsmen after the Schenectady Union-Star said McKillips had been fired.

Chairman Velde (R-Ill) declined to comment.

McKillips could not be reached immediately.

Velde last week fired Louis J. Russell, the group's chief investigator. His action stirred controvery among members over the procedure he used.

Russell's dismissal, it was learned, came after he acknowledged obtaining a $300 loan from actor Edward G. Robinson who had testified before the committee about Reds in the entertainment field.

Velde said Robinson will come to Washington next week to discuss the matter.

Russell has told reporters there was nothing irregular about the transaction.

Surprise Income Tax Slash Move By Demos Loses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee today slapped down a surprise Democratic move to slash individual income taxes by 2½ billion dollars annually.

Democrats promptly declared they may take their proposal to the House floor, where it would be certain to raise one of the biggest fights of the session.

The plan would raise the personal income tax exemption for each taxpayer, and each dependent, from the present $600 to $700.

Rep. Boggs (D-LA), who made the motion, said this would relieve seven million low-income taxpayers from any tax payment at all and would provide cuts for everybody, with proportionately more relief for large families and low-income groups.

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) usually an ardent advocate of tax reduction, said the committee had agreed not to consider increasing exemptions until it had completed action on a vast project of rewriting almost all the nation's tax laws.

He said today's vote "merely affirmed that orderly procedure would be followed."

Roman Catholicism Lacks Charity, Ex-Priest Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—A man who broke with the Roman Catholic Church after serving 15 years as a priest tonight accused it of "lack of charity," and "greed for money."

These were some of the things, said Emmett McLoughlin, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, Phoenix, Ariz., which disillusioned him and caused him to leave the Catholic priesthood.

His remarks were made in an address prepared for the sixth annual meeting of POAU—Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

His speaking appearance here prompted the District of Columbia Knights of Columbus, a Catholic lay organization, to issue a statement saying:

"This unfortunate man certainly is not representative of the more than 45,000 American Catholic priests, including his own brother, who are honorably living up to the obligations of their divine calling."

McLoughlin criticized Roman Catholicism for what he said was "(1) the lack of charity within the church and its institutions, especially in the sisters' hospitals; (2) the lack of consistency between the church's teachings and practice, especially on inter-racialism; (3) the unnaturalness and harmfulness of the Catholic teachings on the celibacy of the clergy and birth control among the laity and (4) the church's greed for money."

He claimed that "30 per cent of all Roman priests leave Rome" and that 75 per cent probably would quit the priesthood if it were not for various fears.

These fears, he said, include "fear of hell, fear of family, fear of the public, and fear of destitution, deprivation and insecurity."

Guard Unit In Korea May Be Inactivated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—One of the two National Guard divisions now in Korea may be the first of three Army divisions to be inactivated, being mustered out of federal service before next June 30.

A Pentagon spokesman, in outlining the military budget today, said that by the end of this fiscal year on June 30 there will be 19 instead of 20 divisions and that a year later the Army will consist of 17 divisions.

There were indications that the first to be closed out would be either the 40th division, which was an Oklahoma guard unit when federalized, or the 45th, a California guard unit at the time of induction. Personnel of both has largely changed.

Air Force Academy Approved By House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The House today voted overwhelming approval for establishment of an Air Force academy along the lines of Army's West Point and the Navy's Annapolis.

The roll-call vote was 328-36.

The measure, authorizing an appriation of 26 million dollars, now goes to the Senate.

The legislation, backed by President Eisenhower, was the first major bill approved by the House in the current session which began Jan. 6.

Dulles Flying To Berlin For Big Four Talks

Secretary Demands Russia Shoot Square In Upcoming Parley

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles sped toward Berlin by plane tonight after voicing hopes for peace and a demand that the Russians shoot square in the forthcoming Big Four talks on "the future fate of Europe."

Dulles said no final answers on the issue of East-West tensions may emerge from the Foreign Ministers' Conference, which opens Monday, but he declared:

"It will go far to indicate what the final answers will be."

Then, in a statement reflecting mixed pessimism and optimism, Dulles told newsmen:

"This will be the first time in five years that the United States with Britain and France will be negotiating with the Soviet Union. The subject is the future fate of Europe.

"Will Germany and indeed all Europe be unified for peace? Or will divisions be imposed which will make Europe again the breeder of war?"

Dulles left aboard the Presidential plane "Columbine" at 12:34 p.m. (EST), accompanied by some of the 26 foreign policy advisors and 17 secretarial workers in the U.S. delegation.

The sleek Constellation was due 11 hours later at Ireland's Shannon airport and a couple of hours after that at Berlin.

Dulles put responsibility for the outcome of the conference squarely up to Russia, just as he did at his news conference last Tuesday. He said then it would be a waste of time if the Soviets resort to past tactics of trying to divide the Western Allies.

Diplomats Pour Into Berlin

BERLIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—By rail and air, foreign delegations started pouring into Berlin tonight for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference, which opens Monday.

Advance parties of American, British, French and Russian officials arrived to check on arrangements for the talks on German unity and an Austrian peace treaty.

A working committee of Austrian officials came by air from Vienna. There was a report that Red China had sent a 12-man group to East Berlin to observe progress of Moscow's pre-parley idea that a five-power conference should be evolved.

Thomas Will Run For Congress Again

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—J. Parnell Thomas, former congressman who was jailed for cheating the government by padding his office payroll, today announced he would run for Congress again this year.

Thomas, who lives in Allendale and now operates three weekly newspapers, told the Ridgewood Women's Republican Club he will enter the Republican primary election this spring, seeking the party's nomination in the 7th Congressional District.

President Nominates Sobeloff To Be U. S. Solicitor General

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower today picked Simon E. Sobeloff, now chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, to be U. S. solicitor general.

The White House announced that Sobeloff's nomination will be sent to the Senate tomorrow.

Sobeloff, 61, would succeed Philip B. Perlman, who resigned as solicitor when the Eisenhower administration took office.

The post of solicitor general is one of the few remaining top positions to be filled by the Eisenhower administration. The job of the solicitor is to represent the government before the Supreme Court.

Sobeloff, a Republican, called on the President at the White House as announcement of his selection was made. He was accompanied by Maryland's two U. S. senators, Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler, both Republicans.

A resident of Baltimore, Sobeloff was born in that city March 3, 1893.

From 1914 to 1917 he served as secretary to Judge Morris A. Soper, then chief judge of the Supreme Court of Baltimore.

Sobeloff was assistant city solicitor from 1919 to 1924; deputy city solicitor from 1927 to 1931; U. S. district attorney for Maryland from 1931 to 1934; and later that year and until 1935 he was chairman of the Governor's Commission on Unemployment Insurance.

From 1943 to 1947 he was Baltimore's city solicitor. He served as chairman on administrative organization for Maryland from 1950 to 1952 when he was appointed chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Sobeloff's salary as U. S. Solicitor general would be $17,500 a year.

After conferring with the President, Sobeloff told newsmen he had "a very pleasant visit" and had thanked Eisenhower for selecting him.

"He said he was glad to have me," Sobeloff said.

Atty. Gen. Brownell told a news conference, "We are enthusiastic about the appointment—Judge Sobeloff is one of the outstanding lawyers of the country with a fine record as a trial attorney. He was endorsed by the bar associations in his part of the country."

Navy Continues Hunt For Bodies In Inchon Harbor

INCHON, Korea, Friday, Jan. 22 (AP) — Navy crews groped today through icy, swirling tidewaters for missing bodies among the 28 U.S. Marines who drowned yesterday after a collision of landing craft.

Quick rescue work saved 22 other men from the treacherous currents of Inchon Harbor. The 50 were aboard a small landing craft which was cut in two and rolled over by a big LST (Landing Ship, Tank.)

The LST was about to be loaded with liberated anti-Red Chinese prisoners for a trip to Formosa and the Marines, heavily laden with packs, were to go along as security guards.

22 Bodies Missing

"No one could live in those waters for more than a few minutes," an officer said after Navy small craft had searched for more than four hours yesterday for 22 missing bodies. Six bodies were recovered quickly.

Inchon Harbor had one of the highest tidefalls in the world—30 feet—and water charges viciously in and out of its entrance.

Marines Weighted Down

The survivors were 17 Marines, 2 Navy corpsmen, 2 Army men and a Korean civilian. Earlier reports of 52 on board the sunken landing craft proved in error.

The Marines all carried full field packs and wore heavy combat boots.

Officers said the dead and missing Marines dropped under water like weighted stones. The larger LST later loaded aboard 1,000 Formosa-bound Chinese and sailed. It was empty at the time of the accident except for its Japanese crew.

India Plans Last Appeal To Reds To Accept POWs

SEOUL, Friday, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Indian Command planned a last-minute appeal today to the Communists to take back 21 Americans and 328 other prisoners from a pro-Red camp.

If it fails, the camp will be thrown open and the prisoners allowed to go where they will at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow (10:01 a.m., Friday, EST).

The 21, along with a Briton and 327 South Koreans, would have been returned to the Reds yesterday when 21,809 anti-Red Chinese and North Koreans were turned back to the U.N. Command. But the Reds refused to accept them.

Chinese On Way To Formosa

The more than 14,000 anti-Red Chinese were on their way to Nationalist Formosa aboard 15 landing ships, guarded by American Navy ships and planes. They were due in Formosa Sunday or Monday.

The more than 7,000 North Koreans went through initial processing at South Korean army reception centers and at a hospital.

All 21,809 will be declared civilians by the U.N. Command at one minute past midnight.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, said if the Communists refuse to take back their 349 prisoners he will talk to the men personally before withdrawing Indian custodial troops.

Plan To Open Gates

"First we will have to tell the prisoners that their 'owners' refuse to take them back," Gen. Thimayya said.

"Then we will open the gates and tell our men to go back to their line."

If the 21 Americans still are determined to turn their backs on their homeland, the U.S. Army will declare them "undesirable" and discharge them officially. This will cut off their service pay and make it difficult for them ever to qualify for veterans' benefits.

French Consolidate Indochina Beachhead

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 21 (AP)—French Union assault forces consolidated a beachhead at Tuy Hoa today in a campaign to oust the Vietminh permanently from a rich coastal strip of southeast Indochina that has been under the rebels' Red flag since 1946.

Virtually no opposition developed immediately to the land, sea and air strike into the longest of the Vietminh's half dozen holdings along the coast, the 220-mile zone between the Cap Varella region and Faifo.

A high command spokesman called the operation the first large scale French offensive of the 7-year-old Indochina war that was not aimed primarily at warding off Vietminh blows.

Czech President Shot?

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 21 (AP)—A Vienna Czech-language newspaper said today Czech President Antonin Zapotocky had been fired on and wounded last Nov. 7, but the Czechoslovak Interior Ministry termed the report "absolutely unfounded and untrue."

Ike Proposes Spending Cut To 65 Billion

Highest-In-History Outlay For Atomic Energy Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — President Eisenhower turned over to Congress today a pared down $65,570,000 budget that still calls for highest-in-history spending on atomic development, continental defense and military aid for allies.

And for airpower, Eisenhower proposed the largest expenditures since World War II.

The President sliced $5,322,000,000 from the government spending program for the 1955 fiscal year starting next July 1. Even so, that leaves the budget nearly three billion dollars out of balance.

With this outlook for more red ink, Eisenhower drew a line against any more general tax cuts "at this time." Nevertheless, he urged a vast revision of "haphazard" tax laws to make them "fairer" and lower the tax load on individuals and businesses by 1¼ billion dollars.

Capitol Hill seemed to like the idea of a smaller budget, although some Democrats took pains to note that in spite of 1952 election campaign promises the budget isn't balanced yet. Neither Eisenhower nor his chief financial advisers were ready to predict when it would be.

Cutting Attempt Promised

Chairman Taber (R-NY) immediately announced that the House Appropriations Committee will try to trim the budget enough to bring it into balance.

The Eisenhower defense plan commanded widespread support in Congress. But comment from both Republicans and Democrats added up to trouble for the President's foreign aid program and his renewed request for a boost in the 275 billion dollar limit on the national debt.

The chief executive took nearly two-thirds of the budget cut out of national security items. But security still would get more than two of every three dollars the administration expects to spend in the

100 Feared Dead In Train Wreck

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Pakistan Mail express train—roaring a mile a minute across the Sind Desert—ripped into a slow freight today and survivors estimated from 100 to 300 persons were killed or injured. Foreign Minister Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan was among the passengers who escaped injury.

The express, drawn by an American-built diesel engine, was en route from Lahore to Karachi when it hit the train of oil tank cars 75 miles north of this city.

The first two coaches, carrying lower class passengers, were reported "completely burned." Two other foward coaches and both engines were badly damaged.

The Foreign Minister, offering his morning prayer in a mid-train compartment when the crash occurred, said he thought the casualty toll would reach 100. Others placed it as high as 300.

Coffee Price Study

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell told a news conference today the Justice Department has received some complaints about recent advances in coffee prices. He said these have been referred to the anti-trust division for study.

Security Gets 68.2 Of Each Budget Dollar

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—National security, interest on the federal debt and veterans benefits are the three biggest items in the budget President Eisenhower sent to Congress today.

National security includes Defense Department spending, aid to allies, atomic energy and other expenditures.

Altogether the budget calls for spending 65½ million dollars in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Here is a breakdown showing how each budget dollar would be spent:

Purpose	Cents
National Security	68.2
Vet. Services & Benefits	6.3
International Affairs & Finance	1.9
Social Security, Welfare, Health	2.8
Educational & Research	0.3
Agriculture	3.6
Natural Resources	1.7
Transportation and Communication	2.2
Finance, Commerce, Industry	0.2
Labor and Manpower	0.4
General Government	1.8
Interest	10.4
Reserve for Contingencies	0.2

National Society To Further U. S., Israel Friendship Born

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 21 (AP) — The formation of the America-Israel Society, a national inter-faith organization to promote friendship between the two countries, was announced here tonight.

Formal birth of the new group was celebrated at a dinner given by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland and attended by about a dozen of the founders. They included political, professional and religious leaders from throughout the United States.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the dinner in the Governor's Mansion, McKeldin noted a long-standing "sympathy of the American people for the aspirations of the Jewish people for a national existence . . ."

"This America-Israel Society which we are founding tonight is composed of men and women who know and admire the spirit of the courageous and inspired people of Israel," he added.

"It is our hope to spread that knowledge and that admiration in this country, and at the same time to share with the people of Israel our own reservoir of confidence and inspiration.

"I believe that by promoting understanding, appreciation and cooperation between the peoples of the world through such societies as this, we can all hasten the day of universal peace."

Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel told the diners Israel's present difficulties are similar to those overcome by the founding fathers of the United States.

"In these days when Israel still faces many difficulties arising out of the specific problems of its region," he said, "it is most heartening to see so distinguished a group of American leaders reaffirm their faith in the abiding principles of America-Israel friendship."

Diplomats Pour Into Berlin

BERLIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—By rail and air, foreign delegations started pouring into Berlin tonight for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference, which opens Monday.

Advance parties of American, British, French and Russian officials arrived to check on arrangements for the talks on German unity and an Austrian peace treaty.

A working committee of Austrian officials came by air from Vienna. There was a report that Red China had sent a 12-man group to East Berlin to observe progress of Moscow's pre-parley idea that a five-power conference should be evolved.

Thomas Will Run For Congress Again

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—J. Parnell Thomas, former congressman who was jailed for cheating the government by padding his office payroll, today announced he would run for Congress again this year.

Thomas, who lives in Allendale and now operates three weekly newspapers, told the Ridgewood Women's Republican Club he will enter the Republican primary election this spring, seeking the party's nomination in the 7th Congressional District.

President Nominates Sobeloff To Be U. S. Solicitor General

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower today picked Simon E. Sobeloff, now chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, to be U. S. solicitor general.

The White House announced that Sobeloff's nomination will be sent to the Senate tomorrow.

Sobeloff, 61, would succeed Philip B. Perlman, who resigned as solicitor when the Eisenhower administration took office.

The post of solicitor general is one of the few remaining top positions to be filled by the Eisenhower administration. The job of the solicitor is to represent the government before the Supreme Court.

Sobeloff, a Republican, called on the President at the White House as announcement of his selection was made. He was accompanied by Maryland's two U. S. senators, Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler, both Republicans.

A resident of Baltimore, Sobeloff was born in that city March 3, 1893.

From 1914 to 1917 he served as secretary to Judge Morris A. Soper, then chief judge of the Supreme Court of Baltimore.

Sobeloff was assistant city solicitor from 1919 to 1924; deputy city solicitor from 1927 to 1931; U. S. district attorney for Maryland from 1931 to 1934; and later that year and until 1935 he was chairman of the Governor's Commission on Unemployment Insurance.

From 1943 to 1947 he was Baltimore's city solicitor. He served as chairman on administrative organization for Maryland from 1950 to 1952 when he was appointed chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Sobeloff's salary as U. S. Solicitor general would be $17,500 a year.

After conferring with the President, Sobeloff told newsmen he had "a very pleasant visit" and had thanked Eisenhower for selecting him.

"He said he was glad to have me," Sobeloff said.

Atty. Gen. Brownell told a news conference, "We are enthusiastic about the appointment—Judge Sobeloff is one of the outstanding lawyers of the country with a fine record as a trial attorney. He was endorsed by the bar associations in his part of the country."

Air Force Academy Approved By House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The House today voted overwhelming approval for establishment of an Air Force academy along the lines of Army's West Point and the Navy's Annapolis.

The roll-call vote was 328-36.

The measure, authorizing an appriation of 26 million dollars, now goes to the Senate.

The legislation, backed by President Eisenhower, was the first major bill approved by the House in the current session which began Jan. 6.

Guard Unit In Korea May Be Inactivated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—One of the two National Guard divisions now in Korea may be the first of three Army divisions to be inactivated, being mustered out of federal service before next June 30.

A Pentagon spokesman, in outlining the military budget today, said that by the end of this fiscal year on June 30 there will be 19 instead of 20 divisions and that a year later the Army will consist of 17 divisions.

There were indications that the first to be closed out would be either the 40th division, which was an Oklahoma guard unit when federalized, or the 45th, a California guard unit at the time of induction. Personnel of both has largely changed.

Roman Catholicism Lacks Charity, Ex-Priest Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—A man who broke with the Roman Catholic Church after serving 15 years as a priest tonight accused it of "lack of charity," and "greed for money."

These were some of the things, said Emmett McLoughlin, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, Phoenix, Ariz., which disillusioned him and caused him to leave the Catholic priesthood.

His remarks were made in an address prepared for the sixth annual meeting of POAU—Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

His speaking appearance here prompted the District of Columbia Knights of Columbus, a Catholic lay organization, to issue a statement saying:

"This unfortunate man certainly is not representative of the more than 45,000 American Catholic priests, including his own brother, who are honorably living up to the obligations of their divine calling."

McLoughlin criticized Roman Catholicism for what he said was "(1) the lack of charity within the church and its institutions, especially in the sisters' hospitals; (2) the lack of consistency between the church's teachings and practice, especially on inter-racialism; (3) the unnaturalness and harmfulness of the Catholic teachings on the celibacy of the clergy and birth control among the laity and (4) the church's greed for money."

He claimed that "30 per cent of all Roman priests leave Rome" and that 75 per cent probably would quit the priesthood if it were not for various fears.

These fears, he said, include "fear of hell, fear of family, fear of the public, and fear of destitution, deprivation and insecurity."

Collision Fatal To 28 Marines Investigated

NOMINATED—Simon E. Sobeloff (above), chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, yesterday was nominated to be U. S. solicitor general by President Eisenhower. Sobeloff's nomination will be sent to the Senate today.

Navy Continues Hunt For Bodies In Inchon Harbor

INCHON, Korea, Friday, Jan. 22 (AP) — Navy crews groped today through icy, swirling tidewaters for missing bodies among the 28 U.S. Marines who drowned yesterday after a collision of landing craft.

Quick rescue work saved 22 other men from the treacherous currents of Inchon Harbor. The 50 were aboard a small landing craft which was cut in two and rolled over by a big LST (Landing Ship, Tank.)

The LST was about to be loaded with liberated anti-Red Chinese prisoners for a trip to Formosa and the Marines, heavily laden with packs, were to go along as security guards.

22 Bodies Missing

"No one could live in those waters for more than a few minutes," an officer said after Navy small craft had searched for more than four hours yesterday for 22 missing bodies. Six bodies were recovered quickly.

Inchon Harbor had one of the highest tidefalls in the world—30 feet—and water charges viciously in and out of its entrance.

Marines Weighted Down

The survivors were 17 Marines, 2 Navy corpsmen, 2 Army men and a Korean civilian. Earlier reports of 52 on board the sunken landing craft proved in error.

The Marines all carried full field packs and wore heavy combat boots.

Officers said the dead and missing Marines dropped under water like weighted stones. The larger LST later loaded aboard 1,000 Formosa-bound Chinese and sailed. It was empty at the time of the accident except for its Japanese crew.

India Plans Last Appeal To Reds To Accept POWs

SEOUL, Friday, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Indian Command planned a last-minute appeal today to the Communists to take back 21 Americans and 328 other prisoners from a pro-Red camp.

If it fails, the camp will be thrown open and the prisoners allowed to go where they will at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow (10:01 a.m., Friday, EST).

The 21, along with a Briton and 327 South Koreans, would have been returned to the Reds yesterday when 21,809 anti-Red Chinese and North Koreans were turned back to the U.N. Command. But the Reds refused to accept them.

Chinese On Way To Formosa

The more than 14,000 anti-Red Chinese were on their way to Nationalist Formosa aboard 15 landing ships, guarded by American Navy ships and planes. They were due in Formosa Sunday or Monday.

The more than 7,000 North Koreans went through initial processing at South Korean army reception centers and at a hospital.

All 21,809 will be declared civilians by the U.N. Command at one minute past midnight.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, said if the Communists refuse to take back their 349 prisoners he will talk to the men personally before withdrawing Indian custodial troops.

Plan To Open Gates

"First we will have to tell the prisoners that their 'owners' refuse to take them back," Gen. Thimayya said.

"Then we will open the gates and tell our men to go back to their line."

If the 21 Americans still are determined to turn their backs on their homeland, the U.S. Army will declare them "undesirable" and discharge them officially. This will cut off their service pay and make it difficult for them ever to qualify for veterans' benefits.

French Consolidate Indochina Beachhead

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 21 (AP)—French Union assault forces consolidated a beachhead at Tuy Hoa today in a campaign to oust the Vietminh permanently from a rich coastal strip of southeast Indochina that has been under the rebels' Red flag since 1946.

Virtually no opposition developed immediately to the land, sea and air strike into the longest of the Vietminh's half dozen holdings along the coast, the 220-mile zone between the Cap Varella region and Faifo.

A high command spokesman called the operation the first large scale French offensive of the 7-year-old Indochina war that was not aimed primarily at warding off Vietminh blows.

Czech President Shot?

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 21 (AP)—A Vienna Czech-language newspaper said today Czech President Antonin Zapotocky had been fired on and wounded last Nov. 7, but the Czechoslovak Interior Ministry termed the report "absolutely unfounded and untrue."

100 Feared Dead In Train Wreck

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Pakistan Mail express train—roaring a mile a minute across the Sind Desert—ripped into a slow freight today and survivors estimated from 100 to 300 persons were killed or injured. Foreign Minister Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan was among the passengers who escaped injury.

The express, drawn by an American-built diesel engine, was en route from Lahore to Karachi when it hit the train of oil tank cars 75 miles north of this city.

The first two coaches, carrying lower class passengers, were reported "completely burned." Two other foward coaches and both engines were badly damaged.

The Foreign Minister, offering his morning prayer in a mid-train compartment when the crash occurred, said he thought the casualty toll would reach 100. Others placed it as high as 300.

Coffee Price Study

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell told a news conference today the Justice Department has received some complaints about recent advances in coffee prices. He said these have been referred to the anti-trust division for study.

Ike Proposes Spending Cut To 65 Billion

Highest-In-History Outlay For Atomic Energy Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — President Eisenhower turned over to Congress today a pared down $65,570,000 budget that still calls for highest-in-history spending on atomic development, continental defense and military aid for allies.

And for airpower, Eisenhower proposed the largest expenditures since World War II.

The President sliced $5,322,000,000 from the government spending program for the 1955 fiscal year starting next July 1. Even so, that leaves the budget nearly three billion dollars out of balance.

With this outlook for more red ink, Eisenhower drew a line against any more general tax cuts "at this time." Nevertheless, he urged a vast revision of "haphazard" tax laws to make them "fairer" and lower the tax load on individuals and businesses by 1¼ billion dollars.

Capitol Hill seemed to like the idea of a smaller budget, although some Democrats took pains to note that in spite of 1952 election campaign promises the budget isn't balanced yet. Neither Eisenhower nor his chief financial advisers were ready to predict when it would be.

Cutting Attempt Promised

Chairman Taber (R-NY) immediately announced that the House Appropriations Committee will try to trim the budget enough to bring it into balance.

The Eisenhower defense plan commanded widespread support in Congress. But comment from both Republicans and Democrats added up to trouble for the President's foreign aid program and his renewed request for a boost in the 275 billion dollar limit on the national debt.

The chief executive took nearly two-thirds of the budget cut out of national security items. But security still would get more than two of every three dollars the administration expects to spend in the

Security Gets 68.2 Of Each Budget Dollar

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—National security, interest on the federal debt and veterans benefits are the three biggest items in the budget President Eisenhower sent to Congress today.

National security includes Defense Department spending, aid to allies, atomic energy and other expenditures.

Altogether the budget calls for spending 65½ million dollars in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Here is a breakdown showing how each budget dollar would be spent:

Purpose	Cents
National Security	68.2
Vet. Services & Benefits	6.3
International Affairs & Finance	1.9
Social Security, Welfare, Health	2.8
Educational & Research	0.3
Agriculture	3.6
Natural Resources	1.7
Transportation and Communication	2.2
Finance, Commerce, Industry	0.2
Labor and Manpower	0.4
General Government	1.8

National Society To Further U. S., Israel Friendship Born

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 21 (AP) — The formation of the America-Israel Society, a national inter-faith organization to promote friendship between the two countries, was announced here tonight.

Formal birth of the new group was celebrated at a dinner given by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland and attended by about a dozen of the founders. They included political, professional and religious leaders from throughout the United States.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the dinner in the Governor's Mansion, McKeldin noted a long-standing "sympathy of the American people for the aspirations of the Jewish people for a national existence . . ."

"This America-Israel Society which we are founding tonight is composed of men and women who know and admire the spirit of the courageous and inspired people of Israel," he added.

"It is our hope to spread that knowledge and that admiration in this country, and at the same time to share with the people of Israel our own reservoir of confidence and inspiration.

"I believe that by promoting understanding, appreciation and cooperation between the peoples of the world through such societies as this, we can all hasten the day of universal peace."

Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel told the diners Israel's present difficulties are similar to those overcome by the founding fathers of the United States.

"In these days when Israel still faces many difficulties arising out of the specific problems of its region," he said, "it is most heartening to see so distinguished a group of American leaders reaffirm their faith in the abiding principles of America-Israel friendship."

Brownell Says There Are No Reds In Government

May Still Be Some "Security Risks"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today "there are no Communists in the government now, so far as I know" but there may still be "very serious security risks."

Brownell made the statement at a news conference which was largely taken up with unproductive efforts by newsmen to get a breakdown of the nature of the charges against the 2,200 government workers the White House said recently had been taken off the payroll as "security risks."

The attorney general insisted he could not give a government-wide breakdown; that he could speak only for the Justice Department.

But under further questioning, Brownell refused to give the precise number of firings by the Justice Department. He did say "at least one" was a former member of the Communist party.

Brownell referred all general questions to the Civil Service Commission. Several newsmen protested that civil service officials had referred them to Brownell when they raised the same questions there.

One reporter said that the 2,000 "security risks" dropped from the payroll had been held up in some quarter before the country as "communists and fellow travelers."

"Do you so regard tem?" the reporter asked.

A. "I can only speak for this department and we have had very few cases of security dismissals here—the majority not involving disloyalty.

"I have repeatedly said that some of the worst risks were not disloyal at all—but they may have been subject for blackmail."

Q. "Were any of the 2,200 actual Communists members?"

A. "I can't answer that. Some in the Department of Justice were former members, but I won't go beyond my department." (Brownell later amended the word "some" to say "at least one.")

About one-third of Americans—48 million—live in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, says the National Geographic Society.

ONE GRAND SMILE—Carol Schindler, 13, Queens, New York, has good reason to smile and one that would make anyone turn green with envy. She holds a genuine $1,000 bill after it was turned over to her by a police department property clerk yesterday since the prescribed 90-day waiting period had elapsed with no legal claimant for the money. It seems the youngster found the bill last October on Broadway in mid-Manhattan while window shopping with her mother.

Damage To British Carrier Investigated

DEVONPORT, England, Jan. 21 (AP)—Minor damage to engine room gauges of Britain's biggest and newest aircraft carrier, the 36,800-ton Eagle, was reported by the Admiralty today. It was the fourth case of damage aboard British aircraft carriers in the past three months.

"Investigations are proceeding aboard the Eagle now anchored here," an Admiralty spokesman said. "The ship's program is not affected."

Fayette School Board Ousted For Misconduct

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 21 (AP)—President Judge W. Russell Carr of Fayette County ousted today the entire school board of Luzerne Township for malfeasance and misconduct in office.

Twenty-one Luzerne residents charged the school board let contracts without advertising for bids. Judge Carr ruled the men shall not be eligible for school directorships for a period of five years. He also ordered them to pay court costs.

Army Will Expel Pro-Red GI POWs As 'Undesirable'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—All 21 of the American prisoners of war in Korea who decided to stay with the Communists will be discharged by the Army tomorrow as "undesirable."

This is the legal procedure selected by the Pentagon to meet an unprecedented situation in which the soldiers, casting their lot with the Reds, have spurned any opportunity to come home.

For the time being at least, Army officials said, no attempt will be made to serve the POWs with undesirable discharge papers. The documents will merely go into the Army's files, taking effect at one minute after midnight Jan. 23, Korean time (10:01 EST tomorrow), when the armistice terms require that all prisoners of war who refuse repatriation be given civilian status.

Weeks of consultation with the State Department preceded the Defense Department's decision to return the men to civilian life "under conditions other than honorable." Army spokesmen said the undesirable discharges are a middle course which will give the POWs a chance to redeem themselves if they ever return to the United States.

year ahead. Eisenhower assured Congress:

"Our security is being strengthened—not weakened."

The man who made the Army almost a lifetime career said this is possible because of heavy reliance on hard-hitting airpower and and arsenal of atomic and other new weapons to protect America and the free world in a period of "uneasy peace." The shift in emphasis away from sailor and footsoldier, as Eisenhower sees it, will allow economies in manpower, equipment and total defense spending.

Record Sum For Atomic Energy

It also will permit, he said, spending a record $2,425,000,000 on atomic energy—225 millions more than for the present fiscal year—an all-time high of $4,275,000,000 to bolster the military power of friendly nations. The military aid program is up 75 millions.

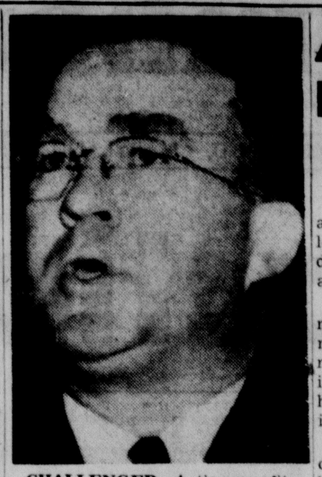

Much of the money to be spent in the record foreign military aid program will come from funds appropriated by Congress in past years.

In terms of new funds, Eisenhower proposed a slash of $1,216,000,000, for combined military-economic aid. He asked for $3,510,000,000 in new money compared with $4,726,000,000, appropriated for the current 1954 fiscal year.

Eisenhower didn't spell out the total cost of radar warning, guided missile batteries, interceptor planes and other items of continental defense. He did say the figure will be "greater than ever-before."

"This is the first complete national budget in 21 years from a Republican administration — a budget Eisenhower said is "adequate" to meet defense problems and fulfill responsibilities to the world and the American people.

In addition, there is the 25-point tax revision program designed to help mothers with jobs, people with big doctor bills, farmers, businessmen and parents of children in college.

Farm Prop Loss Shows Revision Need, Ike Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Huge government losses on farm price props show a need for revising the farm program, President Eisenhower asserted today.

In his annual budget message to Congress, the President figured prospective losses this fiscal year and next will total $813,000,000. This underscores the necessity of making changes, in the interest of both farmers and the nation, he said.

The figure he mentioned would bring total losses on price support programs to $1,923,000,000 since they were started in the mid-thirties.

The President said that because of the accumulation of vast surpluses, price support expenditures are dominating the government's role in the agricultural field.

He said costs of these programs would decline if Congress adopted his recently-proposed farm plan featuring flexible price supports instead of the present high level props.

The government's investment in surpluses increased $2,500,000,000 during the 1953 calendar year, the President said, and now totals more than $5,500,000,000.

Authors Of Massive Budget Don't Let It Speak For Self

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Most authors, when they write a book, let the work speak for itself. They don't feel they have to trot along and explain what they've written.

But that's never true of the annual U.S. budget, wherein government officials disclose (A) how much money they plan to spend in the next fiscal year, and (B) how much taxes they hope to rake in.

This year's edition of the budget came out today, and it can be heartily not recommended for light reading. It has 1182 pages, plus 104 pages of President Eisenhower's accompanying message, plus 16 pages of summary table.

As usual, this still wasn't enough. No less than four news conferences were set up to provide further enlightenment: Two at the Pentagon and one apiece by Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Your reporter—who has trouble balancing anything as complicated as a checkbook—dropped in hopefully on the Humphrey meeting, and can now report:

If government financing seems complicated to you, don't fret too much. It does to others, too.

Humphrey looked cool and collected. It was explained that if Humphrey said something, he could be quoted. But if any of the surrounding experts, there to back-stop questions the secretary could not handle, came up with an answer, they would be called simply "Treasury officials."

With the local ground rules out of the way, Humphrey smiled and said:

"That means I'll have to be more careful."

He said he had jotted down a few notes he would like to read. And so he had. Three pages of them, already run off on a duplicating machine for reporters.

After reading this, Humphrey asked for questions, and got them. You'll get some idea of the next 40 minutes from these random quotes:

From the reporters—

"Can someone summarize all this please?"

"Mr. Secretary, I'm still having trouble."

"Somewhere we've lost a hundred million dollars."

From Humphrey—

Three Men Perish In Fume-Filled Tank

ELIZABETH, N.J., Jan. 21 (AP)—Three men died—two of them while trying vainly to rescue the third—in a huge, fume-filled resin tank at the Reichhold Chemical Co. today.

Although wearing filter-type gas masks, the men were overcome almost immediately when they entered the 5,000-gallon tank, which they were washing out.

Firemen, wearing gas masks with oxygen tanks, pulled the men out, but all efforts to revive them failed.

The dead were Stanley Kus, 34, of Kenilworth; father of two children: Julian C. Rogers, 26, of Elizabeth; who leaves his wife; and Joseph Grzybowski, 35, of Linden, father of two children.

Moors Applaud Spanish Stand

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco, Jan. 21 (AP)—Spanish Moroccan chiefs today demanded a temporary separation from French Morocco and served notice they will not recognize the French-imposed Sultan who nominally heads the divided North African protectorate.

Some 30,000 white-robed Moors cheered wildly.

While the Moors milled about this Spanish Moroccan capital, their civil and religious leaders called on the Spanish high commissioner, Lt. Gen. Rafael Garcia Valino, to grant full sovereignty to their caliph, Moulay Hassan Ben El Mehdi, under Spanish protection.

France served notice Tuesday she would use "all means at her disposal" to block the split of Spanish Morocco from the domain of the new Sultan, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, who was enthroned by the French last August after they exiled nationalist-minded Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef to Corsica.

Weeks of consultation with the State Department preceded the Defense Department's decision to return the men to civilian life "under conditions other than honorable." Army spokesmen said the undesirable discharges are a middle course which will give the POWs a chance to redeem themselves if they ever return to the United States.

year ahead. Eisenhower assured Congress:

"Our security is being strengthened—not weakened."

The man who made the Army almost a lifetime career said this is possible because of heavy reliance on hard-hitting airpower and and arsenal of atomic and other new weapons to protect America and the free world in a period of "uneasy peace." The shift in emphasis away from sailor and footsoldier, as Eisenhower sees it, will allow economies in manpower, equipment and total defense spending.

Record Sum For Atomic Energy

It also will permit, he said, spending a record $2,425,000,000 on atomic energy—225 millions more than for the present fiscal year—an all-time high of $4,275,000,000 to bolster the military power of friendly nations. The military aid program is up 75 millions.

Much of the money to be spent in the record foreign military aid program will come from funds appropriated by Congress in past years.

In terms of new funds, Eisenhower proposed a slash of $1,216,000,000, for combined military-economic aid. He asked for $3,510,000,000 in new money compared with $4,726,000,000, appropriated for the current 1954 fiscal year.

Eisenhower didn't spell out the total cost of radar warning, guided missile batteries, interceptor planes and other items of continental defense. He did say the figure will be "greater than ever-before."

This is the first complete national budget in 21 years from a Republican administration — a budget Eisenhower said is "adequate" to meet defense problems and fulfill responsibilities to the world and the American people.

In addition, there is the 25-point tax revision program designed to help mothers with jobs, people with big doctor bills, farmers, businessmen and parents of children in college.

Farm Prop Loss Shows Revision Need, Ike Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Huge government losses on farm price props show a need for revising the farm program, President Eisenhower asserted today.

In his annual budget message to Congress, the President figured prospective losses this fiscal year and next will total $813,000,000. This underscores the necessity of making changes, in the interest of both farmers and the nation, he said.

The figure he mentioned would bring total losses on price support programs to $1,023,000,000 since they were started in the mid-thirties.

The President said that because of the accumulation of vast surpluses, price support expenditures are dominating the government's role in the agricultural field.

He said costs of these programs would decline if Congress adopted his recently-proposed farm plan featuring flexible price supports instead of the present high level props.

The government's investment in surpluses increased $2,500,000,000 during the 1953 calendar year, the President said, and now totals more than $5,500,000,000.

Authors Of Massive Budget Don't Let It Speak For Self

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Most authors, when they write a book, let the work speak for itself. They don't feel they have to trot along and explain what they've written.

But that's never true of the annual U.S. budget, wherein government officials disclose (A) how much money they plan to spend in the next fiscal year, and (B) how much taxes they hope to rake in.

This year's edition of the budget came out today, and it can be heartily not recommended for light reading. It has 1182 pages, plus 104 pages of President Eisenhower's accompanying message, plus 16 pages of summary table.

As usual, this still wasn't enough. No less than four news conferences were set up to provide further enlightenment: Two at the Pentagon and one apiece by Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Your reporter—who has trouble balancing anything as complicated as a checkbook—dropped in hopefully on the Humphrey meeting, and can now report:

If government financing seems complicated to you, don't fret too much. It does to others, too.

Humphrey looked cool and collected. It was explained that if Humphrey said something, he could be quoted. But if any of the surrounding experts, there to back-stop questions the secretary could not handle, came up with an answer, they would be called simply "Treasury officials."

With the local ground rules out of the way, Humphrey smiled and said:

"That means I'll have to be more careful."

He said he had jotted down a few notes he would like to read. And so he had. Three pages of them, already run off on a duplicating machine for reporters.

After reading this, Humphrey asked for questions, and got them. You'll get some idea of the next 40 minutes from these random quotes:

From the reporters—

"Can someone summarize all this please?"

"Mr. Secretary, I'm still having trouble."

"Somewhere we've lost a hundred million dollars."

From Humphrey—

Three Men Perish In Fume-Filled Tank

ELIZABETH, N.J., Jan. 21 (AP)—Three men died—two of them while trying vainly to rescue the third—in a huge, fume-filled resin tank at the Reichhold Chemical Co. today.

Although wearing filter-type gas masks, the men were overcome almost immediately when they entered the 5,000-gallon tank, which they were washing out.

Firemen, wearing gas masks with oxygen tanks, pulled the men out, but all efforts to revive them failed.

The dead were Stanley Kus, 34, of Kenilworth; father of two children: Julian C. Rogers, 26, of Elizabeth; who leaves his wife; and Joseph Grzybowski, 35, of Linden, father of two children.

Moors Applaud Spanish Stand

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco, Jan. 21 (AP)—Spanish Moroccan chiefs today demanded a temporary separation from French Morocco and served notice they will not recognize the French-imposed Sultan who nominally heads the divided North African protectorate.

Some 30,000 white-robed Moors cheered wildly.

While the Moors milled about this Spanish Moroccan capital, their civil and religious leaders called on the Spanish high commissioner, Lt. Gen. Rafael Garcia Valino, to grant full sovereignty to their caliph, Moulay Hassan Ben El Mehdi, under Spanish protection.

France served notice Tuesday she would use "all means at her disposal" to block the split of Spanish Morocco from the domain of the new Sultan, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, who was enthroned by the French last August after they exiled nationalist-minded Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef to Corsica.

Parents Plan To Keep Two-Headed Baby At Home As Long As Possible

EDITOR'S NOTE—
Carolyn Workman, a reporter for the Cincinnati Times-Star, visited the Petersburg, Ind., home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley, parents of a two-headed baby. She tells of life in the Hartley home, their problems and how they are meeting them.

By CAROLYN WORKMAN
(Cincinnati Times-Star Reporter)

PETERSBURG, Ind., Jan. 21 (AP)—What would you do if you had a two-headed baby?

Quietly answering this question Wednesday were the parents of such a child—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley of Petersburg, Ind.

"We'll keep him at home as long as possible," determined the parents, whose feelings have been especially deep in the fact that this baby is their first son. The baby is five weeks old.

Because of the two heads and two sets of arms, the parents have given the baby two names, Donald Ray and Daniel Kaye.

And Mrs. Hartley calls the infant "the boys."

"I consider it two," she related, although when speaking of the baby often says "it."

To the Hartleys' three little girls, the baby that entered their household just three days ago has been named "Baby Bubby" by his sisters. Shirley 2, Connie, 4, and Mary Lou, 5, are perfectly at home with the strangeness of the child and simply pat two little heads of blonde fuzzy hair instead of one.

"Daddy" Hartley answered his feelings toward his son by just the way he came home from work. With him were two of his working buddies. They had been told to come on in and see his new boy.

"I sang all the way home," the proud father related. "I feel so good now that the baby is finally home."

The Hartleys are happy that their baby is to live with them.

"We feel 100 per cent better about it now, than we did when the baby first came," confided Mrs. Hartley.

There is much the Hartleys have accepted in determining to rear their son.

They have been told that the baby can never be expected to walk. It is not even certain that it will eventually be able to sit. The baby cannot roll from side to side nor slip to its tummy or lie on its back to sleep.

Instead, the baby must be turned periodically and is necessarily limited to lying on one side or the other.

The little blond heads with deep blue eyes face one another and the tiny fingers of the four arms often cling to each other.

"Danny" is the weaker of the two heads. He takes less nourishment and cries very faintly.

One tiny head sometimes cries as the other sleeps.

Sometimes Danny is hungry when Donald is content, so the infants are occasionally fed at different times. This, too, involved a problem for their mother—how to get a nursing bottle into one boy's mouth without having it annoy the other. She has mastered this by feeding them cross-handed with the heads resting on her knees.

Parents across the nation sent advice to the Hartleys on what they should do about their unusual son.

"I received lots of criticism in letters mailed to me at the hospital," the new mother said. "Some told me they thought I should leave the baby in a hospital. Others said it should be placed in a home."

The sleepy little town of Petersburg has just welcomed the Hartleys. Until a week ago, they lived outside the city limits, but moved into town to be closer to things because of the baby.

Home for this baby boy comprises three rooms and a kitchen.

The living room also serves as the master bedroom and there the baby rests.

Horses Cavort Behind Grounded New York Cloud

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Somewhere in the foggy Bronx-land four freedom-minded horses cavorted for more than three hours yesterday, wraith-like creatures who could take refuge behind a grounded cloud.

And after them with a yip and a beep went four intrepid police squad cars, treading where ordinary autos feared to tread, seeking, peering, grasping at air.

It was a most frustrating experience.

At first there were six-horses.

Led by the intrepid Gaylord, they simply nosed their way out of an exercise ring gate at a riding academy in fog-shrouded Van Courtlandt Park.

In a whisk they were gone.

A round-up was quickly organized.

Policemen set up an ambush at the Moshulu Ave. exit of the Henry Hudson Parkway.

Sure enough, the headstrong Gaylord plunged right into the trap.

So headstrong was he, indeed, that he carried Bubbles into the arms of the law with him.

But the others got away over ground still covered with snow. The horse-hunters then settled to their jobs.

"Help us corral these horses," they pleaded with confederates on the police radio network.

Occasionally there was a momentary break in the white wall of fog and one could glimpse a steed.

Cops and grooms closed in, but the creature would slip away and vanish again like a ghost on a prairie.

What worried the police was that one of the animals might blunder onto a parkway or street and cause an accident.

Three and half hours after the hunt began on the misty moors, police finally trapped the last four of the errant equines.

They came across Popeye, Jiggs, Starlight and Sandy frolicking in the park near the site of a stable where they once had lived.

The Bronx bronc busters took the horses back to the academy.

Vatican Paper Hits Movies For New "White Slavery"

ROME, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Vatican-published L'Osservatore Romano has blasted modern movies for a new "white slavery" it said is so brutal that some of the most curvaceous stars are in revolt.

A front page article, 2½ columns long, in the religious newspaper said the movies have turned increasingly to "immorality—or at the least amorality."

"Recently" said the article published recently, "there has come out anew the opposition of two actresses who, wounded in their human dignity, have revolted against the moral prostitution which the mendicants of this new slavery require of them . . . ."

The article did not refer by name to Jane Russell or the Italian star, Gina Lollobrigida, who have been in the news lately with comments about filmland's requirements for the display of curves.

It said, however: "This market has the cynicism and brutality of white slavery itself, like the ill-reputed beauty competitions in which loveliness of face, beauty of person and elegance of attire are not enough, but it is found necessary to make anatomical comparisons and measurements of physical attributes, as in a horse show or a judging of milk cattle . . . ."

The article said for such comparisons it was not thought necessary to take into consideration either the spirit or the intelligence.

"It is enough instead," the article said, "to judge, as with the cockatoo, by the size of its crest, or the tabby cat, by the length of its tail."

L'Osservatore Romano said "the air of resignation with which the producers and directors repeat that "films cost money; the public wants them this way and they aren't accepted if they're more subtle," is false.

"That is not because the films do not cost. They already cost all too much without adding immorality."

The newspaper said censors try to do their job. But, it added: "The protection of public morality is more than a job for censors. It is the job of all society."

L'Osservatore also commented sharply on recent stories of filmland marriages and divorces.

"Columns of newspapers . . . . are daily dedicated with various press conferences on divorces of the stars and of the planets of this firmament.

"The greatness of these stars seems to be measured by the number of their free exchanges, more or less legalized, which are performed not only by the state but by registry offices as if they were contracts for the resale or rental of goods."

The article said for such comparisons it was not thought necessary to take into consideration either the spirit or the intelligence.

"It is enough instead," the article said, "to judge, as with the cockatoo, by the size of its crest, or the tabby cat, by the length of its tail."

L'Osservatore Romano said "the air of resignation with which the producers and directors repeat that "films cost money; the public wants them this way and they aren't accepted if they're more subtle," is false.

"That is not because the films do not cost. They already cost all too much without adding immorality."

The newspaper said censors try to do their job. But, it added: "The protection of public morality is more than a job for censors. It is the job of all society."

L'Osservatore also commented sharply on recent stories of filmland marriages and divorces.

"Columns of newspapers . . . . are daily dedicated with various press conferences on divorces of the stars and of the planets of this firmament.

"The greatness of these stars seems to be measured by the number of their free exchanges, more or less legalized, which are performed not only by the state but by registry offices as if they were contracts for the resale or rental of goods."

Keeping Freedom Bright

If newspaper readers think they are called upon to read many words written or spoken on freedom of the press, they are right. But a speech on the subject made recently by Thomas A. Hanes, managing editor of the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch, cannot be reprinted too often.

Talking before the members of the Maryland Press Association, Mr. Hanes told these publishers and editors in down-to-earth language that they ought to fight back at "presidents, policemen, professors, little squirts wearing gold bars, big squirts wearing silver leaves, politicians, small-time dictators, shysters, judges . . . any and every misguided jerk who has the temerity to undermine, weaken, damage, or destroy the public's right to know."

Said he: "We don't seem to realize that we don't have the right not to fight back. We have a sacred trust. We carry a responsibility for exercising the people's right to know. No other medium can say that."

That was a point well taken, and it should help explain why newspapers sometimes print news that some people find offensive—even shocking—or handle it in ways that raise questions. But Mr. Hanes spelled it out even more plainly. He pointed out that ever since James Madison set down the Bill of Rights, and it became a part of the Constitution, people have been trying to "legalize exceptions to the letter and the spirit of the First and Sixth Amendments." He declared:

"Mr. Madison did not intend that there shall be freedom of the press except when that freedom deflates judicial vanity. He did not mean or state that there shall be freedom of the press except in cases involving city councilmen, oleo-margarine heirs, and teen-age killers on the highways. Neither the authors nor ratifiers of the Bill of Rights intended to spell out a freedom that could be abridged by legislative whim, executive order, and judicial contempt power."

Freedom of the press was meant to be real and it was meant to be used. It is good to be reminded thus forcefully that this nation's heritage of freedom imposes a heavy responsibility on the press of today.

Genius Never Pauses

In this era of push-button living, the complaint is often heard that there is nothing left to invent. Lack of imagination seems to be a major frailty of the human mind.

Suppose one were to look back to the early 1900s, when the automobile was in its infancy. The pioneer horseless carriages certainly were crude compared to the high powered vehicles of today. Yet, in their day they were considered the "ultimate" in luxurious living.

So it is with every other piece of machinery the modern world uses. Fifty years from now people undoubtedly will laugh at the crude contraptions people today so proudly call the "ultimate."

When one remembers that each new invention opens the field to countless other modifying inventions, it is easy to see why there is more opportunity, rather than less, as the years pass on.

For instance, the electric typewriter has appeared in varying stages for 30 years, but it wasn't until this year that a patent was issued to the inventor of a cutoff switch, designed to stop the motor after the machine has been left idle for a pre-determined length of time.

The very fact that the latest patent number is well past the 2,500,000 mark is testimony enough to the opportunities that are available to those who wish to take advantage of them.

House For The V. P.

Among the recommendations of the nonpartisan commission charged with studying changes in executive salaries in government was the interesting proposal to furnish the present vice president, and his successors, with a government-supported mansion. In the words of the commission: "The officials of the nations recently visited by Nixon on his world girdling tour will quite naturally when they return his visit, anticipate, and our people will expect, the vice president to reciprocate in a manner befitting the greatest nation on earth."

Indications are that the 36th vice president will probably have done more to earn his money than any other of the men who have held the office. With the encouragement of his chief, he tried to redefine the vice presidential mission and, by assuming more and more of the executive load, has spared the chief executive. The complete resketching of the picture of an American vice president, which Mr. Nixon is busily doing, makes a discussion of additional perquisites quite pertinent.

It stands to reason that a vice president comfortably settled in quarters considerably more modest than those of his chief could take enough of the "duty of entertaining" off the back of the President in one year to make the vice presidential mansion practically pay for itself. There is evidence the American people would like to see the vice presidency upgraded, with more duties for the occupant, and that the taxpayer will agree that this would be money well spent.

Navy's Prospects

Today military emphasis is on striking power as the most effective manner of discouraging aggressors and the best defense if they do attack. The Navy sees the handwriting on the bulkhead. It has announced that 50 fighting ships will be put in mothballs or otherwise pulled out of service during the next 18 months "without endangering national security."

Perhaps it is significant that the single ship tagged for removal to date is the heavy cruiser Quincy, the "least modern" of her class. Heavy cruisers share with the four big battleships a function all but limited to coastal bombardment. They are old-fashioned weapons now becoming obsolete.

The submarine and the aircraft carried will continue to be uniquely the Navy's own weapons, whatever new status the Air Force may achieve with its far-ranging bombers, its slashing interceptors and its guided missiles.

The end of Korean fighting would have caused a reduction in active-duty naval craft anyway, just as the outbreak of the fighting brought a naval build-up. In Korea the Navy's losses in fighting ships were extremely light—four minesweepers and a tug.

Changes in the active list of ships will send waves of concern through the Navy from stern to stern. But this waterbound globe will call for seaworthy men and craft for years to come.

How To Keep Well

A Sound Nutritional Foundation

Food is essential to life and good nutrition is the foundation of optimum health and vitality. Fortunately, we live in a part of the world where the basic foods are available. When deficiencies develop, ignorance or illness rather than poverty or famine usually is to blame.

A well balanced diet will not prevent tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, or pneumonia but it keeps body resistance at levels high enough to fight the causative agents should they come our way. Good nutrition also improves the feeling of well being and increases strength, fertility, and body efficiency. Furthermore, it is essential at all ages and is just as important to the developing child as to the tottering octogenarian.

During infancy the body grows faster than at any other time of life and the caloric requirements per unit of body weight are high. Food is the main interest of these tots; nature endowed them with a good appetite and they thrive on milk and supplemental feedings of strained meats, vegetables, eggs, orange juice, cereals, and cod liver oil. These extras are added to the menus during the first year to supply the elements lacking in milk. In this way, anemia, rickets, and scurvy are avoided and the baby becomes a healthy and vigorous child.

The pre-school period is more difficult because appetite wanes, growth is slow and irregular, and the boy and girl have more to think about than food. This stage is not easy for parents unless they appreciate the changes that are taking place in their offspring. During the months that growth is at a standstill, the youngster eats lightly. Suddenly, appetite returns and within two or three weeks, he is five or more pounds heavier.

From first grade to high school, growth is slow but steady and nutrition is not a problem. But parents must make an effort to train the child in good eating habits. With adolescence comes the hollow leg stage and a real spurt in growth. There is no limit to appetite and the door to the icebox and the lid of the cookie jar are never closed. The diet must be rich in proteins and minerals during this stage to keep up with the increase in bone and muscle mass. Psychological factors may affect eating and if acne is present, it may be necessary to curb sweets, cokes, and fats.

The growth factor disappears with maturity and from this time on the food we consume is used for repair and to maintain the daily needs of the body. The best diet is one that is well balanced and contains the essential foods plus any other the individual wishes and can afford. During middle age, our thoughts again return to eating and, unless appetite is curbed, there is danger of gaining too much weight. At this time of life, those who have eaten properly reap the greatest benefits. There is less evidence of degeneration in the muscles and blood vessels; the bones are in good condition and are not bowed or brittle. Weight is normal and the zest to live remains.

ULCERATED COLON

M. R. writes: Is surgery advisable in severe and long standing cases of ulcerative colitis?

REPLY

Yes. Many surgeons claim the results are best when surgery is done early in the course of the disease. There are numerous medical remedies and I presume you have given each a trial.

REDFACED

J. M. writes: My face gets real red at least once a day, mostly after I finish work. This lasts for at least half an hour. Could you tell me the cause?

REPLY

Since you neglected to mention your age, it is difficult to say whether your difficulty is blushing or flushing.

SURGERY IS FAVORED

E. R. writes: Is surgery required for an inflamed gall bladder when no stones are present?

REPLY

There is a good chance that healing will occur spontaneously or with the aid of the wonder drugs. During the past decade more and more surgeons are advocating removal of the infected organ to avoid the possibility of perforation and other complications.

SO DO WE

Mrs. J. writes: My husband has gastric acid in his stomach. How can it be cured?

REPLY

It is normal to have acid in the stomach. It is needed to digest food such as meats and to facilitate the absorption of iron. If your husband is suffering from heartburn or indigestion because of overacidity, he may need adjustments in diet or less stress and strain in his daily living.

DOUBLE UTERUS

K. S. writes: Have you ever heard of a woman h ving two womb?

REPLY

Yes. I also have heard of a partition going down the center dividing the uterus into two separate compartments.

Employment Figures Worry Cabinet; Diplomats Feud Over Recognizing Red China; General Motors May Lose Its New Tank Orders

WASHINGTON—The cabinet is more worried about rising unemployment than it likes to admit.

The railroads have laid off 18,000 and the automobile industry another 16,000 since Christmas. More than 142,000 are out of jobs in Michigan alone.

Labor Department officials believe privately that the national unemployment figure has already hit the 2,000,000 mark. In New York, Bethlehem Steel has cut production 25 per cent in the last two months and introduced the four-day work-week. In Ohio and Alabama, Republic Steel has laid off over 4,000. In Connecticut, Bridgeport Brass has put 2,000 on a four-day work-week. Businessmen across the country are cutting down their payrolls because of dropping sales and overstocked inventories.

NOTE — The administration, anxious to put a good face on the economic situation, has revised unemployment figures by cutting the number of "employable" workers by 700,000. It is argued that approximately 700,000 people are too old or otherwise physically disqualified to hold regular jobs except in periods of peak prosperity, therefore can be classified as "unemployable." If these 700,000 are added to the 1,850,000 officially admitted as unemployed, the total comes to around 2,600,000.

Recognizing Red China?

A bitter backstage battle is raging in the State Department between two of the administration's highest advisers over the recognition of Red China.

One is Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson who flatly opposes any compromise with Red China. The other is Arthur Dean, law partner of John Foster Dulles and special ambassador to Panmunjom, who leans toward an eventual deal with China.

Robertson is the Virginia gentleman who went to Korea and did one of the greatest sales jobs in recent diplomatic history by persuading Syngman Rhee to go along with the peace talks. Robertson now says there is absolutely no chance that Premier Mao Tse-tung can be persuaded to be a Far Eastern Tito, and threatens to resign if the United States recognizes China.

Dean, a highly successful corporation lawyer, feels that all is not well between the Chinese and the Russians, that sooner or later the United States will have to do business with China. Already Japan, though it operates under the guidance of the U.S.A., is increasing its trade with Red China by leaps and bounds.

It was Wall Street Attorney Dean's statement at a private newspaper dinner that attracted a cross-fire of criticism last week from Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho, sometimes called the junior Senator McCarthy.

If the battle becomes any more bitter, one of the two diplomats will have to bow out, in which case betting odds favor Robertson to stay.

NOTE—At another recent dinner, given before the Washington Ad Club, Air Force Gen. Frank Everest was asked: "Do you think Chiang Kai-shek will be able to invade the mainland?" Replied Everest: "What you mean is, "Do I think Chiang Kai-shek can defend Formosa?' "

Washington Weather

Even at the White House, Washington's winter weather has been a major topic. Rushing into the President's office for an appointment, breathless Congressman Harley Staggers of West Virginia apologized: "I almost didn't make it, Mr. President. Couldn't get a taxi in all this snow."

"I'm lucky," replied Ike. "One thing about this job of being President is that you don't have to go out in the weather if you don't want to."

NOTE—The executive offices are in the West Wing of the White House proper so the President doesn't have to step outside when he moves between his living quarters and office.

Penny-Wise Wilson

Charlie Wilson's policy of concentrating Defense Department contracts in the hands of a few big companies, notably General Motors, is coming in for more and more backstage criticism, and may have to be abandoned.

It should be noted that Wilson, a hard-boiled industrialist who lets the chips fall where they may, is not trying to favor General Motors merely because he once headed the giant corporation. His aim is to cut costs, and General Motors frequently comes up with the lowest bid.

However, military men warn against the danger of concentrating production in a few factories and a few cities, which could more easily be destroyed in case of atomic bombing raids. Even if it costs more money, they warn, vital defense plants should be scattered around the country, not concentrated.

Now the military advisers have been joined by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, a member of the Armed Services Committee, who has introduced a resolution for the investigation of concentrated defense production.

Chiefly at stake is Chrysler's production of the M48 tank and T43 tank, both types chiefly developed by Chrysler, and now scheduled to be switched from Chrysler to General Motors under the Wilson program. Though GM has now submitted lowers bids on tanks, military men still maintain that Wilson's policy is one of being penny-wise and pound foolish.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—These are days of illusion — of making believe things are different from what they are.

Thus, a four-power conference is to be held next week in Berlin. To the whole world the impression has been conveyed that the foreign secretaries of the four major powers — Soviet Russia, Great Britain, France and the United States—will sit down together and attempt to negotiate a setlement of world problems. But everybody who knows the score is well aware that no such thing will happen.

For one thing, if there were to be any concessions or any trading or bargaining or anything that could remotely resemble negotiation, it would not be carried on under klieg lights. The four-power representatives, to be sure, will hold their meetings with the press excluded, but a conference of foreign secretaries is by no means a cozy little affair with only four persons present. The interpreters or translators and the secretaries and the deputies and their assistants are always present. It makes quite a gathering. Little can be done by way of negotiation under such semi-public circumstances.

Propaganda Measures

If Soviet Russia had any concession to make, if it had anything to offer by way of a plan that might form the basis for mutual discussion, the facts could have been better transmitted privately through diplomatic channels. Each of the Allied governments has an ambassador at Moscow, and the Soviet regime has an ambassador in each of the three other countries. They can go to the foreign offices and talk in private any time there is an occasion to discuss something important. That was the way diplomacy used to be carried on.

Why then are four-power conferences held? Only as a means of propaganda and counter-propaganda. The governments of the United States, France and Great Britain cannot turn down an offer to talk. As long as they maintain diplomatic relations, they are compelled to talk—in private or in public whenever one party wants such conversations or conferences.

If America, for example, says—as President Eisenhower did several months ago—that there is no sense in having a conference unless some concrete evidence of a desire to negotiate is forthcoming, the Communists get busy with their propaganda and accuse this country of blocking peace or of being unwilling to remove world tension. Coincidentally, well-meaning persons — politicians, editors, clergymen and others who haven't the slightest sympathy with the Communist side—begin to say that America cannot afford to be in the position of refusing to talk. Then the administration yields and agrees to send its representative to a conference.

Chapter In "Cold War"

Finally, after weeks of propaganda throughout the world, the time of the meeting is decided upon and arrangements are finally made for a conference. The Soviets will make proposals that, of course, will become public. There will be a worldwide discussion of the different viewpoints and in the end the Soviets will refuse to give ground but will seek some circumstance around which to build a case to the effect that the Allies want war.

It seems to be important to the Soviets to continue to let their people believe that the West is bent on war, and the four-power conference is a means whereby Moscow seeks to show that it is conciliatory and ready to make a settlement, but that the Allies are not. The propaganda war is carried on with an eye toward Asia, which is the principal battleground today.

All previous conferences with the Soviets have lasted weeks and weeks without result. Not a single international conference in which the Soviets have participated since the close of World War II has led to any result that could be said to have removed tension even for a brief period.

The Soviet negotiators are counting mostly on the division among the Allies. They see Britain ready to trade with Red China. They see appeasement sentiment rising in Europe. This is an opportune moment to put America on the spot—as the Communists see it. But the American secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, is an experienced negotiator and a man who is well aware of the tricks used by the Communists. It is unfortunate that so many persons in the free world have been led to believe a real "negotiation" is forthcoming — when actually it is just another chapter in the propaganda battle of the "cold war."

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Frightening Friendliness Of Mr. Zarubin

WASHINGTON

At least a few thoughtful officials in Washington have had the daylights scared out of them by, of all things, the sudden amiability of Soviet Ambassador Zarubin. Zarubin was not exactly genial in his two recent meetings with Secretary of State Dulles—that would be too much to expect of the beetle-browed Russian bureaucrat who ran the Soviet war-time espionage net in Canada. But he was the very soul of correctness.

He expressed an earnest interest in President Eisenhower's proposal for an international pool of fissionable material, to be used for peaceful purposes. He quickly arranged for a private meeting in Berlin between Dulles and Molotov, to discuss the proposal. He even laughed at a couple of small jokes ventured by the secretary of state.

One way to understand why all this scares at least a minority of officials is to visualize a series of newspaper headlines, as follows:

Russians Accept Eisenhower Atom Plan

Reds Offer 40 Pounds Atom Material To U.N.

Liner Batory Arrives Here With Soviet Uranium, Plutonium

Giant Stride Towards Atom Control Hailed

It is this last imaginary headline which is especially frightening. The President himself never claimed the Soviet acceptance of the plan he advanced in his speech to the United Nations would constitute a "giant stride" towards atomic control. Yet all sorts of supposedly knowledgeable people have talksd as though Soviet cooperation in the plan would usher in a new dawn. The fact is that Soviet acceptance of the President's idea would be about as much a giant stride toward atomic control as the gift of a dime to a street urchin was a giant stride toward bankruptcy for John D. Rockefeller, Sr.

Stocks Measure In Tons

Self-inflated officials, hugging non-existent secrets to their breasts, have succeeded in making the whole subject of fissionable material infinitely mysterious. Actually, fissionable material — U-235 and plutonium—is no more mysterious than any other refined metal. Producing the stuff is a matter of refining out one part in 140 from raw uranium, an ore found in many parts of the world.

The refining job is, to be sure, no simple matter. Every method for refining the ore requires huge plants and a great deal of power. But the job is not all that difficult either—as the Soviets, with their much advertised "lack of American know-how," have amply demonstrated. And once the plants are built, fissionable material can be produced in great quantity.

Just how much fissionable material we have, or just how much we officially estimate the Russians have, is of course secret. But anyone who has bothered to study the publicly available facts can conclude with absolute assurance that the stock of fissionable material both in this country and in the Soviet Union is measured in tons, and a good many tons at that.

Why then, should the Soviets not make a beautiful gesture, and offer, say 20 pounds of U-235 and 20 pounds of plutonium to the international agency proposed by the President? In terms of their atomic stockpile, this will cost them virtually nothing. It will tell our intelligence experts nothing either, since the Soviets will of course turn over only low efficiency stuff. And such an offer could not be rejected as hypocritical or meaningless, since the power reactors which are involved in the President's proposal do not require great quantities of fissionable material.

Could Help Kremlin

In short, Malenkov and Company are in a position to garner, absolutely free, a world-wide harvest of the sort of headlines listed above. It is hard to over-estimate the value to the Kremlin of the wishful thinking which such headlines are likely to generate.

This is not to say that the President's U. N. speech was a bad speech, or that it should not have been made. The speech undoubtedly did much to restore American prestige abroad. If the Soviets accept the plan, this could provide a useful means of testing Soviet intentions. But it will not be a giant stride toward atomic control. It will not even be a short and hesitant step in that direction.

Yet hardly anyone understands this, outside of a small band of officials and others who have specialized in such matters. This is why the bland politeness of Ambassador Zarubin has frightened those who do understand. The reason so few understand is quite clear. The President originally planned to tell the people the essential facts of life in the atomic age, in a series of candid broadcasts. In the sacred name of security, this plan was killed, and the U. N. speech substituted.

When the essential facts are hidden, the kind of infinitely dangerous elusions which the President's admirable speech has generated are sure to flourish. It now seems entirely possible that Ambassador Zarubin's bosses will succeed in exploiting these elusions, immensely to their advantage. If so, the fault can be laid squarely at the door of those officials who believe that the American people are not to be trusted with the facts, but must be offered instead a diet of soft soap.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Foreign Policy

The 1930s in the economic field and the 1940s in foreign affairs are mental blocks in the 1950s. We employ terms which no longer fit, like Fascist, which currently, in the United States, has no meaning. There is a lingering opposition to colonialism, which is no longer a problem; it is rather that the nationalistic emergence of countries in Southeast Asia has so profoundly altered the balance of power that the formulation of a policy becomes very difficult for the United States.

Last summer, an editorial in "The Manchester Guardian" began with these sentences:

"When London lost the diplomatic initiative as the result of Sir Winston Churchill's illness, this passed to the two other centers — Washington and Moscow. In the last 10 days all eyes have been on Washington. It was almost forgotten that the next moves might come from Moscow. . ."

The initiative was seized by Stalin in 1943 at the Teheran Conference and has never been relinquished by Soviet Russia. President Eisenhower in his "State of the Union" message said:

". . . That precious intangible, the initiative, is becoming ours. Our policy, not limited to mere reaction against crises provoked by others, is free to develop along lines of our choice not only abroad but at home. As a major theme for American policy during the coming year, let our joint determination be to hold this initiative and to use it."

The American policy of restoring the military and economic power of West Germany and Japan has been so sound that these countries today represent stabilizing forces in Europe and Asia. In taking all the risks involved in the rebuilding of West Germany and Japan, the United States has been courageous and farsighted. Public opinion, in this country, has not always supported these programs because of the hang-over of ideas concerning Germany and Japan from the 1940s.

In international affairs, neither allies nor enemies are permanent; they are interchangeable, depending upon the shifting winds of self-interest. Nor is self-interest always intelligent: sometimes, it is a response to immediate stresses. Self-interest can be dangerously temporary when no thought is given to consequences which seem so remote at the moment but come at us swiftly as the years pass.

Thus, we suddenly discover ourselves working with Franco's Spain that we accused of all felonies and misdemeanors not too long ago. It makes lots of sense to associate with Franco in the 1950s. For one thing, it balances the egotism of France, which has become politically senile in its understandable fear of war, having suffered so much from war and still being involved in it. And for another, it makes our defenses in Latin America stronger despite the Russian penetration in that area. The alliance with Spain represents a full victory for our side.

Similarly, we shall have to make friends with Peron in the Argentine even if no one in this country likes Peron's way of doing things. The issue is not Peron's habits but his value to the United States. As long as Moscow is making deep inroads in such Latin American countries as Guatemala, Honduras, British Guiana, Colombia, and Venezuela, the United States must build power in Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Uruguay and the Dominican Republic. These countries must balance with military and economic power the geographical closeness to the Panama Canal and the United States of those countries which are moving into the Soviet universal state. These are realities for which prejudices cannot be substituted.

So we come to the question of the pact with Pakistan, which is being impeded by a sentimental attitude toward Nehru of India. A line of strong military states, with Pakistan, Iran and Turkey as central points, along the southern borders of Russia, would hamper the growth of the Soviet universal state. The pact with Pakistan is therefore a realistic recognition of a soundly defensible area, holding Russia in check and embarrassing the growth of a Chinese hegemony over the sub-continent of Asia.

It is undoubtedly embarrassing to Nehru that the United States should prefer Pakistan to India, but from our standpoint it makes more sense to do business with the Moslem than with the Hindu. We shall get farther in our objectives that way — the principal objective being so to conduct our foreign policy that we are not again involved in a war not of our choice.

Keeping Freedom Bright

If newspaper readers think they are called upon to read many words written or spoken on freedom of the press, they are right. But a speech on the subject made recently by Thomas A. Hanes, managing editor of the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch, cannot be reprinted too often.

Talking before the members of the Maryland Press Association, Mr. Hanes told these publishers and editors in down-to-earth language that they ought to fight back at "presidents, policemen, professors, little squirts wearing gold bars, big squirts wearing silver leaves, politicians, small-time dictators, shysters, judges . . . any and every misguided jerk who has the temerity to undermine, weaken, damage, or destroy the public's right to know."

Said he: "We don't seem to realize that we don't have the right not to fight back. We have a sacred trust. We carry a responsibility for exercising the people's right to know. No other medium can say that."

That was a point well taken, and it should help explain why newspapers sometimes print news that some people find offensive—even shocking—or handle it in ways that raise questions. But Mr. Hanes spelled it out even more plainly. He pointed out that ever since James Madison set down the Bill of Rights, and it became a part of the Constitution, people have been trying to "legalize exceptions to the letter and the spirit of the First and Sixth Amendments." He declared:

"Mr. Madison did not intend that there shall be freedom of the press except when that freedom deflates judicial vanity. He did not mean or state that there shall be freedom of the press except in cases involving city councilmen, oleo-margarine heirs, and teen-age killers on the highways. Neither the authors nor ratifiers of the Bill of Rights intended to spell out a freedom that could be abridged by legislative whim, executive order, and judicial contempt power."

Freedom of the press was meant to be real and it was meant to be used. It is good to be reminded thus forcefully that this nation's heritage of freedom imposes a heavy responsibility on the press of today.

Genius Never Pauses

In this era of push-button living, the complaint is often heard that there is nothing left to invent. Lack of imagination seems to be a major frailty of the human mind.

Suppose one were to look back to the early 1900s, when the automobile was in its infancy. The pioneer horseless carriages certainly were crude compared to the high powered vehicles of today. Yet, in their day they were considered the "ultimate" in luxurious living.

So it is with every other piece of machinery the modern world uses. Fifty years from now people undoubtedly will laugh at the crude contraptions people today so proudly call the "ultimate."

When one remembers that each new invention opens the field to countless other modifying inventions, it is easy to see why there is more opportunity, rather than less, as the years pass on.

For instance, the electric typewriter has appeared in varying stages for 30 years, but it wasn't until this year that a patent was issued to the inventor of a cutoff switch, designed to stop the motor after the machine has been left idle for a pre-determined length of time.

The very fact that the latest patent number is well past the 2,500,000 mark is testimony enough to the opportunities that are available to those who wish to take advantage of them.

House For The V. P.

Among the recommendations of the nonpartisan commission charged with studying changes in executive salaries in government was the interesting proposal to furnish the present vice president, and his successors, with a government-supported mansion. In the words of the commission: "The officials of the nations recently visited by Nixon on his world girdling tour will quite naturally when they return his visit, anticipate, and our people will expect, the vice president to reciprocate in a manner befitting the greatest nation on earth."

Indications are that the 36th vice president will probably have done more to earn his money than any other of the men who have held the office. With the encouragement of his chief, he tried to redefine the vice presidential mission and, by assuming more and more of the executive load, has spared the chief executive. The complete resketching of the picture of an American vice president, which Mr. Nixon is busily doing, makes a discussion of additional perquisites quite pertinent.

It stands to reason that a vice president comfortably settled in quarters considerably more modest than those of his chief could take enough of the "duty of entertaining" off the back of the President in one year to make the vice presidential mansion practically pay for itself. There is evidence the American people would like to see the vice presidency upgraded, with more duties for the occupant, and that the taxpayer will agree that this would be money well spent.

Navy's Prospects

Today military emphasis is on striking power as the most effective manner of discouraging aggressors and the best defense if they do attack. The Navy sees the handwriting on the bulkhead. It has announced that 50 fighting ships will be put in mothballs or otherwise pulled out of service during the next 18 months "without endangering national security."

Perhaps it is significant that the single ship tagged for removal to date is the heavy cruiser Quincy, the "least modern" of her class. Heavy cruisers share with the four big battleships a function all but limited to coastal bombardment. They are old-fashioned weapons now becoming obsolete.

The submarine and the aircraft carried will continue to be uniquely the Navy's own weapons, whatever new status the Air Force may achieve with its far-ranging bombers, its slashing interceptors and its guided missiles.

The end of Korean fighting would have caused a reduction in active-duty naval craft anyway, just as the outbreak of the fighting brought a naval build-up. In Korea the Navy's losses in fighting ships were extremely light—four minesweepers and a tug.

Changes in the active list of ships will send waves of concern through the Navy from stern to stern. But this waterbound globe will call for seaworthy men and craft for years to come.

How To Keep Well

A Sound Nutritional Foundation

Food is essential to life and good nutrition is the foundation of optimum health and vitality. Fortunately, we live in a part of the world where the basic foods are available. When deficiencies develop, ignorance or illness rather than poverty or famine usually is to blame.

A well balanced diet will not prevent tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, or pneumonia but it keeps body resistance at levels high enough to fight the causative agents should they come our way. Good nutrition also improves the feeling of well being and increases strength, fertility, and body efficiency. Furthermore, it is essential at all ages and is just as important to the developing child as to the tottering octogenarian.

During infancy the body grows faster than at any other time of life and the caloric requirements per unit of body weight are high. Food is the main interest of these tots; nature endowed them with a good appetite and they thrive on milk and supplemental feedings of strained meats, vegetables, eggs, orange juice, cereals, and cod liver oil. These extras are added to the menus during the first year to supply the elements lacking in milk. In this way, anemia, rickets, and scurvy are avoided and the baby becomes a healthy and vigorous child.

The pre-school period is more difficult because appetite wanes, growth is slow and irregular, and the boy and girl have more to think about than food. This stage is not easy for parents unless they appreciate the changes that are taking place in their offspring. During the months that growth is at a standstill, the youngster eats lightly. Suddenly, appetite returns and within two or three weeks, he is five or more pounds heavier.

From first grade to high school, growth is slow but steady and nutrition is not a problem. But parents must make an effort to train the child in good eating habits. With adolescence comes the hollow leg stage and a real spurt in growth. There is no limit to appetite and the door to the icebox and the lid of the cookie jar are never closed. The diet must be rich in proteins and minerals during this stage to keep up with the increase in bone and muscle mass. Psychological factors may affect eating and if acne is present, it may be necessary to curb sweets, cokes, and fats.

The growth factor disappears with maturity and from this time on the food we consume is used for repair and to maintain the daily needs of the body. The best diet is one that is well balanced and contains the essential foods plus any other the individual wishes and can afford. During middle age, our thoughts again return to eating and, unless appetite is curbed, there is danger of gaining too much weight. At this time of life, those who have eaten properly reap the greatest benefits. There is less evidence of degeneration in the muscles and blood vessels; the bones are in good condition and are not bowed or brittle. Weight is normal and the zest to live remains.

ULCERATED COLON

M. R. writes: Is surgery advisable in severe and long standing cases of ulcerative colitis?

REPLY

Yes. Many surgeons claim the results are best when surgery is done early in the course of the disease. There are numerous medical remedies and I presume you have given each a trial.

REDFACED

J. M. writes: My face gets real red at least once a day, mostly after I finish work. This lasts for at least half an hour. Could you tell me the cause?

REPLY

Since you neglected to mention your age, it is difficult to say whether your difficulty is blushing or flushing.

SURGERY IS FAVORED

E. R. writes: Is surgery required for an inflamed gall bladder when no stones are present?

REPLY

There is a good chance that healing will occur spontaneously or with the aid of the wonder drugs. During the past decade more and more surgeons are advocating removal of the infected organ to avoid the possibility of perforation and other complications.

SO DO WE

Mrs. J. writes: My husband has gastric acid in his stomach. How can it be cured?

REPLY

It is normal to have acid in the stomach. It is needed to digest food such as meats and to facilitate the absorption of iron. If your husband is suffering from heartburn or indigestion because of overacidity, he may need adjustments in diet or less stress and strain in his daily living.

DOUBLE UTERUS

K. S. writes: Have you ever heard of a woman h ving two wombs?

REPLY

Yes. I also have heard of a partition going down the center dividing the uterus into two separate compartments.

Employment Figures Worry Cabinet; Diplomats Feud Over Recognizing Red China; General Motors May Lose Its New Tank Orders

WASHINGTON—The cabinet is more worried about rising unemployment than it likes to admit.

The railroads have laid off 18,000 and the automobile industry another 16,000 since Christmas. More than 142,000 are out of jobs in Michigan alone.

Labor Department officials believe privately that the national unemployment figure has already hit the 2,000,000 mark. In New York, Bethlehem Steel has cut production 25 per cent in the last two months and introduced the four-day work-week. In Ohio and Alabama, Republic Steel has laid off over 4,000. In Connecticut, Bridgeport Brass has put 2,000 on a four-day work-week. Businessmen across the country are cutting down their payrolls because of dropping sales and overstocked inventories.

NOTE — The administration, anxious to put a good face on the economic situation, has revised unemployment figures by cutting the number of "employable" workers by 700,000. It is argued that approximately 700,000 people are too old or otherwise physically disqualified to hold regular jobs except in periods of peak prosperity, therefore can be classified as "unemployable." If these 700,000 are added to the 1,850,000 officially admitted as unemployed, the total comes to around 2,600,000.

Recognizing Red China?

A bitter backstage battle is raging in the State Department between two of the administration's highest advisers over the recognition of Red China.

One is Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson who flatly opposes any compromise with Red China. The other is Arthur Dean, law partner of John Foster Dulles and special ambassador to Panmunjom, who leans toward an eventual deal with China.

Robertson is the Virginia gentleman who went to Korea and did one of the greatest sales jobs in recent diplomatic history by persuading Syngman Rhee to go along with the peace talks. Robertson now says there is absolutely no chance that Premier Mao Tse-tung can be persuaded to be a Far Eastern Tito, and threatens to resign if the United States recognizes China.

Dean, a highly successful corporation lawyer, feels that all is not well between the Chinese and the Russians, that sooner or later the United States will have to do business with China. Already Japan, though it operates under the guidance of the U.S.A., is increasing its trade with Red China by leaps and bounds.

It was Wall Street Attorney Dean's statement at a private newspaper dinner that attracted a cross-fire of criticism last week from Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho, sometimes called the junior Senator McCarthy.

If the battle becomes any more bitter, one of the two diplomats will have to bow out, in which case betting odds favor Robertson to stay.

NOTE—At another recent dinner, given before the Washington Ad Club, Air Force Gen. Frank Everest was asked: "Do you think Chiang Kai-shek will be able to invade the mainland?" Replied Everest: "What you mean is, "Do I think Chiang Kai-shek can defend Formosa?'"

Washington Weather

Even at the White House, Washington's winter weather has been a major topic. Rushing into the President's office for an appointment, breathless Congressman Harley Staggers of West Virginia apologized: "I almost didn't make it, Mr. President. Couldn't get a taxi in all this snow."

"I'm lucky," replied Ike. "One thing about this job of being President is that you don't have to go out in the weather if you don't want to."

NOTE—The executive offices are in the West Wing of the White House proper so the President doesn't have to step outside when he moves between his living quarters and office.

Penny-Wise Wilson

Charlie Wilson's policy of concentrating Defense Department contracts in the hands of a few big companies, notably General Motors, is coming in for more and more backstage criticism, and may have to be abandoned.

It should be noted that Wilson, a hard-boiled industrialist who lets the chips fall where they may, is not trying to favor General Motors merely because he once headed the giant corporation. His aim is to cut costs, and General Motors frequently comes up with the lowest bid.

However, military men warn against the danger of concentrating production in a few factories and a few cities, which could more easily be destroyed in case of atomic bombing raids. Even if it costs more money, they warn, vital defense plants should be scattered around the country, not concentrated.

Now the military advisers have been joined by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, a member of the Armed Services Committee, who has introduced a resolution for the investigation of concentrated defense production.

Chiefly at stake is Chrysler's production of the M48 tank and T43 tank, both types chiefly developed by Chrysler, and now scheduled to be switched from Chrysler to General Motors under the Wilson program. Though GM has now submitted lowers bids on tanks, military men still maintain that Wilson's policy is one of being penny-wise and pound foolish.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—These are days of illusion — of making believe things are different from what they are.

Thus, a four-power conference is to be held next week in Berlin. To the whole world the impression has been conveyed that the foreign secretaries of the four major powers — Soviet Russia, Great Britain, France and the United States—will sit down together and attempt to negotiate a settlement of world problems. But everybody who knows the score is well aware that no such thing will happen.

For one thing, if there were to be any concessions or any trading or bargaining or anything that could remotely resemble negotiation, it would not be carried on under klieg lights. The four-power representatives, to be sure, will hold their meetings with the press excluded, but a conference of foreign secretaries is by no means a cozy little affair with only four persons present. The interpreters or translators and the secretaries and the deputies and their assistants are always present. It makes quite a gathering. Little can be done by way of negotiation under such semi-public circumstances.

Propaganda Measures

If Soviet Russia had any concession to make, if it had anything to offer by way of a plan that might form the basis for mutual discussion, the facts could have been better transmitted privately through diplomatic channels. Each of the Allied governments has an ambassador at Moscow, and the Soviet regime has an ambassador in each of the three other countries. They can go to the foreign offices and talk in private any time there is an occasion to discuss something important. That was the way diplomacy used to be carried on.

Why then are four-power conferences held? Only as a means of propaganda and counter-propaganda. The governments of the United States, France and Great Britain cannot turn down an offer to talk. As long as they maintain diplomatic relations, they are compelled to talk—in private or in public whenever one party wants such conversations or conferences.

If America, for example, says—as President Eisenhower did several months ago—that there is no sense in having a conference unless some concrete evidence of a desire to negotiate is forthcoming, the Communists get busy with their propaganda and accuse this country of blocking peace or of being unwilling to remove world tension. Coincidentally, well-meaning persons — politicians, editors, clergymen and others who haven't the slightest sympathy with the Communist side—begin to say that America cannot afford to be in the position of refusing to talk. Then the administration yields and agrees to send its representative to a conference.

Chapter In "Cold War"

Finally, after weeks of propaganda throughout the world, the time of the meeting is decided upon and arrangements are finally made for a conference. The Soviets will make proposals that, of course, will become public. There will be a worldwide discussion of the different viewpoints and in the end the Soviets will refuse to give ground but will seek some circumstance around which to build a case to the effect that the Allies want war.

It seems to be important to the Soviets to continue to let their people believe that the West is bent on war, and the four-power conference is a means whereby Moscow seeks to show that it is conciliatory and ready to make a settlement, but that the Allies are not. The propaganda war is carried on with an eye toward Asia, which is the principal battleground today.

All previous conferences with the Soviets have lasted weeks and weeks without result. Not a single international conference in which the Soviets have participated since the close of World War II has led to any result that could be said to have removed tension even for a brief period.

The Soviet negotiators are counting mostly on the division among the Allies. They see Britain ready to trade with Red China. They see appeasement sentiment rising in Europe. This is an opportune moment to put America on the spot—as the Communists see it. But the American secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, is an experienced negotiator and a man who is well aware of the tricks used by the Communists. It is unfortunate that so many persons in the free world have been led to believe a real "negotiation" is forthcoming — when actually it is just another chapter in the propaganda battle of the "cold war."

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Frightening Friendliness Of Mr. Zarubin

WASHINGTON

At least a few thoughtful officials in Washington have had the daylights scared out of them by, of all things, the sudden amiability of Soviet Ambassador Zarubin. Zarubin was not exactly genial in his two recent meetings with Secretary of State Dulles—that would be too much to expect of the beetle-browed Russian bureaucrat who ran the Soviet war-time espionage net in Canada. But he was the very soul of correctness.

He expressed an earnest interest in President Eisenhower's proposal for an international pool of fissionable material, to be used for peaceful purposes. He quickly arranged for a private meeting in Berlin between Dulles and Molotov, to discuss the proposal. He even laughed at a couple of small jokes ventured by the secretary of state.

One way to understand why all this scares at least a minority of officials is to visualize a series of newspaper headlines, as follows:

Russians Accept Eisenhower Atom Plan

Reds Offer 40 Pounds Atom Material To U.N.

Liner Batory Arrives Here With Soviet Uranium, Plutonium

Giant Stride Towards Atom Control Hailed

It is this last imaginary headline which is especially frightening. The President himself never claimed the Soviet acceptance of the plan he advanced in his speech to the United Nations would constitute a "giant stride" towards atomic control. Yet all sorts of supposedly knowledgeable people have talksd as though Soviet cooperation in the plan would usher in a new dawn. The fact is that Soviet acceptance of the President's idea would be about as much a giant stride toward atomic control as the gift of a dime to a street urchin was a giant stride toward bankruptcy for John D. Rockefeller, Sr.

Stocks Measure In Tons

Self-inflated officials, hugging non-existent secrets to their breasts, have succeeded in making the whole subject of fissionable material infinitely mysterious. Actually, fissionable material — U-235 and plutonium—is no more mysterious than any other refined metal. Producing the stuff is a matter of refining out one part in 140 from raw uranium, an ore found in many parts of the world.

The refining job is, to be sure, no simple matter. Every method for refining the ore requires huge plants and a great deal of power. But the job is not all that difficult either—as the Soviets, with their much advertised "lack of American know-how," have amply demonstrated. And once the plants are built, fissionable material can be produced in great quantity.

Just how much fissionable material we have, or just how much we officially estimate the Russians have, is of course secret. But anyone who has bothered to study the publicly available facts can conclude with absolute assurance that the stock of fissionable material both in this country and in the Soviet Union is measured in tons, and a good many tons at that.

Why then, should the Soviets not make a beautiful gesture, and offer, say 20 pounds of U-235 and 20 pounds of plutonium to the international agency proposed by the President? In terms of their atomic stockpile, this will cost them virtually nothing. It will tell our intelligence experts nothing either, since the Soviets will of course turn over only low efficiency stuff. And such an offer could not be rejected as hypocritical or meaningless, since the power reactors which are involved in the President's proposal do not require great quantities of fissionable material.

Could Help Kremlin

In short, Malenkov and Company are in a position to garner, absolutely free, a world-wide harvest of the sort of headlines listed above. It is hard to over-estimate the value to the Kremlin of the wishful thinking which such headlines are likely to generate.

This is not to say that the President's U. N. speech was a bad speech, or that it should not have been made. The speech undoubtedly did much to restore American prestige abroad. If the Soviets accept the plan, this could provide a useful means of testing Soviet intentions. But it will not be a giant stride toward atomic control. It will not even be a short and hesitant step in that direction.

Yet hardly anyone understands this, outside of a small band of officials and others who have specialized in such matters. This is why the bland politeness of Ambassador Zarubin has frightened those who do understand. The reason so few understand is quite clear. The President originally planned to tell the people the essential facts of life in the atomic age, in a series of candid broadcasts. In the sacred name of security, this plan was killed, and the U. N. speech substituted.

When the essential facts are hidden, the kind of infinitely dangerous elusions which the President's admirable speech has generated are sure to flourish. It now seems entirely possible that Ambassador Zarubin's bosses will succeed in exploiting these elusions, immensely to their advantage. If so, the fault can be laid squarely at the door of those officials who believe that the American people are not to be trusted with the facts, but must be offered instead a diet of soft soap.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Foreign Policy

The 1930s in the economic field and the 1940s in foreign affairs are mental blocks in the 1950s. We employ terms which no longer fit, like Fascist, which currently, in the United States, has no meaning. There is a lingering opposition to colonialism, which is no longer a problem; it is rather that the nationalistic emergence of countries in Southeast Asia has so profoundly altered the balance of power that the formulation of a policy becomes very difficult for the United States.

Last summer, an editorial in "The Manchester Guardian" began with these sentences:

"When London lost the diplomatic initiative as the result of Sir Winston Churchill's illness, this passed to the two other centers — Washington and Moscow. In the last 10 days all eyes have been on Washington. It was almost forgotten that the next moves might come from Moscow. . ."

The initiative was seized by Stalin in 1943 at the Teheran Conference and has never been relinquished by Soviet Russia. President Eisenhower in his "State of the Union" message said:

". . . That precious intangible, the initiative, is becoming ours. Our policy, not limited to mere reaction against crises provoked by others, is free to develop along lines of our choice not only abroad but at home. As a major theme for American policy during the coming year, let our joint determination be to hold this initiative and to use it."

The American policy of restoring the military and economic power of West Germany and Japan has been so sound that these countries today represent stabilizing forces in Europe and Asia. In taking all the risks involved in the rebuilding of West Germany and Japan, the United States has been courageous and farsighted. Public opinion, in this country, has not always supported these programs because of the hang-over of ideas concerning Germany and Japan from the 1940s.

In international affairs, neither allies nor enemies are permanent; they are interchangeable, depending upon the shifting winds of self-interest. Nor is self-interest always intelligent: sometimes, it is a response to immediate stresses. Self-interest can be dangerously temporary when no thought is given to consequences which seem so remote at the moment but come at us swiftly as the years pass.

Thus, we suddenly discover ourselves working with Franco's Spain that we accused of all felonies and misdemeanors not too long ago. It makes lots of sense to associate with Franco in the 1950s. For one thing, it balances the egotism of France, which has become politically senile in its understandable fear of war, having suffered so much from war and still being involved in it. And for another, it makes our defenses in Latin America stronger despite the Russian penetration in that area. The alliance with Spain represents a full victory for our side.

Similarly, we shall have to make friends with Peron in the Argentine even if no one in this country likes Peron's way of doing things. The issue is not Peron's habits but his value to the United States. As long as Moscow is making deep inroads in such Latin American countries as Guatemala, Honduras, British Guiana, Colombia, and Venezuela, the United States must build power in Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Uruguay and the Dominican Republic. These countries must balance with military and economic power the geographical closeness to the Panama Canal and the United States of those countries which are moving into the Soviet universal state. These are realities for which prejudices cannot be substituted.

So we come to the question of the pact with Pakistan, which is being impeded by a sentimental attitude toward Nehru of India. A line of strong military states, with Pakistan, Iran and Turkey as central points, along the southern borders of Russia, would hamper the growth of the Soviet universal state. The pact with Pakistan is therefore a realistic recognition of a soundly defensible area, holding Russia in check and embarrassing the growth of a Chinese hegemony over the sub-continent of Asia.

It is undoubtedly embarrassing to Nehru that the United States should prefer Pakistan to India, but from our standpoint it makes more sense to do business with the Moslem than with the Hindu. We shall get farther in our objectives that way — the principal objective being so to conduct our foreign policy that we are not again involved in a war not of our choice.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

MISS CORA M. SHROYER

Miss Cora Mae Shroyer, 56, of 629 North Centre Street, died early yesterday in Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient since December 19.

She was a daughter of the late John W. and Mary C. (Kornhoff) Shroyer and held membership in Zion Evangelical Reformed Church. Miss Shroyer had been employed 40 years as a bookkeeper by the F. W. Woolworth Company, being transferred to Philadelphia after the store here ceased operations.

Surviving is a brother, Clarence A. Shroyer, city.

Final rites for Miss Shroyer will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Kight's Funeral Home with Rev. Raymond A. Faulds Jr., pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, officiating. Interment will be in Greenmount Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN A. CLAIR

Mrs. Joanne B. Clair, 21, wife of John A. Clair, 16 North Lee Street, died yesterday in Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient eight days.

Born in Lonaconing, she was a daughter of Daniel McGann and Mrs. Robert F. G. Bellknap, both of this city. Mrs. Clair had resided here most of her life and was a former student at St. Patrick's Parochial School.

Surviving, besides her husband and parents, are a daughter, Lois M. Clair, at home; two brothers, Dennis McGann and John McGann, Baltimore, and two sisters, Misses Patricia and Lois McGann, all of this city.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home.

A requiem mass will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic Church Saturday at 9 a. m. Burial will take place in Rose Hill Cemetery.

RIDGELY FUNERAL

Services for Miss Lillie Ridgely, 85, of 274 Narrows Park, who died Wednesday at the Allegany County Infirmary, will be conducted tomorrow at 3 p. m. at the George Funeral Home. Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

GOODWIN FUNERAL

HYNDMAN—Services for Donald R. Goodwin, 58, who died Sunday at his home here, were conducted Wednesday at the Ziegler Funeral Home. Rev. A. D. Collins, pastor of Hyndman Methodist Church, officiated and interment was in Hyndman Cemetery.

Pallbearers were D. W. Corvin, P. E. Wagner, A. O. Ravenscroft, A. L. Kritchgar, E. T. Harclerode and R. J. Smith.

MRS. VEDA MOSS

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mrs. Chloe James of St. George has been called to Adrian, Mich., where her sister, Mrs. Verda Evans Moss, died unexpectedly at her home there.

Mrs. Moss was born in St. George, Tucker County, a daughter of Emanuel and Martha Lipscomb Evans. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Norma Sunquist, Adrian; and Alma and Sherry at home; and a son, Ralph Moss, also at home.

Three brothers and five sisters also survive. They are Oren Evans, Minerva, Ohio; Theodore Evans, Akron; Victor, address unknown; Mrs. James; Mrs. Ray Raines, Parsons; Mrs. Ida Gauk, Adrian; Mrs. Myrtle Clair, Minerva; and Mrs. Daisy Harsh, Bluefield, W. Va.

BLANCHARD RITES

PETERSBURG — Services for Mrs. Lillian B. Blanchard, 73, wife of Loring W. Blanchard, Petersburg, who died Sunday in an Elkins rest home, will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Lohr Funeral Home, Elkins, by Rev. E. A. Winn, pastor of First Church of Christ, Elkins.

SMITH BURIAL

Services for Walter E. Smith Jr., eight-year-old son of W. E. Smith, 131 Paca Street, and Mrs. William Ruppert, 11 Fifth Street, who was drowned Tuesday in Potomac River in a sledding accident will be conducted today at 1:30 p. m. at the George Funeral Home.

Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Fairview Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

VAN HORN SERVICES

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara M. Van Horn who died Monday at her residence, 315 Bedford Street, were held yesterday at 2:30 p. m. at Kight Funeral Home, Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in Centenary Cemetery.

Pallbearers were George Zeglas, John Miller, William Miller, Raymond Zegles, Marion Miller and Harry Groves.

BUCKLEY RITES

Final rites for Mrs. Libby Virginia Buckley, 73, RFD 4, Brice Hollow near Spring Gap, who died Monday in Sacred Heart Hospital were held yesterday morning at Hafer's Funeral Home.

William Anderson, pastor of Oldtown Presbyterian Church, officiated and interment was in St. Luke's Cemetery, Glebe, W. Va.

Pallbearers were Woodrow Stafford, Joseph Stafford, Lynn Bishop, Harvey Cooper, Zukle Funkhouser and Bernard Miller.

MCFADDEN BURIAL

Services for Miss Patricia J. McFadden, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. William McFadden, Ridgeley, who died Monday in Sacred Heart Hospital, were conducted yesterday at the George Funeral Home. Rev. W. Randolph Keefe Jr., pastor of Grace Baptist Church, officiated and interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Pallbearers were Charle Watson, Jack Herbaugh, Edward Bean and Charles Day.

FOLEY SERVICES

A requiem mass for William J. Foley, 50, who died at his residence, 136 Virginia Avenue, Monday, was celebrated Wednesday at St. Mary's Catholic Church with Rev. Robert F. Hopkins, assistant pastor, as celebrant. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Pallbearers were Patrick Creegan, Claude Light, Thomas Conlon Jr., Clifford Spiker, Joseph Carney and Louis Carroll.

AUGUSTUS ROHE

KEYSER — Augustus Rohe, 82, died Wednesday in Potomac Valley Hospital following an illness of three weeks. He had resided for the past several years at the home of Mrs. Charles James, 156 Front Street.

Born at Alpine, he was a son of the late Herman and Mary (Butts) Rohe. He was a member of First Methodist Church. His wife, Mrs. Lavinia (Woods) Rohe, preceded him in death.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Mary Miller, Fayette City, Pa.; two brothers, Joseph Rohe, Cherry Run, and Frank Rohe, Keyser, five grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Local Sailor In Sea 45 Minutes As Navy Launch Hits Buoy

A local resident, now a member of the U. S. Navy, had quite an experience on the night of January 8 when a motor launch in which he was riding struck a buoy as he and other members of the crew of the USS Wisconsin were headed toward the Japanese shore.

Petty Officer 3c David Whittington, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Whittington, 205 Roberts Street, wrote and told his parents that he and the crew members floundered in the water for about 45 minutes before being rescued and taken to the hospital of the battleship.

None of the crew members perished, according to Whittington, although two men were injured seriously. Temperature at the time of the mishap was reported as 10 degrees above. Whittington who attended Fort Hill High School, enlisted in the Navy in November of 1952.

Settlement Made In Damage Suit

An agreement on a judgment for $2,400 to a five-year-old child injured when struck by a truck has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

A suit for $5,000 was entered by Rosella Conrad through her mother, Rhoda M. Conrad against a Charlton Brothers Transportation Company, Inc., of this city, and Robert E. Grimes of RD 2, Frostburg.

The declaration stated Grimes was negligent in driving the truck on August 24 when the child was hit as she was crossing Gay Street.

The suit pointed out the girl suffered serious injuries to her left foot and ankle which was crushed. She was confined to Memorial Hospital from August 24 until November 10, the declaration stated, undergoing various skin grafts.

As a result of the injuries to her foot and ankle she will have permanent impairment of the foot.

The attorneys were Edward G. Ryan for the child, and William C. Walsh for defense.

New College Hall To Be Inspected

Garrett O. Billmire, of the Department of Public Improvements, Baltimore, and James L. Reid, supervisor of school plants, State Board of Education, Baltimore, will be on the campus of the Frostburg State Teachers College today to make a final inspection of Lowndes Hall, newly constructed administration and library building and accept it for the State.

College officials in administration will move into their offices on the second floor of the building next week.

Lowndes Hall will be dedicated on Sunday, March 28.

Man Acquitted On Arson Charge

A 48-year-old former Cumberland man was acquitted on four charges, including arson, yesterday in Hagerstown.

John D. Pownall, of 321 West Side Avenue there, was found not guilty of "wilfully setting a fire, drunk and disorderly conduct and failing to pay a board bill."

Court attaches said Pownall fell asleep in the bedroom of a boarding house while smoking yesterday. Aroused by smoke, he threw a bucket of water on a small fire and then went back to sleep. Later the blaze started again.

Flames were confined to a bed and bed clothing.

The owner of the building told Pownall to "get out" and he left, so the board bill charge also was dismissed along with the drunk and disorderly counts.

Woman's Civic Club Reports $2,794.73 Club House Fund

Reports and announcements were made and two guest speakers addressed members of the Woman's Civic Club at the monthly meeting yesterday afternoon in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house.

Mrs. William A. Douglas, chairman of the Club House Fund, reported $2,794.73 has been accumulated through the Ways and Means committee and also by contributions from members, and suggested that checks from individuals be mailed to Mrs. A. H. Hutcheson.

Mrs. Charles L. Kopp presided at the business session and appointed Mrs. Norman Taylor as the club's Traveler's Aid Society representative. She announced that the club has purchased a public address system and expressed appreciation for the mahogany lectern given to the club by Alec Buchanan.

The flag salute and the collect were led by Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, vice president. Mrs. Taylor gave her secretary's report and Mrs. Hutcheson gave a financial report. Mrs. A. W. Keight reported on the Christmas party, announcing that in addition to the gifts of nylon hose and ties, 52 lap robes and a wheel chair had been given to the County Home and the Infirmary.

A committee of three has been appointed to the Community Service Group Nurses' Scholarship fund, Mrs. Taylor reported. Mrs. Albert H. Hargreaves is chairman.

A meeting of the American Home Group was announced by Mrs. F. T. Bell. It will be January 28 at the Potomac Edison demonstration room, Union Street, at 2 p. m.

Reporting on the March of Dimes drive the evening of January 29, between 7 and 8 o'clock, Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, chairman, asked that persons wishing to contribute should leave a porch light burning to indicate their willingness to give.

Mrs. Kopp welcomed four new members and invited them to participate in the activities of the club. They are Mrs. Calvin S. Keiter, Mrs. Thomas H. Chappell, Mrs. Carl Goetz and Mrs. Richard W. Kirsch.

The Welfare Group was in charge of the program. Mrs. Keight introduced Judge Thomas J. S. Waxter, Baltimore, principal speaker, and a graduate of Princeton and Yale universities, as a "noted humanitarian."

In developing his subject, "Juvenile Delinquency," Judge Waxter said," We are back in the dark ages in the field of dealing with delinquents." A survey just completed indicates there is a big problem of delinquency developing in Maryland, which has twice as many children under 10 years of age now than in 1940. He stated that the court needs psychiatric facilities available in instances where it will help the child, a good probation service and good training schools. He emphasized the need to identify the children who may become delinquents and work with them. A discussion period followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Grim were also introduced by Mrs. Keight. The former, superintendent of the County Home and Infirmary, gave a history of these institutions from 1832 to the present time. He expressed appreciation of the club's contributions to the welfare of the patients.

Ladies Aid Re-Elects

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church re-elected officers at the meeting Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room.

Mrs. Raymond Hewitt was inducted as president; Mrs. Clarence Brotemarkle, vice president; Mrs. James Orr, secretary; Mrs. James Weakley, assistant secretary; and Mrs. George Seibert, treasurer.

Mrs. Harold Fishell was appointed pianist.

The group discussed plans for a bake sale and decided to hold it after Easter. Routine business was transacted.

An entertainment program was presented and consisted of four vocal solos by Mrs. Paul Gilford, with Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, Sr., at the piano and two readings by Mrs. A. E. Kesecker. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Howard Twigg and Mrs. William Judy, and their committee.

The next meeting will be held February 17 with Mrs. Bruce Scharf chairman of the social hour.

Mapleside Chairmen Are Named

Reports were given and chairmen appointed at the meeting of the Mapleside Homemakers Club, held yesterday afternoon in Bethany Evangelical United Brethren Church social room. Mrs. M. H. Burgess presided.

Mrs. George F. Reiter is the new treasurer; Mrs. Glenn Diehl, vice president and Mrs James Weakley, secretary remain in office for another year.

Project chairmen named are Mrs. Diehl, Mrs. Bert Brown, Clothing; Mrs. J. R. Kuhlman, Mrs. William Stallings, Food and Nutrition; Mrs. Boyd Hosier, Mrs. George Burdett, Health; Mrs. Bernard Fleigle, Mrs. L. E. Fleegle, Home Management; Mrs. John Lear, Mrs. William Parker, Home Furnishing; Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. Wilmer Null, Home and Yard Beautification.

Cultural chairmen are Mrs. Karl Tashenberger, Art; Mrs. Walter Long, Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie, Music; Mrs. Martha Weller, Reading; Mrs. Paul M. Shircliffe, Recreation and Nature.

Other committee chairmen are Mrs. James R. Smith, Fair and Exhibits; Mrs. Whiting Linaberg, Family Life; Mrs. John Breakiron, International Relations; Mrs. Frank White, Membership; Mrs. Emory Showman, Mrs. Weakly, Publicity; Mrs. Curtis Bloss, Radio; Mrs. Leroy Jewell, Mrs. F. Might As Well Be Spring

By DOROTHY ROE

When you go shopping for that Easter bonnet this year, you can pay your money and take your choice.

Practically every known shape, trimming and silhouette is available to please the fussiest shopper. There are shell bonnets, toques, small berets, sailors in many sizes and shapes, profile hats, large and small cloches, with deep crowns and downward sloping brims, Watteau silhouettes with brims wide in front, turned up in back. There are big hats, little hats and middle-sized hats. There are hats of straw, felt, fabric and flowers.

The newest way to wear your hat is flat and level on the head, tilted neither forward, backward nor sideways. After a season in which the beanie type hat seemed the national favorite, brims make news in the millinery lineup for spring. These come in all versions, round, flat, squared-off rippled, pleated, scalloped or cut-out.

White and all the pastels are important in the new hats, with lots of natural straws cropping up, many hand-embroidered in flowers or butterflies.

FLOWERS GO TO THE HEAD . . . Here is the flower garden hat for Easter as designed by Walter Florell with 'forward-looking brim on a shallow leghorn bonnet.

PROFILE CAP . . . Here is Lilly Dache's version of an angled cap of multi-color field flowers, held on by a flower tab.

Barbara Ann Clair Is Bride Of Melvin Cooper

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clair of Washington, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Barbara Ann Clair, to Melvin Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, of Parsons.

The double ring ceremony was read in the home of Rev. James A. Dudley, pastor of the Rhode Island Methodist Church, Washington, December 26.

Miss Shirley Krause was the bride's maid of honor, while Clarence Cooper served as best man. William Brenen, Washington, also attended the ceremony.

For her marriage the bride chose a suit of gray with blue accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a member of the senior class of McKinley High School, Washington.

Mr. Cooper graduated from Parsons High School, class of 1951 and is employed as a printing press operator for the Loan Finance Corporation, Washington, where they are residing.

Democratic Women Re-elect Mrs. McQuown

The United Democratic Women's Club elected officers and announcement was made of the appointment of Mrs. Anne Everline to the state Publicity committee, with Mrs. Charles Adams, Bowling Green assisting her. The meeting was held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Wednesday night.

Mrs. Jim McQuown was re-elected president; Mrs. Mae Mont, vice president; Mrs. Regina Hammersmith, recording secretary; Mrs. Harold Weber, treasurer; and Mrs. Everline corresponding secretary.

Mrs. McQuown reported on the workshop in Washington and announced one for Allegany County February 22. It will be at the Fort Cumberland Hotel with speakers from Washington.

The Mizpah Class of First Baptist Church will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Russell Wentling, 518 Baltimore Avenue.

Mrs. William M. Sherman, city, is a guest at The Plaza, New York.

Chairmen Are Named

New officers assumed their duties and committees were named at the meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of Trinity Lutheran Church. On behalf of the society Mrs. Emory Showman, new president, presented a gift to Mrs. Nancy Warnick, retiring president.

Other officers serving with Mrs. Showman are Mrs. Maude Wagner, vice president; Mrs. Esther Welsh, secretary; and Mrs. Lillian Dempsey, treasurer.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. Maude McMcKenzie, Religion; Mrs. Ada Lee Schaidt, Program; Mrs. Louise Kiiffner, Visiting and Mrs. Esther Welsh, Sunshine and Publicity.

Meeting Dates Changed

Meetings of the Mothers Club of the Star Studio have been changed from the third Monday to the third Friday. Mrs. Virginia Wiebrecht presided and introduced Mrs. Margaret Kelly and Mrs. Charlotte Bierman, secretary and treasurer respectively.

A letter of appreciation for one of the Christmas baskets the club sent was read; and a card sent to Mrs. Gloria Straub Flynn, who is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Mrs. Hilda Lloyd, Mrs. Jewel Audrey and Mrs. Wealthea Lynch were named hostesses for the February meeting, at which time plans for spring and summer activities will be made.

Couple Marks Anniversary

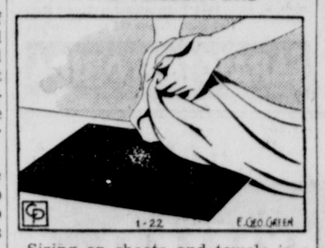

The 29th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Russell is being celebrated at a dinner party tonight at their home, 315 Franklin Street. Flowers are being used in the decorations and guests will be members of the families and a few intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell were married January 22, 1925 in St. Mary's Catholic Church by the late Rev. Bernard Procise. Mr. and Mrs. Louis D'Allesandro were their attendants. Mrs. Russell is the former Miss Mary Talley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Raymond Talley, 33 Fifth Street. Mr. Russell is the son of Mrs. Marie Russell, 640 Shriver Avenue, and the late John C. Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell are the parents of seven children, Raymond N. Russell, city; Anthony J. Jr., Kenneth, Mary, Robert, Helen, and Margaret Louise, all at home. They have one grandchild.

Mr. Russell is an employe of the Cumberland Brewing Company.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Sizing on sheets and towels is a cover-up for poor quality. "Loaded" sheets are usually so sized to cover up loose weaving. Rub the material above a dark surface. If a powdery film shows, excess sizing has been used.

Woman's Civic Club Reports $2,794.73 Club House Fund

Reports and announcements were made and two guest speakers addressed members of the Woman's Civic Club at the monthly meeting yesterday afternoon in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house.

Mrs. William A. Douglas, chairman of the Club House Fund, reported $2,794.73 has been accumulated through the Ways and Means committee and also by contributions from members, and suggested that checks from individuals be mailed to Mrs. A. H. Hutcheson.

Mrs. Charles L. Kopp presided at the business session and appointed Mrs. Norman Taylor as the club's Traveler's Aid Society representative. She announced that the club has purchased a public address system and expressed appreciation for the mahogany lectern given to the club by Alec Buchanan.

The flag salute and the collect were led by Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, vice president. Mrs. Taylor gave her secretary's report and Mrs. Hutcheson gave a financial report. Mrs. A. W. Keight reported on the Christmas party, announcing that in addition to the gifts of nylon hose and ties, 52 lap robes and a wheel chair had been given to the County Home and the Infirmary.

A committee of three has been appointed to the Community Service Group Nurses' Scholarship fund, Mrs. Taylor reported. Mrs. Albert H. Hargreaves is chairman.

A meeting of the American Home Group was announced by Mrs. F. T. Bell. It will be January 28 at the Potomac Edison demonstration room, Union Street, at 2 p. m.

Reporting on the March of Dimes drive the evening of January 29, between 7 and 8 o'clock, Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, chairman, asked that persons wishing to contribute should leave a porch light burning to indicate their willingness to give.

Mrs. Kopp welcomed four new members and invited them to participate in the activities of the club. They are Mrs. Calvin S. Keiter, Mrs. Thomas H. Chappell, Mrs. Carl Goetz and Mrs. Richard W. Kirsch.

The Welfare Group was in charge of the program. Mrs. Keight introduced Judge Thomas J. S. Waxter, Baltimore, principal speaker, and a graduate of Princeton and Yale universities, as a "noted humanitarian."

In developing his subject, "Juvenile Delinquency," Judge Waxter said," We are back in the dark ages in the field of dealing with delinquents." A survey just completed indicates there is a big problem of delinquency developing in Maryland, which has twice as many children under 10 years of age now than in 1940. He stated that the court needs psychiatric facilities available in instances where it will help the child, a good probation service and good training schools. He emphasized the need to identify the children who may become delinquents and work with them. A discussion period followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Grim were also introduced by Mrs. Keight. The former, superintendent of the County Home and Infirmary, gave a history of these institutions from 1832 to the present time. He expressed appreciation of the club's contributions to the welfare of the patients.

Ladies Aid Re-Elects

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church re-elected officers at the meeting Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room.

Mrs. Raymond Hewitt was inducted as president; Mrs. Clarence Brotemarkle, vice president; Mrs. James Orr, secretary; Mrs. James Weakley, assistant secretary; and Mrs. George Seibert, treasurer.

Mrs. Harold Fishell was appointed pianist.

The group discussed plans for a bake sale and decided to hold it after Easter. Routine business was transacted.

An entertainment program was presented and consisted of four vocal solos by Mrs. Paul Gilford, with Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, Sr., at the piano and two readings by Mrs. A. E. Kesecker. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Howard Twigg and Mrs. William Judy, and their committee.

The next meeting will be held February 17 with Mrs. Bruce Scharf chairman of the social hour.

Mapleside Chairmen Are Named

Farmers To Hear Talks Concerning Cattle Outlook

A discussion of marketing problems and the 1954 outlook on dairy and beef markets will highlight the annual Farmers Meeting to be held in Hagerstown's Franklin Court auditorium today.

Farmers from portions of Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia will hear Dr. C. W. Pierce, professor of agricultural economics at Penn State College, discuss the outlook for dairy markets in 1954. Long associated with the dairy industry, Dr. Pierce will bring to his audience an intimate knowledge of dairy markets. He is recognized as an authority on the subject.

Beef cattle and their status for 1954 will be the topic of Harold Briemyer of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. As an agricultural economic statistician, Briemyer consistently addresses livestock and cattlemen's associations throughout the United States. He began work with the department in 1939 and for six years has had charge of the economic outlook investigations for livestock for the government.

Harold Houpt, Washington County farmer, has prepared colored slides of labor-saving dairy farm innovations he has made on his 196-acre tract.

Banks To Stay Open Monday Nights, 7 To 9

Effective February 1, Cumberland banks will be open for business on Monday nights from 7 to 9 p. m.

John H. Mosner, president of the Cumberland Clearing House, stated yesterday:

"This step, taken on a trial basis, will be continued only if our customers by their patronage show that they want these added hours of bank service."

Banks listed were Commercial Savings, Cumberland Savings, First National, Second National and the Liberty Trust Company, members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Jewish Congregation To Install Sunday

Beth Jacob Congregation will install officers Sunday in the vestry room following a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Taking office will be David Kauffman, president; Yale S. Lewine, vice president; Moe Sacks, treasurer; Harry Stein, secretary, and Robert Gerson, Robert Friedland and George Ossip, members of the Board of Trustees.

The Women's League will prepare the dinner under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sara Lewine, assisted by Mrs. Frances Lichtenstein and her committee.

Local Delegates To Attend Frederick Moose Conclave

Three Allegany County men will be among the 300 delegates to the three-day meeting of the Maryland Moose Association starting today in Frederick.

They are Frank J. Davis, this city, district supreme governor; Fuller Davis, of Frostburg, secretary of District 1, and Ray Smith, this city, president of District 1 of the association.

The association, which includes 38 lodges from Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, will have its headquarters at the Francis Scott Key Hotel.

Main speaker for the first day's evening session, a dinner meeting for state and supreme lodge officer delegates, will be Dr. H. C. Byrd, a director of Mooseheart and a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Maryland.

After an executive session Saturday morning, a noon luncheon will be held for governors of visiting lodges. Presiding will be J. Jack Stoehr, Pittsburgh, regional director for the Moose. He will introduce Otto W. Myers, of Mooseheart, Ill., as the guest speaker.

State Association President Maurice C. Brown, Silver Spring, will preside over the Saturday afternoon business session. That evening, an association dinner will be held in honor of Dr. A. C. Monninger, of Baltimore, past supreme governor of the Moose. The speaker will be Willard D. Campbell, of Mooseheart, present supreme governor.

The three-day session concludes on Sunday. After a fellowship breakfast and the third-degree initiation for 100 delegates at the Moose clubrooms, the meeting moves back to the hotel for the final session Sunday afternoon. Harry L. Howard, of Mooseheart, is in charge of the closing session.

$600,000 Is Recommended In Budget For Flood Work

President Eisenhower recommended yesterday in the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 that $600,000 be allocated to the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

But prospects for progress on the C&O Canal Parkway were dimmed when the President made no provision for the work.

The budget goes to the House of Representatives for action. However, it can be augmented or decreased in either the House or the Senate.

The National Parks Service, which planned the parkway from Washington to Cumberland originally had asked the director of the national budget to include enough money to build the Cumberland terminal and several miles of the highway eastward.

As far as flood control project is concerned, the amount of work that could be done with the $600,000 depends on Corps of Army Engineers plans.

Remaining on the work schedule are three phases in Wills creek channel, two phases in sections of the Potomac river channel, two sections of flood walls in Cumberland and Ridgeley and pumping stations at the B&O Viaduct over Wills creek and at Blue Spring.

Welfare Meet Slated Today

A meeting will be held this afternoon at the office of the Allegany County Welfare Board on Cumberland Street at which welfare problems and legislation will be discussed.

Attending will be Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, member of the Allegany County delegation to the House of Delegates and State Sen. Robert B. Kimble.

Members of the Allegany County Welfare Board who will attend include Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, chairman, William R. Carscaden, William H. Lewis, Earl C. Robertson, Mrs. William M. Somerville, Rev. Joseph W. Young and William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the Welfare Board here, will also attend.

Various welfare problems on a county level will be considered and Waxter will discuss the budget for the state agency and problems as they affect Allegany County.

Claims He Is Victim Of Mistaken Identity

Bruce Walter Paetow, 314 Waverly Terrace, a driver for Yellow Top Taxi Cab Company, states that published accounts regarding the arrest of Irvin Amial Paetow for burglary in Washington, have caused him some embarrassment.

Bruce Paetow explains that Irvin Paetow is his brother and people here, since the account was published, have confused the two. Bruce explains that he has never been in any trouble, is married, has two small children and is an honorably discharged Navy veteran. He has been driving a cab here for seven years except for about four months recently when he worked at Fisher Body Company plant in Baltimore. Furloughed there, he returned to Cumberland and resumed cab driving.

He explained that because he was away when accounts of his brother's arrest were printed, many people incorrectly think he was the Paetow involved.

Overheated Grill Ignites

Central firemen were called Wednesday at 6:45 a. m. to the Windsor Restaurant, 158 Baltimore Street, when an overheated grill caught fire. Slight damage was reported.

Textile Workers Union To Hold Annual Election

The annual election of officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Balloting will be held at the Textile Hall on North Mechanic Street from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day; at shift changes at the union booth at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation; at the pay lines on Monday at the plant from 10:30 a. m. to noon, at lunch periods at the CA and Block 5 Textile cafeterias and at the main cafeteria during the lunch period on daylight shift.

There are six candidates for president — Earl Snyder, a past president; James Stewart, Neil Toey, incumbent; Playford Aldridge, a former president; Harry Carns and Homer Berry.

Irvin Lewis, incumbent, Thomas Powers and William Atkinson will be candidates for vice president. John G. Thomas and Melvin Harris, incumbent, will be candidates for business manager; Neff Herring and Charles E. Jones, for recording secretary; Ira McBride, Vito Dormio, Glenn Campbell, Lindy Dye, Evelyn Morgan, John Powell, James Boyland, and Walter Ensminger will be candidates for the five posts on the executive board.

Russell Clites, James McGann, Earl Walker and Carl Sherman are candidates for trustees. There are only four candidates for the five places open as trustees.

Francis Harvey, Walter Mahaney and Howard Wagner are candidates for the post of warden.

The election is being conducted by a committee of the union. In previous years the Honest Ballot Association of New York conducted the balloting.

County Fourth In Bond Sales

Allegany County ranked fourth in Maryland in the purchase of E and H savings bonds in 1953, according to Lynn C. Lashley, county chairman.

Sales totaled $2,480,108 as compared to $2,120,881 for the previous year. It represented an increase of 16.9 per cent.

Counties topping Allegany were: Baltimore, $6,232,777; Washington, $2,511,409, and Montgomery, $2,483,914.

Garrett County sales amounted to $223,151, an increase of 1.37 per cent.

The Allegany quota was $2,900,000 which means the county attained 85.4 per cent of the goal set for it. Washington County, which ranked second in the matter of quota with 107.9 per cent, had a goal of only $2,326,000.

Garrett County had a quota of $380,000 and ranked 21st with a percentage of 58.8.

December sales in Allegany were $208,578.

For the most part quotas have been upped for 1954. The Allegany goal is $3,175,700; Washington $2,940,900, and Garrett $371,000.

New Class Of 16 Initiated By Elks

Cumberland Lodge 63, B.P.O. Elks, Wednesday continued its observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of its present home by initiating a class of 16 candidates.

About 250 members, including 50 members of Hagerstown Lodge and delegations from Frostburg and Frederick, attended the session.

A buffet luncheon and informal program followed.

Rubber Workers To Select Chairman

A run off election to select a chairman for Division 4 of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), will be held tomorrow at 7 p. m. at the union hall, according to William Rice, president.

I. S. Muir and Joseph Burke tied in the balloting recently. Rice also said Stanley Zorich will attend the convention of District 1 in Dayton, Ohio, on March 5, 6 and 7 as a member of the district board.

Cantons are the names given to the states in the Swiss confederacy.

17 Injured In City Accidents In December

Seventeen persons, including 10 pedestrians, were hurt in 31 traffic accidents here last month.

Chief R. Emmett Flynn said damage resulting from motor mishaps during December amounted to $6,733 as compared with $9,515 for the same period in 1952. Forty-nine vehicles were involved.

Of the injured, six were children under the age of 10. Police investigated 21 accidents and made 16 arrests for state motor law violations. Fines and bond forfeitures totaled $345.

A breakdown of areas showed:

Section 1, Central business district—10 accidents, five hurt; Secton 2, North End—six mishaps, five injured; Section 3, East Side—two accidents, none hurt; Section 4, South End—eight mishaps, four injured; Section 5, West Side—five accidents, three hurt.

Ten accidents occurred on Friday. Totals for other days were Monday, three; Tuesday, five; Wednesday, two; Thursday, four; Saturday, three, and Sunday, four. Probable causes of mishaps included:

Improper passing, three; drinking, four; recklessness, six; pedestrians, seven, and failing to give the right of way, eight. The courtesy meter was used 231 times.

Parking violations totaled 633 in comparison to 798 for December, 1952. There were 24 state cases including six drunken driving arrests.

Religion Today

American Religious Leaders Contend Nation, Like Man, Should Not Always Do As It Pleases

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—One of the prominent tenets being preached from American pulpits today is this: that a nation, like a man, should not always do as it pleases.

Around this view revolves a basic issue of the times. It has stirred wide discussion, usually under the labels of "internationalism" versus "nationalism."

Hundreds of religious leaders have entered the fray, asserting that a fundamental law of God is involved.

Most of them hold that the nation's decisions should be guided by the interests of all peoples everywhere. But they grant many Americans see national self-interest as the governing rule.

"There is mounting evidence," says a recent interdenominational report, "of a resurgent . . . moral isolationism which fails to recognize our dependence on other peoples or our responsibility to them."

Such an attitude, denominational leaders say, is contrary to "God's order."

All this touches on some currently acute matters, such as foreign aid programs and cooperative projects of the United Nations. But it also raises some general questions concerning "national sovereignty":

Can a nation justly stand aloff, steadfastly dedicated only to its own welfare, doing whatever is best for itself, regardless of others?

Or must it become enmeshed in the troubles, needs and opinions of other lands, with its "sovereignty" morally limited by these considerations?

Representatives of most major churches, at a recent national conference, declared the nation should recognize it is "bound together in mutual responsibility with all others whom God made and loves."

"The key word for this generation," they said, "is neither dependence nor independence but interdependence."

They back their stand with Christian doctrine, which can be summarized as follows:

1. God is the supreme sovereign of all nations, "the Lord of history, the ruler of men and nations" and has set forth universal laws applicable to all.

2. Among these laws is the equal worth of all men under God. He plays no favorites. "There is neither Jew, nor Greek, nor slave, nor free, for God shows no partiality."

3. A nation, to abide by this universal law, must give consideration to the welfare of all lands and peoples. Otherwise, it "falls short of the ethical demands of the Christian faith."

These factors, as church leaders see it, mean a nation's policies should be "broad enough to include the rights, needs and interests of other nations and peoples, including those we now count as hostile."

The churchmen, using biblical doctrine, also make a case for generous foreign aid programs. The reasoning went like this:

1. A nation's power, technological skills and spiritual resources "are a trust from God."

2. Since these gifts come from God, they should be used in his interests, which includes all mankind.

3. Furthermore, "plenty for the few and want for the many cannot be reconciled with the law of love. . . . The moral obligation to feed the hungry and heal the sick is not rendered inoperative by geographical distance."

The denominational leaders also maintained the nation should be willing to adjust its own opinions with opinions of other nations, and cited these religious precepts:

1. All men and nations "are limited and sinful" and thus often wrong.

2. A Christian, therefore should "preach an humble awareness of the temptations of national pride and the actuality of national limitations and sin."

3. A nation, recognizing these things, should "remain open to and even welcome the restraints which other nations provide."

"It is for us to remember," the 500 representatives of 30 denominations said, "that no nation is good enough or wise enough to go its way without a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

The conclusions were contained in a half dozen reports, many of which will find their way in pamphlet form into local churches across the country.

One report noted that the churches "with almost complete accord" have affirmed the mutual responsibility of nations to each other, but it added:

"There is a yawning chasm between the affirmation of our national religious bodies on the one hand and the actual convictions and behavior of many of our people on the other."

Frequent attacks on the U. N. and its agencies, and reluctance to listen to opposing views of other nations indicate this condition, the churchmen said, remarking:

"Americans are used to having their own way."

The churchmen emphasized the nation has legitimate interests of its own which must be safeguarded and basic convictions that must not be compromised, but they said:

"A nation that considers only its own self-interest will inevitably conceive it too narrowly. As Christians, we are called upon to remind the nation of God's truth that 'he who loseth his life shall find it'. Only by going beyond self-interest shall we serve even this interest fully. The service of the welfare of the whole human community is not a violation of our national interest but rather is essential to our well-being as a nation."

News From Russia Hits Postwar Peak

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — The Associated Press produced more news out of Russia last year than in any other since the end of World War II, AP President Robert McLean said today.

McLean said this was coincident with the death of Stalin but that "it also reflected staff enterprise, some unusual cooperation by AP members and some easing of restrictions by the Soviet government."

He issued his statement at the close of the mid-winter meeting of the Board of Directors of The Associated Press, worldwide newsgathering cooperative.

"Censorship and other barriers to a free exchange of information continue to darken a large part of the world," McLean said. "Despite these handicaps, the year just closed was a notable one for news."

Doc Townsend, 87, In Better Health Than Pension Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — It came as a surprise today to learn that both old Doc Townsend and his pension plan still are alive and moderately healthy.

But they are, and Dr. Francis E. Townsend is in town to prove it.

Of the two, the doctor, who has just turned 87, appears to be in the better condition. "I'm in better health today than I have been in 50 years," he said.

But the Townsend Plan, which has just turned 25, seems a mite peaked.

Townsend said the $2-a-year memberships don't roll in as they once did, back in depression days. He wouldn't say what the present enrollment is, though.

The Townsend Plan has been before Congress for something like 18 years, and Congress hasn't passed it yet.

Still, the doctor is optimistic. That's because he thinks he scents a recession—"They're laying men off by the thousands in Detroit"—and he figures a recession may scare Congress into passing the legislation he wants.

The plan hasn't changed much during the years. Townsend wants a tax on gross income, with the returns to be passed around to the aged and the infirm.

He used to advocate a 3 per cent tax but now he thinks 2 per cent will do the job.

But of Townsend and his plan, the doctor seemed, to this reporter at least, to be by far the more interesting.

He's an alert 87, with an opinion on almost everything. Sample opinion:

On Congress—"There are too many lawyers in Congress. And there isn't one in 20 who has gone through any real hardship. I think we'd be better off if we had 50 per cent women in Congress. Mature women would look at all legislation through the eyes of the family, the mother."

The 1950 census of the United States shows the foreign-born population concentrated in a few areas—New York with a quarter of all citizens over 21 foreign born and the Carolinas with only six-tenths of one per cent of their citizens foreign born, for example.

A river and creek at Spokane, Wash., are spanned by 34 bridges.

Religion Today

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—One of the prominent tenets being preached from American pulpits today is this: that a nation, like a man, should not always do as it pleases.

Around this view revolves a basic issue of the times. It has stirred wide discussion, usually under the labels of "internationalism" versus "nationalism."

Hundreds of religious leaders have entered the fray, asserting that a fundamental law of God is involved.

Most of them hold that the nation's decisions should be guided by the interests of all peoples everywhere. But they grant many Americans see national self-interest as the governing rule.

"There is mounting evidence," says a recent interdenominational report, "of a resurgent . . . moral isolationism which fails to recognize our dependence on other peoples or our responsibility to them."

Such an attitude, denominational leaders say, is contrary to "God's order."

All this touches on some currently acute matters, such as foreign aid programs and cooperative projects of the United Nations. But it also raises some general questions concerning "national sovereignty":

Can a nation justly stand aloff, steadfastly dedicated only to its own welfare, doing whatever is best for itself, regardless of others?

Or must it become enmeshed in the troubles, needs and opinions of other lands, with its "sovereignty" morally limited by these considerations?

Representatives of most major churches, at a recent national conference, declared the nation should recognize it is "bound together in mutual responsibility with all others whom God made and loves."

"The key word for this generation," they said, "is neither dependence nor independence but interdependence."

They back their stand with Christian doctrine, which can be summarized as follows:

1. God is the supreme sovereign of all nations, "the Lord of history, the ruler of men and nations" and has set forth universal laws applicable to all.

2. Among these laws is the equal worth of all men under God. He plays no favorites. "There is neither Jew, nor Greek, nor slave, nor free, for God shows no partiality."

3. A nation, to abide by this universal law, must give consideration to the welfare of all lands and peoples. Otherwise, it "falls short of the ethical demands of the Christian faith."

These factors, as church leaders see it, mean a nation's policies should be "broad enough to include the rights, needs and interests of other nations and peoples, including those we now count as hostile."

The churchmen, using biblical doctrine, also make a case for generous foreign aid programs. The reasoning went like this:

1. A nation's power, technological skills and spiritual resources "are a trust from God."

2. Since these gifts come from God, they should be used in his interests, which includes all mankind.

3. Furthermore, "plenty for the few and want for the many cannot be reconciled with the law of love. . . . The moral obligation to feed the hungry and heal the sick is not rendered inoperative by geographical distance."

The denominational leaders also maintained the nation should be willing to adjust its own opinions with opinions of other nations, and cited these religious precepts:

1. All men and nations "are limited and sinful" and thus often wrong.

2. A Christian, therefore should "preach an humble awareness of the temptations of national pride and the actuality of national limitations and sin."

3. A nation, recognizing these things, should "remain open to and even welcome the restraints which other nations provide."

"It is for us to remember," the 500 representatives of 30 denominations said, "that no nation is good enough or wise enough to go its way without a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

The conclusions were contained in a half dozen reports, many of which will find their way in pamphlet form into local churches across the country.

One report noted that the churches "with almost complete accord" have affirmed the mutual responsibility of nations to each other, but it added:

"There is a yawning chasm between the affirmation of our national religious bodies on the one hand and the actual convictions and behavior of many of our people on the other."

Frequent attacks on the U. N. and its agencies, and reluctance to listen to opposing views of other nations indicate this condition, the churchmen said, remarking:

"Americans are used to having their own way."

The churchmen emphasized the nation has legitimate interests of its own which must be safeguarded and basic convictions that must not be compromised, but they said:

"A nation that considers only its own self-interest will inevitably conceive it too narrowly. As Christians, we are called upon to remind the nation of God's truth that 'he who loseth his life shall find it'. Only by going beyond self-interest shall we serve even this interest fully. The service of the welfare of the whole human community is not a violation of our national interest but rather is essential to our well-being as a nation."

News From Russia Hits Postwar Peak

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — The Associated Press produced more news out of Russia last year than in any other since the end of World War II, AP President Robert McLean said today.

McLean said this was coincident with the death of Stalin but that "it also reflected staff enterprise, some unusual cooperation by AP members and some easing of restrictions by the Soviet government."

He issued his statement at the close of the mid-winter meeting of the Board of Directors of The Associated Press, worldwide newsgathering cooperative.

"Censorship and other barriers to a free exchange of information continue to darken a large part of the world," McLean said. "Despite these handicaps, the year just closed was a notable one for news."

Doc Townsend, 87, In Better Health Than Pension Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — It came as a surprise today to learn that both old Doc Townsend and his pension plan still are alive and moderately healthy.

But they are, and Dr. Francis E. Townsend is in town to prove it.

Of the two, the doctor, who has just turned 87, appears to be in the better condition. "I'm in better health today than I have been in 50 years," he said.

But the Townsend Plan, which has just turned 25, seems a mite peaked.

Townsend said the $2-a-year memberships don't roll in as they once did, back in depression days. He wouldn't say what the present enrollment is, though.

The Townsend Plan has been before Congress for something like 18 years, and Congress hasn't passed it yet.

Still, the doctor is optimistic. That's because he thinks he scents a recession—"They're laying men off by the thousands in Detroit"—and he figures a recession may scare Congress into passing the legislation he wants.

The plan hasn't changed much during the years. Townsend wants a tax on gross income, with the returns to be passed around to the aged and the infirm.

He used to advocate a 3 per cent tax but now he thinks 2 per cent will do the job.

But of Townsend and his plan, the doctor seemed, to this reporter at least, to be by far the more interesting.

He's an alert 87, with an opinion on almost everything. Sample opinion:

On Congress—"There are too many lawyers in Congress. And there isn't one in 20 who has gone through any real hardship. I think we'd be better off if we had 50 per cent women in Congress. Mature women would look at all legislation through the eyes of the family, the mother."

The 1950 census of the United States shows the foreign-born population concentrated in a few areas—New York with a quarter of all citizens over 21 foreign born and the Carolinas with only six-tenths of one per cent of their citizens foreign born, for example.

A river and creek at Spokane, Wash., are spanned by 34 bridges.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — I have just been informed by Chairman Chauncey Reed of the House Judiciary Committee of my appointment to his important subcommittee No. 1, which has jurisdiction over all immigration and nationality matters coming before Congress.

The more I study President Eisenhower's plan to strip citizenship from convicted Communist conspirators, the better it looks.

When the President made the proposal in his State of the Union message, some confusion developed over the impression that convicted felons are always denied the right to vote, etc., hence there was nothing new in the plan.

After checking with top legal authorities in the White House and the Justice Department, I am able to report the facts of the case.

It's true that convicted robbers and murderers and the like are denied the right to vote, serve on juries, or hold public office. Since 1940 we've had the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to advocate the overthrow of the government, and the people convicted under the Smith Act have been treated like any other felons.

But President Eisenhower, who evidently knows how to really get tough with the Communists, would put them in the position of voluntarily expatriating themselves if they take part in such a conspiracy. It puts them in the same spot as convicted traitors, draft evaders, or deserters from the armed forces.

Expatriates are men without a country. If they stay in the U.S., they are treated like aliens — they always have to keep the government notified of where they are, and some states won't even let them own property or engage in certain business activities. And if they ever leave the country, they can never get back in.

There is another twist to this that very few people realize. If a convicted conspirator had any children who happened to be born outside the U.S., and his wife was not a citizen, the children might find it difficult to get the American citizenship to which they would otherwise be entitled upon reaching 21. Thus the stigma of participating in a conspiracy against our nation could be passed along, and I think there should be an exemption in any forthcoming law to prevent this.

Senator Margaret Smith has already introduced a bill to carry out President Eisenhower's request. In my opinion it deserves the support of every senator and congressman regardless of his party.

Next Wednesday I will be the guest of the American Legion at its annual Congressional dinner in Washington's Mayflower Hotel.

LB L. BERNSTEIN 9-11 N. CENTRE ST.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — I have just been informed by Chairman Chauncey Reed of the House Judiciary Committee of my appointment to his important subcommittee No. 1, which has jurisdiction over all immigration and nationality matters coming before Congress.

The more I study President Eisenhower's plan to strip citizenship from convicted Communist conspirators, the better it looks.

When the President made the proposal in his State of the Union message, some confusion developed over the impression that convicted felons are always denied the right to vote, etc., hence there was nothing new in the plan.

After checking with top legal authorities in the White House and the Justice Department, I am able to report the facts of the case.

It's true that convicted robbers and murderers and the like are denied the right to vote, serve on juries, or hold public office. Since 1940 we've had the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to advocate the overthrow of the government, and the people convicted under the Smith Act have been treated like any other felons.

But President Eisenhower, who evidently knows how to really get tough with the Communists, would put them in the position of voluntarily expatriating themselves if they take part in such a conspiracy. It puts them in the same spot as convicted traitors, draft evaders, or deserters from the armed forces.

Expatriates are men without a country. If they stay in the U.S., they are treated like aliens — they always have to keep the government notified of where they are, and some states won't even let them own property or engage in certain business activities. And if they ever leave the country, they can never get back in.

There is another twist to this that very few people realize. If a convicted conspirator had any children who happened to be born outside the U.S., and his wife was not a citizen, the children might find it difficult to get the American citizenship to which they would otherwise be entitled upon reaching 21. Thus the stigma of participating in a conspiracy against our nation could be passed along, and I think there should be an exemption in any forthcoming law to prevent this.

Senator Margaret Smith has already introduced a bill to carry out President Eisenhower's request. In my opinion it deserves the support of every senator and congressman regardless of his party.

Next Wednesday I will be the guest of the American Legion at its annual Congressional dinner in Washington's Mayflower Hotel.

Thrifty Pork Treats For Hearty Appetites

These are happy days for pork lovers. Plentiful supplies and attractive prices indicate that many good-tasting pork dishes will star in winter menus.

Pork, one of the budget's best friends these days, offers an abundance of economy buys to delight the pocketbook and the palate. One of the most economical cuts is pork shoulder, in the form of either roasts or steaks.

Here's a tempting pork shoulder steak dish in which the steaks are baked with a tasty topping of rice and vegetables.

Pork Steak Stacks

4 pork shoulder steaks
Salt, pepper, flour
1 cup cooked rice (⅓ cup uncooked)
4 slices tomato (½ inch thick)
4 slices onion (¼ inch thick)
4 teaspoons chopped green pepper
Marjoram, thyme (optional)
1 can sliced mushroom (optional)

Trim a little fat from edges of the pork steaks and fry out in a large skillet. Remove pieces. Sprinkle steaks with salt and pepper; flour and brown in the hot fat. Remove steaks to a roasting pan. On each steak, place ¼ cup cooked rice, 1 slice tomato, 1 slice onion and 1 teaspoon green pepper. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, marjoram and thyme. Top with well drained mushrooms and add water to cover bottom of pan. Cover and bake at 350°F. for 1 hour. Add more water as needed. Baste steaks several times during cooking with liquid in bottom of pan. Serve with some of the drippings spooned over meat and vegetables. 4 servings.

Another Pork Shoulder Treat

Here's another homekitchen tested dish featuring thrifty pork shoulder. Cubes of pork shoulder meat are cooked until tender, then combined with sauerkraut and sour cream. This old-world custom of combining two sour foods results in a pleasantly rich-flavored combination.

Savory Pork And Sauerkraut

1½ pounds pork shoulder meat
½ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon caraway seed
½ cup water
1 No. 303 can sauerkraut (2 cups)
½ cup sour cream
2 teaspoons sugar

Remove excess fat from pork; cut pork into ½ inch cubes. In a skillet or Dutch oven, heat 2 tablespoons lard or other fat and in it cook onions until golden brown. Sprinkle with paprika and push to one side. Brown pork cubes lightly and add salt, caraway seed and water. Simmer, covered, over low heat until tender, about 1 hour, adding more water as needed to prevent sticking. Add sauerkraut, sour cream and sugar; cook, covered, for 15 minutes, adding a little water if necessary. 6 servings.

Perfect Pork Chops

Quick Barbecued Pork Chops

4 pork chops
Salt and pepper
4 slices onion (¼ inch thick)
1 tablespoon brown sugar
½ cup catsup
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Cut a little fat from the edges of pork chops and fry out in a heavy skillet. Remove pieces. Brown chops on both sides in the hot fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and top each chop with a slice of onion. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Combine catsup and lemon juice and pour over chops. Add a little water to cover bottom of skillet. Cover and cook over low heat until tender, about 1 hour, adding a little water if needed to prevent sticking. 4 servings.

You can have a simple, but oh so tasty dessert, by combining frozen peaches and frozen strawberries. Just defrost the two packages of fruit, combine them and top each serving with a dobble of prepared sour cream. Such wonderful fresh flavor!

Make Pizza From Toasted Muffins And Sardines

As the popularity of pizza parties zooms upward, pizza-devotees are dreaming up more and more ways to make this popular Italian food without going to the trouble of starting from scratch. One of the most successful quick-pizza ideas is to use toasted English muffins as the base, because the true pizza is a yeast-raised bread, and so is the English muffin. Here's a pizza suggestion — a true quickie, because you make it with canned sardines, ready to use the instant the can is opened. Beer, of course, is the beverage that most often accompanies pizzas.

Sardine Pizzas

2 cans Maine Sardines, drained
1 8-oz. can tomatoes, drained
4 English muffins, split and toasted
8 slices American cheese
Lemon wedges

Spread the tomatoes on the toasted muffins. Top each with a slice of cheese and one or two sardines. Broil until cheese melts. Serve the muffins hot, with lemon wedges. Makes 8 servings.

How To Eat What You Want And Be Thin As You Like

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

You can too eat, drink and be merry — and lose weight, according to Thyra Samter Winslow in her sensible, complete new book, "The Winslow Weight Watcher" (Abelard Press).

The trick is, you've got to do just that — watch your weight. Says the author:

"You can diet successfully only if you eat a balanced diet that will give you strength and health — only if you eat foods you enjoy, and have enough interests in life outside of your meals so that you don't dwell on food and on appetite, except at meals or in the preparation of meals . . ."

Miss Winslow believes that if a dieter makes up her own menus from the amounts that should be eaten of proteins, fats and carbohydrates, she'll be eating foods she likes and losing weight as a result. She doesn't offer magic formulas for 10-day, 14-day or any-other-day diets. She presents the facts showing you the amount of starch, sugar and protein contained in food you should have. Thus you construct your own diet along a basic good-eating plan.

She does suggest that there could be some change in the selection of foods and that dietetic foods, in particular, are overlooked frequently by dieting shoppers. There are sugar and salt substitutes, for instance. There are soft and hard candy drops available. The hard candies have only five calories each, according to Miss Winslow, and come in pocket-size cartons. A soft chocolate cream-filled candy may be had at the price of only seven calories. The same company also manufactures a tasty cheese nibblet, a good cookie and a high protein melba toast, she says. Another melba toast is nine calories.

For that one starch dish with dinner there is dietetic spaghetti or macaroni. An imported flat bread from Norway is made of barley, wheat, salt and yeast that is high in protein but only 12 calories a wafer.

Ordinary pot cheese, low in calories, is wonderful for dieters, she claims. Skimmed milk may be used for eating with cereals, cooking or drinking. Defatted wheat germ is another heathful possibility. There is a yeast preparation that tastes exactly like bacon, good with scrambled eggs, omelets or in any cooking where a bacon flavor is desired. It contains no salt, sugar, meat or fat and will even appeal to Southerners who enjoy their green beans with good bacon flavor.

A food supplement made of whole bone-meal flour and red bone marrow has been made palatable by many firms, Miss Winslow says, and is available at health stores if not at your neighborhood grocer — although he can get it. She suggests using this in meat loaves, hamburgers, diet fruit cakes, fillings and gravies. Miss Winslow cites Cowdry's "Problems of Aging", edited by Lansing, advising older people to have bowls of bone meal, yeast or wheat germ on the table as if they were sugar bowls, sprinkling them on food.

Frozen vegetables are considered excellent, she says. Dietetic canned foods can be useful in controlling weight, also. Water-packed canned fruits, instead of the usual syrup-packed varieties are ideal for weight watchers. Diet jellies, applesauce and even cranberry sauce may be had. Even breakfast foods may be found in the diet category.

Sugar-free beverages are available. The cherry flavor may be used to flavor plain gelatin and the ginger ale to perk up a vegetable aspic.

Canned meats and seafoods also may be found in the diet division.

If any of these foods seem to lack sweetening or salt, use a sugar or salt substitute to jazz them up.

Too few women understand foods, and many of those who do know are too stupid or lazy or stubborn to learn, Miss Winslow believes. Sometimes when they are conscious-stricken after months of dinners heavy with white bread and bakery cakes, the entire family will be put on an unpalatable diet with nobody getting enough to eat. The husband rebels and his wife explains: "My husband is a meat and potato man. He just won't diet."

If a housewife would learn about foods — how to make low-calorie foods interesting, without white sauces, white bread and the frying pan, the family could get used to the diet idea, she says.

A glamorous beginning such as a thin soup, salad, relish or seafood will make a meal seem important. Meat loaf may be made with ¼ of its quantity in soy or wheat germ flour. Meat pie crust is just as good with whole wheat flour. Hot sliced baked apples beflavored with a sugar substitute, and cinnamon, topped with a cube of cheddar cheese. He'll never know the difference unless you tell him. And that would be a big mistake, according to the author.

Vegetable Growers May Reduce Fertilizer

COLLEGE PARK — Maryland vegetable growers may be able to reduce their 1954 fertilizer bill because 1953 was a dry year.

Andy Duncan, Extension horticulturist at the University of Maryland, explains that heavy rains wash fertilizer out of the soil and because the 1953 rainfall was lower than average there was more fertilizer left in the soil at the end of the season than usual. This means that less fertilizer than usual will be needed in the early part of 1954.

The vegetable crop specialist says that soil tests should be made to determine fertilizer needs on all soils where vegetables are grown. He points out that soil tests are more important on intensively cultivated truck farms than on general farms because of the large amounts of high analysis fertilizers used to grow vegetables.

How To Eat What You Want And Be Thin As You Like

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

You can too eat, drink and be merry — and lose weight, according to Thyra Samter Winslow in her sensible, complete new book, "The Winslow Weight Watcher" (Abelard Press).

The trick is, you've got to do just that — watch your weight. Says the author:

"You can diet successfully only if you eat a balanced diet that will give you strength and health — only if you eat foods you enjoy, and have enough interests in life outside of your meals so that you don't dwell on food and on appetite, except at meals or in the preparation of meals . . ."

Miss Winslow believes that if a dieter makes up her own menus from the amounts that should be eaten of proteins, fats and carbohydrates, she'll be eating foods she likes and losing weight as a result. She doesn't offer magic formulas for 10-day, 14-day or any-other-day diets. She presents the facts showing you the amount of starch, sugar and protein contained in food you should have. Thus you construct your own diet along a basic good-eating plan.

She does suggest that there could be some change in the selection of foods and that dietetic foods, in particular, are overlooked frequently by dieting shoppers. There are sugar and salt substitutes, for instance. There are soft and hard candy drops available. The hard candies have only five calories each, according to Miss Winslow, and come in pocket-size cartons. A soft chocolate cream-filled candy may be had at the price of only seven calories. The same company also manufactures a tasty cheese nibblet, a good cookie and a high protein melba toast, she says. Another melba toast is nine calories.

For that one starch dish with dinner there is dietetic spaghetti or macaroni. An imported flat bread from Norway is made of barley, wheat, salt and yeast that is high in protein but only 12 calories a wafer.

Ordinary pot cheese, low in calories, is wonderful for dieters, she claims. Skimmed milk may be used for eating with cereals, cooking or drinking. Defatted wheat germ is another heathful possibility. There is a yeast preparation that tastes exactly like bacon, good with scrambled eggs, omelets or in any cooking where a bacon flavor is desired. It contains no salt, sugar, meat or fat and will even appeal to Southerners who enjoy their green beans with good bacon flavor.

A food supplement made of whole bone-meal flour and red bone marrow has been made palatable by many firms, Miss Winslow says, and is available at health stores if not at your neighborhood grocer — although he can get it. She suggests using this in meat loaves, hamburgers, diet fruit cakes, fillings and gravies. Miss Winslow cites Cowdry's "Problems of Aging", edited by Lansing, advising older people to have bowls of bone meal, yeast or wheat germ on the table as if they were sugar bowls, sprinkling them on food.

Frozen vegetables are considered excellent, she says. Dietetic canned foods can be useful in controlling weight, also. Water-packed canned fruits, instead of the usual syrup-packed varieties are ideal for weight watchers. Diet jellies, applesauce and even cranberry sauce may be had. Even breakfast foods may be found in the diet category.

Sugar-free beverages are available. The cherry flavor may be used to flavor plain gelatin and the ginger ale to perk up a vegetable aspic.

Canned meats and seafoods also may be found in the diet division.

If any of these foods seem to lack sweetening or salt, use a sugar or salt substitute to jazz them up.

Too few women understand foods, and many of those who do know are too stupid or lazy or stubborn to learn, Miss Winslow believes. Sometimes when they are conscious-stricken after months of dinners heavy with white bread and bakery cakes, the entire family will be put on an unpalatable diet with nobody getting enough to eat. The husband rebels and his wife explains: "My husband is a meat and potato man. He just won't diet."

Louisiana Yams Offer Valuable Nutrients

Pot roast, an old-time favorite, becomes a company specialty prepared with Louisiana yams. Rich in vitamins A, B-1, B-2 and C, vital minerals and carbohydrates, yams make nourishing meals.

Yam Pot Roast Dinner

(Makes 6 servings)

4 pounds beef pot roast
Flour, salt, pepper
¼ cup melted fat
½ cup chopped onions
⅓ cup horse-radish
6 medium-sized Louisiana yams, peeled*
8-10 small onions, peeled
4 stalks celery, chopped
1 10-ounce package frozen cut green beans
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ cup cold water
1½ tablespoons horse-radish
Salt and pepper

Dredge roast in flour, salt and pepper. Brown in melted fat. Add chopped onions; cook 5 minutes. Add ⅓ cup horse-radish and 2 cups water. Cover and cook 3 hours. Add vegetables; cover. Cook 30 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables. Combine flour and cold water; gradually add to stock and cook stirring until thickened. Add 1½ tablespoons horse-radish and salt and pepper to taste.

* Two No. 2 cans yams may be used, if desired. Drain and add 5 minutes before end of cooking period.

Yams For The Youngsters

Meals for the small fry must be nourishing, and this is particularly important during the cold winter months when extra energy is being consumed in active play and study. To tempt young appetites which are likely to lag when the main course is served, eye appeal can do much to create interest in the meal. Why not plan to serve bright orange-gold yams from Louisiana with the sweet mellow flavor that always makes a hit with children? Mothers are glad to know one medium-sized Louisiana yam fresh or canned supplies the daily requirement of vitamin A in addition to the B-1, B-2 and C vitamins and minerals and carbohydrates.

Southern Yams and Chicken will be enthusiastically welcomed by the young members of the family, and will be enjoyed by all.

Southern Yams and Chicken

(Makes 4 servings)

1 3-pound frying chicken
Salt and pepper to taste
All-purpose flour
4 medium-sized Louisiana yams
Fat

Clean chicken and cut into serving pieces. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; dredge with flour. Peel yams and cut into slices one-inch thick. Cook yams in shallow fat until browned on all sides. Remove yams and brown chicken. Arrange yams over chicken. Cover and cook over low heat 1 hour, or until chicken is tender.

For a dinner plate to boast color and appetite appeal serve the yams and chicken with buttered spinach and tiny whole beets.

A Superb Dressing For Your Turkey

The dressing you make to stuff your turkey or chicken, can make or break your reputation as a cook. So take no chances when it comes to making that turkey stuffing. Use this positively perfect rice and sausage dressing and you will receive toast after toast for being a connoisseur when it comes to "know how with the cooking spoon."

INGREDIENTS:

¼ lb. sausage meat
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
4 cups cooked rice
½ teaspoon sage
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
3 tablespoons water

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 5 cups of white, fluffy, perfectly cooked rice:

1. Put 1½ cups uncooked rice, 3 cups of cold water and 1½ teaspoons of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil.

2. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking.

3. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Remove from the heat. The rice is now ready to use.

For extra fluffy, tender, separate grains allow the rice to steam for an additional 10 minutes—with heat off, but without removing lid.

For extra convenience and economy of time and effort, cook 2 cups of rice, 4 cups of water and 2 teaspoons of salt—keeping the extra cupes of usued ready-cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. Use this rice as needed in quick delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Cook the sausage meat until slightly brown, breaking it into small pieces as it cooks. Add the onion and celery and continue cooking until the onion begins to turn a yellowish color. Add the cooked rice, sage, salt and pepper to taste, depending upon how highly seasoned the sausage meat is. Add the water. This recipe makes 4 cups of stuffing.

Allow ¾ cup of stuffing for each pound of poultry, dressed weight, or 1 cup for each pound ready-to-cook weight. Fill the cavity of the bird lightly. As the juices are absorbed the stuffing will expand. Overpacking results in a compact stuffing and may cause the bird to burst.

For safest results, stuffing should be mixed just before the bird is to be stuffed. If it is necessary to hold the stuffed bird before roasting, the stuffing should be chilled before used, and the clean stuffed bird should be refrigerated. The stuffed bird should not be held in the refrigerator for more than four hours.

Lamb Riblets Make Thrifty Barbecue Dish

Barbecued meat fanciers — and the number of this group is great—will delight in this lamb dish, barbecued lamb riblets. The flavor of this meat lends itself perfectly to a spicy barbecue sauce, adding up to plenty of good eating.

Lamb riblets are a thrifty choice also. They are prepared from a lamb roast, corresponding to spareribs in pork. Your market man removes the breast bone, then cuts down between the ribs resulting in the riblets. These are cooked by braising, thus ideal for preparing in a zestful barbecue sauce.

According to Reba Staggs, home economist, to prepare this dish brown the riblets first in lard or drippings. Then add your favorite barbecue sauce. Cover them closely and let the meat cook slowly until tender, from 1½ to 2 hours. Serve the riblets over boiled rice.

Here is an easy way to give frozen green beans an intriguing flavor. Cook the beans with a few mushrooms; drain, add a little sour cream and a few English walnuts. An extra special dish—without extra work.

Clean chicken and cut into serving pieces. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; dredge with flour. Peel yams and cut into slices one-inch thick. Cook yams in shallow fat until browned on all sides. Remove yams and brown chicken. Arrange yams over chicken. Cover and cook over low heat 1 hour, or until chicken is tender.

For a dinner plate to boast color and appetite appeal serve the yams and chicken with buttered spinach and tiny whole beets.

A Superb Dressing For Your Turkey

The dressing you make to stuff your turkey or chicken, can make or break your reputation as a cook. So take no chances when it comes to making that turkey stuffing. Use this positively perfect rice and sausage dressing and you will receive toast after toast for being a connoisseur when it comes to "know how with the cooking spoon."

INGREDIENTS:

¼ lb. sausage meat
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
4 cups cooked rice
½ teaspoon sage
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
3 tablespoons water

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 5 cups of white, fluffy, perfectly cooked rice:

1. Put 1½ cups uncooked rice, 3 cups of cold water and 1½ teaspoons of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil.

2. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking.

3. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Remove from the heat. The rice is now ready to use.

For extra fluffy, tender, separate grains allow the rice to steam for an additional 10 minutes—with heat off, but without removing lid.

For extra convenience and economy of time and effort, cook 2 cups of rice, 4 cups of water and 2 teaspoons of salt—keeping the extra cupes of usued ready-cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. Use this rice as needed in quick delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Cook the sausage meat until slightly brown, breaking it into small pieces as it cooks. Add the onion and celery and continue cooking until the onion begins to turn a yellowish color. Add the cooked rice, sage, salt and pepper to taste, depending upon how highly seasoned the sausage meat is. Add the water. This recipe makes 4 cups of stuffing.

Allow ¾ cup of stuffing for each pound of poultry, dressed weight, or 1 cup for each pound ready-to-cook weight. Fill the cavity of the bird lightly. As the juices are absorbed the stuffing will expand. Overpacking results in a compact stuffing and may cause the bird to burst.

For safest results, stuffing should be mixed just before the bird is to be stuffed. If it is necessary to hold the stuffed bird before roasting, the stuffing should be chilled before used, and the clean stuffed bird should be refrigerated. The stuffed bird should not be held in the refrigerator for more than four hours.

Lamb Riblets Make Thrifty Barbecue Dish

Barbecued meat fanciers — and the number of this group is great —will delight in this lamb dish, barbecued lamb riblets. The flavor of this meat lends itself perfectly to a spicy barbecue sauce, adding up to plenty of good eating.

Lamb riblets are a thrifty choice also. They are prepared from a lamb roast, corresponding to spareribs in pork. Your market man removes the breast bone, then cuts down between the ribs resulting in the riblets. These are cooked by braising, thus ideal for preparing in a zestful barbecue sauce.

According to Reba Staggs, home economist, to prepare this dish brown the riblets first in lard or drippings. Then add your favorite barbecue sauce. Cover them closely and let the meat cook slowly until tender, from 1½ to 2 hours. Serve the riblets over boiled rice.

SERVE WITH GRAVY, MEAT CHICKEN OR SEA FOOD

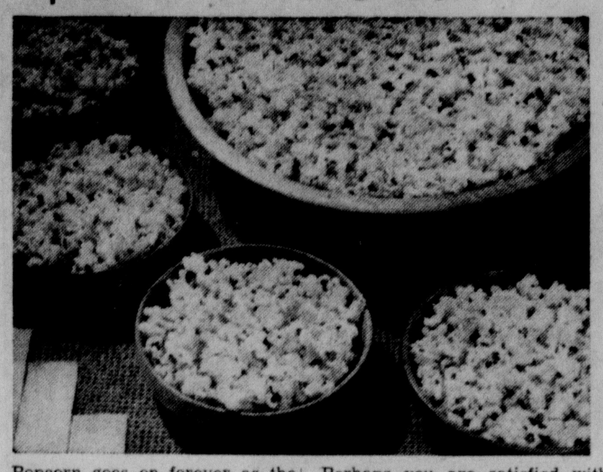

NOVEL VEAL CUTLETS

A real delicacy for a special guest dinner is veal culets. Instead of pounding flour into the veal, pound grated dry cheese (Parmesan or Romano) into the meat. Then pan fry slowly until lightly browned in a little hot fat, half lard and half butter or margarine. Season veal with onion or garlic salt and a little pepper; cook over low heat for about 15 minutes, turning once or twice. Serve with hot tomato sauce "spiked" with a little Worcestershire sauce.

Hawaii is sometimes called the "crossroads of the Pacific."

Popcorn Perfect Snack

Popcorn goes on forever as the perfect snack to serve for a happy-time evening at home.

It's wonderful munch-and-crunch item and it seems there is always room for more of those snowy, light-hearted salted kernels! Popcorn adds to the enjoyment of a television show, of a "listen to our new records" party, or just a lazy evening. And we've seen children cheerfully do their homework with a bowl of popcorn for an incentive.

Popcorn is easy to make, and easier than ever using salad oil and an electric popcorn popper. The oil can be measured quickly, and heats to the right temperature in about three minutes. One brand is currently being sold with free popcorn attached. If you do do not have an electric popper, a heavy skillet will do the trick.

Perhaps you are satisfied with popcorn just as it is, but it really does lend itself to some delightful variations. Use a sprinkling of garlic or celery salt to give it a subtle new flavor. When popcorn is flavored with grated Parmesan, we say it's elegant enough to be in the "appetizer" category. Those who like "hot" foods will enjoy popcorn with an accent of curry or chili powder.

You'll notice that today's recipe does not call for that extra "buttering." It isn't necessary when corn is popped in a light-bodied, fragrant oil.

¼ cup salad oil; salt; ½ cup popcorn.

Heat the oil in a popper* for about 3 minutes or until a kernel of corn starts to spin when dropped into the oil. Add the popcorn. Cover and allow to cook until only an occasional popping is heard. Remove the popper from the heat and pour the popped corn into a serving bowl; salt to taste.

*A heavy skillet may be used in the same manner as the popper but shake frequently during popping.

Variations:

Omit the salt and add one of the following to the hot popcorn:

½ tablespoon garlic salt
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan
1 tablespoon celery salt
½ teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon, mixed
1 teaspoon seasoning salt

Demo Women Steer Clear Of Md. Primary

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP)—A studiously neutral group of Democratic women met here today but kept their sights carefully trained on the general election next fall rather than the nearer at hand primaries.

The occasion was the quarterly meeting of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland, a federation that includes most women's local Democratic organizations in the state. More than 100 were on hand.

Although the federation includes active supporters of both major candidates for the party's nomination for governor, remarks and reports concentrated on a party victory in November.

Mrs. Alice Canoles, Democratic national committeewoman from Maryland, told the women:

"The best way to help win is for me to stay neutral for the head of the ticket."

"Lots and lots of our Democrats are registering Republican," she added. "We've got to get on the ball."

Mrs. Katie Louchheim of Washington, director of women's activities for the Democratic National Committee, warned against "hurt feelings" and "being sore at one another" over the results of the primary.

Mrs. Louchheim concentrated on the Republicans, calling the party a "stepchild that American voters never really wanted to adopt" and saying that the current GOP propaganda line "shows they are on the defensive."

"We think and have figures to show if elections were held tomorrow we would gain substantial control of Congress," she said, adding: "But they will not be held tomorrow, so we have work to do."

Another speaker, Dr. Mildred Otnasek, represented the recent election of a state party chairman over the opposition of some party factions as a "victory for the women."

And Mrs. E. Brooke Lee, president of the state women's group, told the meeting that "It is our duty as organized Democratic women to take the lead in the campaigning that will elect a Democratic governor, Legislature and local administrations."

Mrs. Lee, whose husband is directing the campaign headquarters of H. C. Byrd for the party nomination for governor, took note of the primaries advising her listeners:

". . . Take sides, work, organize, participate, campaign and support the candidates and program you stand for."

"Campaign on issues. Stick to facts. Avoid personal abuse and attacks. Mud and political misrepresentations thrown in primaries lose general elections . . .

"Campaign as Ritchie, O'Conor and Lane did."

Loss Small On Loans To Area Orchardists

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 21 (AP)—The East Central Fruit Growers Production Credit Assn. reported today it has loaned 45 million dollars to orchardists in a five-state area in the last 20 years, and its loss on defaulted loans has amounted to only three tenths of 1 per cent.

The association is a cooperative credit organization of fruit growers from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia. It was organized in 1934.

The report at the meeting today said the net worth of the organization is now $650,000.

The association elected Frank W. Richardson of Canden, Del., as president; Hiram F. Hershey of Hamburg, Pa., vice president; Walter D. Bromley of Smithsburg, Md., secretary treasurer.

Reelected to the board of directors were Paul Hawkins of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Stanley M. Fulton of Hancock, Md.

So shallow is the sea between Japan and Korea that a comparatively slight upheaval of the bottom would enable an army to walk across.

McKeldin Hails Ike Appointment Of Judge Sobeloff

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP) — "A fine appointment," Gov. McKeldin said today when he heard the White House had nominated Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the Maryland Court of Appeals to be solicitor general of the United States.

The governor said he would appoint Sobeloff's successor as chief judge within a day after the appointment as solicitor general is confirmed by the Senate in Washington.

Those familiar with the governor's intentions say Frederick W. Brune, Baltimore attorney, will get Sobeloff's job on Maryland's highest court.

"I congratulate Judge Sobeloff on his selection; he will make a great solicitor general," the governor said. "I also congratulate President Eisenhower for making an excellent selection. And I congratulate Maryland's two U. S. senators for securing the appointment."

McKeldin and Sobeloff have been intimately associated in politics since 1927, when McKeldin was secretary to Baltimore's mayor and Sobeloff was assistant city solicitor.

Sobeloff has been constantly at the governor's side during legislative sessions in Annapolis. Soon after McKeldin became governor he tapped Sobeloff for help, naming him to a commission to study and blue print a streamlining of the administrative organization of the State.

JUMPS TO DEATH — An amateur photographer took this picture just as William Walter Failey, about 50, of Washington, D. C., jumped to his death yesterday from the roof of a three-story hotel in Phoenix, Ariz. A friend on the roof had tried to talk Failey out of the leap. The photographer was Walter D. Bolton, who spotted the dramatic rooftop scene from an office building window across the street.

Approximately 55 per cent of the population of the United States are church goers.

Farmers Meet At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 21 (AP) — Farmers from Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland will meet here tomorrow to discuss marketing problems and exchange ideas on labor saving devices.

Speakers and panel leaders will include Walter D. Hunnicutt of the National Dairy Products Corp.; T. B. Quackenbush, head of the irrigation section of the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service and H.M. McVickar, chief agronomist of the National Fertilizer Assn.

Harold Houpt, Washington County farmer, will describe the labor-saving devices on his dairy farm.

A panel discussion on marketing problems and the outlook for 1954 will include Paul E. Nystrom, head of the Department of Economics and Marketing, University, of Maryland, and Dr. C. W. Pierce, professor of agricultural economics, Penn State College.

The American Red Cross has about 1,650,000 volunteer workers in its organization.

Lights For Dangerous Traffic Intersections

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP) — Stepped-up lighting systems are planned for dangerous intersections in Maryland, the State Roads Commission announced today, with the first ones going southwest of Baltimore and southwest of Ellicott City.

One will be on the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard, U. S. 1, from Rolling Road to Lawyers Hill Road at Elkridge. It'll have 23 mercury vapor lamps. The other will be at the intersection of new and old U. S. 29 in Howard County two miles southwest of Ellicott City. It will have six lamps.

Consolidated Gas and Electric Co. of Baltimore will install, operate and maintain the lamps. The State will pay a monthly rental. George Lewis, director of the commission's traffic division, said it is hoped to make the program state-wide, with other companies joining in.

Ike Asks 7.6 Million For Naval Academy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — President Eisenhower's budget submitted to Congress today requests $7,600,000 for the Annapolis Naval Academy for the year beginning July 1.

This is $93,000 more than funds estimated to be spent during the current year.

The requested appropriation would provide for the education and training of midshipmen and the maintenance and operation of the Naval Academy and the Naval Station at Annapolis.

Demo Women Steer Clear Of Md. Primary

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP)—A studiously neutral group of Democratic women met here today but kept their sights carefully trained on the general election next fall rather than the nearer at hand primaries.

The occasion was the quarterly meeting of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland, a federation that includes most women's local Democratic organizations in the state. More than 100 were on hand.

Although the federation includes active supporters of both major candidates for the party's nomination for governor, remarks and reports concentrated on a party victory in November.

Mrs. Alice Canoles, Democratic national committeewoman from Maryland, told the women:

"The best way to help win is for me to stay neutral for the head of the ticket."

"Lots and lots of our Democrats are registering Republican," she added. "We've got to get on the ball."

Mrs. Katie Louchheim of Washington, director of women's activities for the Democratic National Committee, warned against "hurt feelings" and "being sore at one another" over the results of the primary.

Mrs. Louchheim concentrated on the Republicans, calling the party a "stepchild that American voters never really wanted to adopt" and saying that the current GOP propaganda line "shows they are on the defensive."

"We think and have figures to show if elections were held tomorrow we would gain substantial control of Congress," she said, adding: "But they will not be held tomorrow, so we have work to do."

Another speaker, Dr. Mildred Otnasek, represented the recent election of a state party chairman over the opposition of some party factions as a "victory for the women."

And Mrs. E. Brooke Lee, president of the state women's group, told the meeting that "It is our duty as organized Democratic women to take the lead in the campaigning that will elect a Democratic governor, Legislature and local administrations."

Mrs. Lee, whose husband is directing the campaign headquarters of H. C. Byrd for the party nomination for governor, took note of the primaries advising her listeners:

". . . Take sides, work, organize, participate, campaign and support the candidates and program you stand for."

"Campaign on issues. Stick to facts. Avoid personal abuse and attacks. Mud and political misrepresentations thrown in primaries lose general elections . . .

"Campaign as Ritchie, O'Conor and Lane did."

Loss Small On Loans To Area Orchardists

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 21 (AP)—The East Central Fruit Growers Production Credit Assn. reported today it has loaned 45 million dollars to orchardists in a five-state area in the last 20 years, and its loss on defaulted loans has amounted to only three tenths of 1 per cent.

The association is a cooperative credit organization of fruit growers from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia. It was organized in 1934.

The report at the meeting today said the net worth of the organization is now $650,000.

The association elected Frank W. Richardson of Canden, Del., as president; Hiram F. Hershey of Hamburg, Pa., vice president; Walter D. Bromley of Smithsburg, Md., secretary treasurer.

Reelected to the board of directors were Paul Hawkins of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Stanley M. Fulton of Hancock, Md.

McKeldin Hails Ike Appointment Of Judge Sobeloff

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP) — "A fine appointment," Gov. McKeldin said today when he heard the White House had nominated Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the Maryland Court of Appeals to be solicitor general of the United States.

The governor said he would appoint Sobeloff's successor as chief judge within a day after the appointment as solicitor general is confirmed by the Senate in Washington.

Those familiar with the governor's intentions say Frederick W. Brune, Baltimore attorney, will get Sobeloff's job on Maryland's highest court.

"I congratulate Judge Sobeloff on his selection; he will make a great solicitor general," the governor said. "I also congratulate President Eisenhower for making an excellent selection. And I congratulate Maryland's two U. S. senators for securing the appointment."

McKeldin and Sobeloff have been intimately associated in politics since 1927, when McKeldin was secretary to Baltimore's mayor and Sobeloff was assistant city solicitor.

Sobeloff has been constantly at the governor's side during legislative sessions in Annapolis. Soon after McKeldin became governor he tapped Sobeloff for help, naming him to a commission to study and blue print a streamlining of the administrative organization of the State.

JUMPS TO DEATH — An amateur photographer took this picture just as William Walter Failey, about 50, of Washington, D. C., jumped to his death yesterday from the roof of a three-story hotel in Phoenix, Ariz. A friend on the roof had tried to talk Failey out of the leap. The photographer was Walter D. Bolton, who spotted the dramatic rooftop scene from an office building window across the street.

Neil Bechtol Receives James H. Hipsley Memorial Award

Fort Hill High Center Is Fifth To Earn Trophy

Coaches Receive Gifts, Trophies For Players, 200 Present At Dinner

Neil Bechtol, center and co-captain of Fort Hill High School's 1953 football team, was presented the James H. Hipsley Memorial Award at the Fort Hill Boosters Club dinner held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Bechtol was presented the trophy by Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, at the annual affair honoring Coach William P. Hahn and his gridders. He is the fifth winner of the award which was instituted in 1949 and won that year by Donald Decker. Other winners were: Eddie Landis, 1950; Dave Ritter, 1951, and Ronald Athey, 1952.

The address of welcome was delivered by Earl D. Chaney, president of the Boosters Club, who introduced Robert W. Jones, of the Allegany Board of Education, who acted as toastmaster.

Rev. Brake Is Speaker

The principal speaker was Rev. Donald F. Brake, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Cumberland, whose main theme was "Character Development" which he tied in with football.

Mal Campbell, sports announcer, pinch-hitting for J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Evening and Sunday Times, presented the Times-News Trophy to the Fort Hill team. This trophy will be shared by Fort Hill and Allegany, the city's co-champions of 1953.

Responses were made by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Victor D. Heisey; Coach William P. Hahn; William McProuty and Joseph Pellerzi, assistant coaches, and Tommy Mont, University of Maryland backfield coach.

The guests included the football squad and managers, varsity cheer leaders; Miss Delores Chase, cheerleader advisor; Miss Donna Martz, 1953 football queen; Mrs. Henrietta Snyder, girls' basketball coach; John J. Cavanaugh, boys' basketball coach; John Raupach, president senior student council; Kathryn Pafel Wilson, school secretary; Lorraine Fox Often, school secretary; Mayor Roy W. Eves, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, John J. Long and William V. Keegan, of the City Council; County Commissioners William Lemmert and James Orr; Charles See, Estel Kelley, Fred Driscoll and Lester Reed, of the Maryland House of Delegates, Alban C. Thompson, and Chad Riley of Station WDYK and Mal Campbell of Station WCUM.

Players Get Trophies

Gifts from the football players were presented to Coaches Hahn, Pellerzi and McProuty by Capt. Bechtol while Capt. Bill Murphy pinned a corsage on Miss Martz, the football queen. All of the players received trophies which were presented by Wallace G. Ullery and William "Bee" Orndorff. The cheerleader advisor, Miss Delores Chase and the cheerleaders, Wilda Schade, Shirley Hixenbaugh, Jackie Weber, Sally Morris, Susie Kaiser and Joan Garlitz were presented corsages while gifts were given to Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh and Coach Mrs. Henrietta Snyder, of the Fort Hill basketball teams.

The invocation was given by Rev. Kenneth Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church.

Two hundred attended the affair.

BECHTOL WINS GRID AWARD—Neil Bechtol, center and co-captain of Fort Hill High School's 1953 football team received the James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy at the annual Fort Hill Boosters Club dinner held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Bechtol is the fifth player to win the award which was instituted in 1949. Victor D. Heisey, principal, left, is shown presenting the trophy to Bechtol at the dinner attended by approximately 200 persons.

Babe Wins Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias, Tampa, Fla., golf pro, tonight was awarded the Ben Hogan Trophy for having overcome the greatest physical handicap in 1953 and staged a comeback in golf. The award was announced at the annual Metropolitan Golf Writers' dinner.

Potomac State And Montgomery Clash Tonight

Catamounts To Host Salem On Saturday

KEYSER, Jan. 21 — Potomac State's basketball squad is busy this week with semester examinations but will take time out for two home games over the weekend.

The Catamounts meet Montgomery Junior College of Takoma Park, Md., Friday night and face Salem (W. Va.) College in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference tilt here Saturday night.

Montgomery College is coached by Frank Rubini, former assistant coach at Maryland, and has been coming up rapidly in the athletic world. The Marylanders had a fine record last year in football, numbering among their victims Shepherd College, which defeated the Catamounts. The visitors' basketball team is expected to be on par with the grid aggregation.

Salem College will be shooting for its second win over Potomac State Saturday night. Salem has beaten some of the best quints in the conference and is one of the few teams to beat Rio Grande and the mighty Bevo Francis this season. Potomac State dropped an 87-78 decision to Salem in the series opener.

Both games are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

East Is Winner, Bob Cousy Stars

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — Bob Cousy, fancy dan of professional basketball, scored ten points in overtime tonight after he had apparently won the game in the closing two seconds of regulation time as the East beat the West 98-93 in the National Basketball Association All-Star game before a screaming crowd of 16,478 at Madison Square Garden.

Two foul shots by George Mikan after the buzzer sounded had prolonged the contest.

Geo. Washington Edges Cavaliers

Stadium Inn Boosts Lead

Shuffle Leaders Win Over Local VFW, 3-0

Stadium Inn of Frostburg upped its lead to 3½ games over the idle Cumberland K. of C. in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by sweeping three games from the Cumberland V.F.W. last night.

Other results were:

Amvets 3, Cas Taylor's 0; Frostburg Legion 2, Frostburg K. of C. 1; Goodfellowship Club 3, Mike Miller's 0; Fisher & Robinette 3, Mt. Savage VFW 0; Hann's Tavern 3, Golden Nugget 0; Purple Heart Club 3, Hi Dee Club 0.

High scorers:

Old Germans Top Oakland, 72-54

850 Witness Benefit March Of Dimes Tilt

OAKLAND, Jan. 21—Cumberland's Old Germans defeated the Oakland Independents here tonight on the Southern High School court in a March of Dimes benefit game, 72 to 54.

Approximately 850 persons witnessed the game which saw the two quints battle to a 34-34 deadlock at halftime before the visiting Old Germans pulled away to win easily.

An oddity of the game was that the visitors did not have a personal foul called against them. Bob Pence and Paul McGregor paced the victors with 18 points while Jack Veader and Kyle Wilson each had 14 for Oakland.

In the preliminary Northern High Alumni topped the Southern High Alumni, 63-50. The lineups:

Award To Hanulak

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 21 (AP)—The Newark Athletic Club tonight honored the state's outstanding athletes of 1953, including Chet Hanulak, star halfback for the University of Maryland.

Hanulak played a big part in Maryland's undefeated-untied regular season and its ranking as the No. 1 team in the nation. The Hackensack battering ram led the nation with a per carry average of 9.8 yards and made honorable mention on the All America team.

Betsy Rawls Leads

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C. shot even par 75 today for a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $5,000 Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament.

SS. Peter-Paul Cops CYO Loop 1st Half Title

Tops St. Pat's, 59-34; St. Mary's Wins, 51-42

SS. Peter and Paul quint sewed up the first half championship of the CYO Basketball League by defeating St. Patrick's of Cumberland last night on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 59-34.

The victory was the ninth for Coach Bob Mattingly's undefeated aggregation which winds up its first half schedule on Sunday.

Van Parsons, guard, dumped in 12 goals a three free throws for a total of 27 points to lead SS. Peter and Paul to victory. Felton and Imes set the scoring pace for St. Patrick's with 12 and 10 tallies.

Coach Mattingly used his entire squad of 16 players in the contest.

St. Mary's provided a surprise by knocking off St. Michael's of Frostburg on St. Mary's court by the score of 51 to 42.

Dick Garlitz was high point-maker for St. Mary's with 19 while Richard took runner-up honors with 13. Winfield, Bohen and Harris sparked St. Michael's with 15, 13 and 12 markers.

St. Michael's held a 24-16 lead at halftime but the locals tied it up at 30-30 in the third period and outpointed the Frostburgers 21 to 12 in the final stanza.

St. Michael's league record is now 5-3 while St. Mary's has won five and lost four. The lineups:

NFL Declares War After Canadians Get Weinmeister

Tackle Is Property Of New York Giants

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21 (AP) — "The war is on," Commissioner Bert Bell said today when informed that the Canadian League had signed Arnie Weinmeister of the New York Giants.

"Weinmeister is under contract to the Giants," said Bell, adding, "The Canadian League has again breached our contracts. They had better start counting their players."

The NFL commissioner said that the National Football League would scan the roster of the new British Columbia Lions for any worthwhile native Canadian players who could make the pro league here. "We'll fight fire with fire" he said.

May Be Court Case

Asked if Weinmeister, one of the finest tackles ever to play in the NFL, had any mutual agreement with the Giants to permit him to go to Canada, Bell said, "Absolutely no. I wouldn't be at all surprised if the Giants take him into court, along with the Canadian team."

Actually, Weinmeister isn't under contract to the Giants, but is bound by a one-year renewal option. If the Giants fail to renew the player's option before May 1, 1954, he becomes a free agent and can play anywhere he chooses.

Bell said emphatically that it would be the NFL's policy to try to sign worthwhile players from any Canadian team which "stole" players from the American pro circuit. "We have a list of all Canadian players, some of whom could make some of our teams. We'll go after them if they go after our boys."

Canadian clubs might find themselves at a disadvantage in such a "war" since they are forced to pay top dollar to entice American pros and college stars to play in the Inter-Provincial Football League. Weinmeister for example, is reported to have signed with New British Columbia for the highest salary ever given to a Canadian player. On the other hand, the NFL easily could top the reportedly low pay given to native Canadian stars.

Four Teams Join New Pony League

George Lauder Named President Of Circuit

KEYSER — At a meeting of baseball enthusiasts for youth of the area, Wednesday evening in the Forty and eight Club in Keyser, the Bi-State Pony Baseball League was organized for boys 13 to 15 years old. The group elected George Lauder, Barton, president, and Robert Blair, Midland, secretary. Others present were Carson Thomas, for the Barton team; Paul Sanders, LaVale; Dale Broadwater, for Cresaptown; "Jokey" Monahan, for Midland and "Al." Thomas, for Keyser. Ridgeley was not represented at the meeting. Edgel Grayson, representing the Keyser Recreation Board, also attended.

Four towns, Ridgeley, Midland, Barton and Cresaptown are definitely in the league, but Keyser, which was represented, will not be sure until a sponsor can be secured for the team. The league is hopeful that both Lonaconing and Westernport will be able to have a team in the circuit.

Each team will be allowed to carry 18 active players on the roster and players will be eligible from within a zone to be established for each team. In enrolling, each player will be required to show a birth certificate to certify him as eligible to play. A regulation ball and bat will be adopted and games will be for seven innings only.

Another meeting of the league will be held in Keyser on February 18.

'Red' Dawson, Pitt Grid Coach, To Talk At Dapper Dan Dinner

Rooney And McPeak Will Be Guests At Affair Here Jan. 31

Lowell P. "Red" Dawson, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, will be among the guest speakers at the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club's sixth annual benefit sports dinner to be held Sunday, January 31, at 6:30 p. m. at the Knights of Columbus Home, it was announced last night by Peter J. Carpenti, member of the club's executive committee.

Red Dawson

Carpenti stated that Dawson will be accompanied by Art Rooney, owner, and Bill McPeak of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Starred At Tulane

A native of Minneapolis, Minn., Dawson was regular quarterback for Tulane under Coach Bernie Bierman in 1929, 1930 and 1931 when the Green Wave lost only three games, one to USC in the Rose Bowl. He followed Bierman back to Minnesota when the latter became head coach there in 1932. He was assistant coach of the Gophers through the 1935 season, and then again headed for New Orleans and Tulane, this time as head coach. As head man at Tulane from 1936 through 1941, his teams won 36 games, lost 19 and tied 4. His 1939 team lost its only game to Texas A.&M. in the Sugar Bowl, 14-13.

Dawson was back at Minnesota as assistant coach to Dr. George Hauser during the war years, 1942-45, and then moved to Buffalo as head coach of the Buffalo Bills of the All-America Conference in 1946. In 1949 he shifted to Michigan State as backfield coach to Biggie Munn, remained there through the 1951 season, while the Spartans were having their greatest football days, and then accepted the head job at Pitt in January of 1952. His Panthers won six and lost three in 1952 while last season Pitt won three lost five and played a 7-7 tie with Oklahoma, the team that defeated Maryland in the Orange Bowl game.

Bob Prince, who broadcasts Pittsburgh Pirates and Pittsburgh Steelers games over a radio network will be toastmaster at the Dapper Dan dinner at which Mrs. G. William Bibby, Cumberland Country Club golfer, will receive a plaque for being the athlete who did most to publicize Cumberland during the year 1953.

Green Will Be Guest

Kenneth Green, of Henry Street, a crippled lad on crutches, who has received aid from the Allegany League for Crippled Children, will be a guest of the Dapper Dan Club. He will be accompanied by his father. Proceeds of the banquet go annually to the league.

Tickets for the dinner may be purchased at the Galen Bar, Nu-Way Shoe Shop, Goodfellowship Club, Wilson Hardware Company, Spa Bar, Southern Bar, Geatz's Cafe and Shaw's Tavern.

Bassett Stops French Fighter

PARIS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Percy Bassett, high ranking featherweight contender from Philadelphia, won on a technical knockout over Francis Bonnardel tonight when the French lightweight was unable to answer the bell for the ninth round of the ten rounder.

The hard-hitting American Negro dropped Bonnardel in the waning seconds of the eighth round. The Frenchman didn't move a muscle as the referee counted but he was saved from a knockout by the bell. He couldn't come out for the ninth round.

Neil Bechtol Receives James H. Hipsley Memorial Award

Fort Hill High Center Is Fifth To Earn Trophy

Coaches Receive Gifts, Trophies For Players, 200 Present At Dinner

Neil Bechtol, center and co-captain of Fort Hill High School's 1953 football team, was presented the James H. Hipsley Memorial Award at the Fort Hill Boosters Club dinner held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Bechtol was presented the trophy by Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, at the annual affair honoring Coach William P. Hahn and his gridders. He is the fifth winner of the award which was instituted in 1949 and won that year by Donald Decker. Other winners were: Eddie Landis, 1950; Dave Ritter, 1951, and Ronald Athey, 1952.

The address of welcome was delivered by Earl D. Chaney, president of the Boosters Club, who introduced Robert W. Jones, of the Allegany Board of Education, who acted as toastmaster.

Rev. Brake Is Speaker

The principal speaker was Rev. Donald F. Brake, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Cumberland, whose main theme was "Character Development" which he tied in with football.

Mal Campbell, sports announcer, pinch-hitting for J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Evening and Sunday Times, presented the Times-News Trophy to the Fort Hill team. This trophy will be shared by Fort Hill and Allegany, the city's co-champions of 1953.

Responses were made by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Victor D. Heisey; Coach William P. Hahn; William McProuty and Joseph Pellerzi, assistant coaches, and Tommy Mont, University of Maryland backfield coach.

The guests included the football squad and managers, varsity cheer leaders; Miss Delores Chase, cheerleader advisor; Miss Donna Martz, 1953 football queen; Mrs. Henrietta Snyder, girls' basketball coach; John J. Cavanaugh, boys' basketball coach; John Raupach, president senior student council; Kathryn Pafel Wilson, school secretary; Lorraine Fox Often, school secretary; Mayor Roy W. Eves, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, John J. Long and William V. Keegan, of the City Council; County Commissioners William Lemmert and James Orr; Charles See, Estel Kelley, Fred Driscoll and Lester Reed, of the Maryland House of Delegates, Alban C. Thompson, and Chad Riley of Station WDYK and Mal Campbell of Station WCUM.

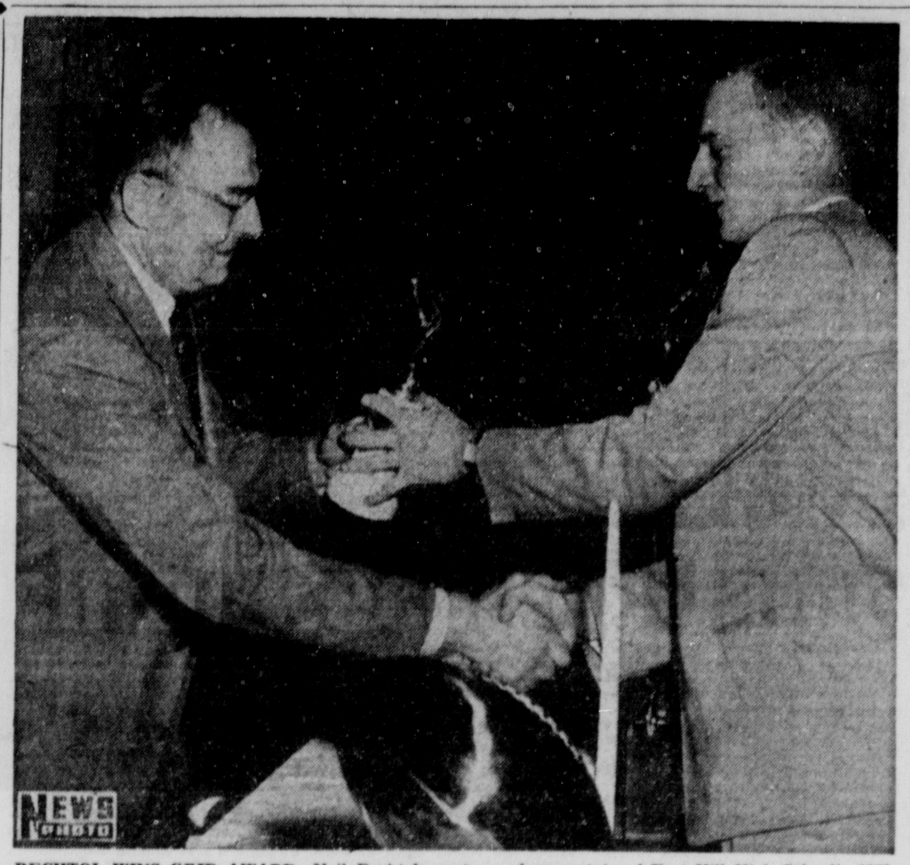

Players Get Trophies

Gifts from the football players were presented to Coaches Hahn, Pellerzi and McProuty by Capt. Bechtol while Capt. Bill Murphy pinned a corsage on Miss Martz, the football queen. All of the players received trophies which were presented by Wallace G. Ullery and William "Bee" Orndorff. The cheerleader advisor, Miss Delores Chase and the cheerleaders, Wilda Schade, Shirley Hixenbaugh, Jackie Weber, Sally Morris, Susie Kaiser and Joan Garlitz were presented corsages while gifts were given to Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh and Coach Mrs. Henrietta Snyder, of the Fort Hill basketball teams.

The invocation was given by Rev. Kenneth Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church.

Two hundred attended the affair.

BECHTOL WINS GRID AWARD—Neil Bechtol, center and co-captain of Fort Hill High School's 1953 football team received the James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy at the annual Fort Hill Boosters Club dinner held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Bechtol is the fifth player to win the award which was instituted in 1949. Victor D. Heisey, principal, left, is shown presenting the trophy to Bechtol at the dinner attended by approximately 200 persons.

Babe Wins Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias, Tampa, Fla., golf pro, tonight was awarded the Ben Hogan Trophy for having overcome the greatest physical handicap in 1953 and staged a comeback in golf. The award was announced at the annual Metropolitan Golf Writers' dinner.

Potomac State And Montgomery Clash Tonight

Catamounts To Host Salem On Saturday

KEYSER, Jan. 21 — Potomac State's basketball squad is busy this week with semester examinations but will take time out for two home games over the weekend.

The Catamounts meet Montgomery Junior College of Takoma Park, Md., Friday night and face Salem (W. Va.) College in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference tilt here Saturday night.

Montgomery College is coached by Frank Rubini, former assistant coach at Maryland, and has been coming up rapidly in the athletic world. The Marylanders had a fine record last year in football, numbering among their victims Shepherd College, which defeated the Catamounts. The visitors' basketball team is expected to be on par with the grid aggregation.

Salem College will be shooting for its second win over Potomac State Saturday night. Salem has beaten some of the best quints in the conference and is one of the few teams to beat Rio Grande and the mighty Bevo Francis this season. Potomac State dropped an 87-78 decision to Salem in the series opener.

Both games are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

East Is Winner, Bob Cousy Stars

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — Bob Cousy, fancy dan of professional basketball, scored ten points in overtime tonight after he had apparently won the game in the closing two seconds of regulation time as the East beat the West 98-93 in the National Basketball Association All-Star game before a screaming crowd of 16,478 at Madison Square Garden.

Two foul shots by George Mikan after the buzzer sounded had prolonged the contest.

Geo. Washington Edges Cavaliers

Stadium Inn Boosts Lead

Shuffle Leaders Win Over Local VFW, 3-0

Stadium Inn of Frostburg upped its lead to 3½ games over the idle Cumberland K. of C. in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by sweeping three games from the Cumberland V.F.W. last night.

Other results were:

Old Germans Top Oakland, 72-54

850 Witness Benefit March Of Dimes Tilt

OAKLAND, Jan. 21—Cumberland's Old Germans defeated the Oakland Independents here tonight on the Southern High School court in a March of Dimes benefit game, 72 to 54.

Approximately 850 persons witnessed the game which saw the two quints battle to a 34-34 deadlock at halftime before the visiting Old Germans pulled away to win easily.

An oddity of the game was that the visitors did not have a personal foul called against them. Bob Pence and Paul McGregor paced the victors with 18 points while Jack Veader and Kyle Wilson each had 14 for Oakland.

In the preliminary Northern High Alumni topped the Southern High Alumni, 63-50. The lineups:

SS. Peter-Paul Cops CYO Loop 1st Half Title

Tops St. Pat's, 59-34; St. Mary's Wins, 51-42

SS. Peter and Paul quint sewed up the first half championship of the CYO Basketball League by defeating St. Patrick's of Cumberland last night on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 59-34.

The victory was the ninth for Coach Bob Mattingly's undefeated aggregation which winds up its first half schedule on Sunday.

Van Parsons, guard, dumped in 12 goals a three free throws for a total of 27 points to lead SS. Peter and Paul to victory. Felton and Imes set the scoring pace for St. Patrick's with 12 and 10 tallies.

Coach Mattingly used his entire squad of 16 players in the contest.

St. Mary's provided a surprise by knocking off St. Michael's of Frostburg on St. Mary's court by the score of 51 to 42.

Dick Garlitz was high pointmaker for St. Mary's with 19 while Richard took runner-up honors with 13. Winfield, Bohen and Harris sparked St. Michael's with 15, 13 and 12 markers.

St. Michael's held a 24-16 lead at halftime but the locals tied it up at 30-30 in the third period and outpointed the Frostburgers 21 to 12 in the final stanza.

NFL Declares War After Canadians Get Weinmeister

Tackle Is Property Of New York Giants

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21 (AP) — "The war is on," Commissioner Bert Bell said today when informed that the Canadian League had signed Arnie Weinmeister of the New York Giants.

"Weinmeister is under contract to the Giants," said Bell, adding, "The Canadian League has again breached our contracts. They had better start counting their players."

The NFL commissioner said that the National Football League would scan the roster of the new British Columbia Lions for any worthwhile native Canadian players who could make the pro league here. "We'll fight fire with fire" he said.

'Red' Dawson, Pitt Grid Coach, To Talk At Dapper Dan Dinner

Rooney And McPeak Will Be Guests At Affair Here Jan. 31

Lowell P. "Red" Dawson, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, will be among the guest speakers at the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club's sixth annual benefit sports dinner to be held Sunday, January 31, at 6:30 p. m. at the Knights of Columbus Home, it was announced last night by Peter J. Carpenti, member of the club's executive committee.

Red Dawson

Carpenti stated that Dawson will be accompanied by Art Rooney, owner, and Bill McPeak of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Starred At Tulane

A native of Minneapolis, Minn., Dawson was regular quarterback for Tulane under Coach Bernie Bierman in 1929, 1930 and 1931 when the Green Wave lost only three games, one to USC in the Rose Bowl. He followed Bierman back to Minnesota when the latter became head coach there in 1932. He was assistant coach of the Gophers through the 1935 season, and then again headed for New Orleans and Tulane, this time as head coach. As head man at Tulane from 1936 through 1941, his teams won 36 games, lost 19 and tied 4. His 1939 team lost its only game to Texas A.&M. in the Sugar Bowl, 14-13.

Dawson was back at Minnesota as assistant coach to Dr. George Hauser during the war years, 1942-45, and then moved to Buffalo as head coach of the Buffalo Bills of the All-America Conference in 1946. In 1949 he shifted to Michigan State as backfield coach to Biggie Munn, remained there through the 1951 season, while the Spartans were having their greatest football days, and then accepted the head job at Pitt in January of 1952. His Panthers won six and lost three in 1952 while last season Pitt won three lost five and played a 7-7 tie with Oklahoma, the team that defeated Maryland in the Orange Bowl game.

Bob Prince, who broadcasts Pittsburgh Pirates and Pittsburgh Steelers games over a radio network will be toastmaster at the Dapper Dan dinner at which Mrs. G. William Bibby, Cumberland Country Club golfer, will receive a plaque for being the athlete who did most to publicize Cumberland during the year 1953.

Green Will Be Guest

Kenneth Green, of Henry Street, a crippled lad on crutches, who has received aid from the Allegany League for Crippled Children, will be a guest of the Dapper Dan Club. He will be accompanied by his father. Proceeds of the banquet go annually to the league.

Tickets for the dinner may be purchased at the Galen Bar, Nu-Way Shoe Shop, Goodfellowship Club, Wilson Hardware Company, Spa Bar, Southern Bar, Geatz's Cafe and Shaw's Tavern.

Bassett Stops French Fighter

PARIS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Percy Bassett, high ranking featherweight contender from Philadelphia, won on a technical knockout over Francis Bonnardel tonight when the French lightweight was unable to answer the bell for the ninth round of the ten rounder.

The hard-hitting American Negro dropped Bonnardel in the waning seconds of the eighth round. The Frenchman didn't move a muscle as the referee counted but he was saved from a knockout by the bell. He couldn't come out for the ninth round.

Fort Hill And Allegany Play 37th Game Of Series Tonight

Campobello Is Scene Of Third City Cage Tilt

LaSalle Cagers Host Northern; Piedmont To Invade Romney

The thirty-seventh meeting of Fort Hill and Allegany on the Campobello court looms as the top attraction on tonight's basketball program in the tri-state area.

It's the third game of the intra-city series in which Allegany defeated LaSalle, 71-48, and LaSalle upset Fort Hill, 42-31.

Allegany is now tied with Bruce for the W.M.I. League leadership at 3-1. The game is the 12th of the season for the Campers who have bagged 10 wins and suffered one loss. Fort Hill owns a 2-2 record in the W.M.I. League and stands 7-4 for the season.

In the series which started in 1937, Allegany has won 25 games and Fort Hill 11.

Joe Stanislawczyk and John Fox will officiate in the Fort Hill-Allegany game scheduled to get underway at 8 o'clock. Jayvee quints will collide in the preliminary game at 6:40.

Two other W.M.I. League games are on tap for tonight. Bruce High's co-leaders figure to win over a crippled Valley High team at Lonaconing while Beall is favored to defeat Mt. Savage in Frostburg.

Northern At LaSalle

LaSalle's Explorers, badly jolted by Hyndman on Tuesday night, will oppose Northern High of Garrett County tonight on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock. LaSalle has won eight and lost three while Coach Lilburn Brown's aggregation owns a 4-7 record.

Piedmont High's Lions will be angling for their 7th straight win in the P.V.C. when they collide with the Romney Pioneers tonight at Romney. Petersburg's Vikings visit Keyser while Moorefield High's Yellow Jackets will engage the Ridgeley High Blackhawks at Moorefield.

Parsons Seeks 10th Win

The third game of the triangular series for the Tucker County title is set for tonight with Parsons, only unbeaten quint in the tri-state area, scheduled to invade Thomas. Parsons with nine wins to its credit holds a 68-51 decision over Davis while Thomas also defeated Davis, 47-39.

Other scholastic games are:

Berkeley Springs at Wardensville.

Circleville at Davis.

Harman at Franklin.

Howard of Piedmont at Charles Town.

Alumni at Hyndman.

Virginia Deaf at West Virginia Deaf, Romney.

Martinsburg at Frederick.

Babe Zaharias Quits LPGA After Firing Of Corcoran

Betty Hicks' Article Displeases Golf Star

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP) — Babe Zaharias turned in her Ladies Professional Golf Association membership card in a huff today, let go with some words about some of her sister pros and talked of starting a brand new tournament group.

Her action drew varying comment from the lady golfers who play for money. Nearly all the big name pros are here for the Tampa women's open golf tournament.

The Babe was sore about two things:

1. The LPGA's dropping of Fred Corcoran as tournament director after golf equipment manufacturers who had been paying his salary took him off the payroll.

2. An article about pro women golfers by Betty Hicks in the Saturday Evening Post. The Babe said "it wasn't fair" and the "whole article was based on lies."

"I'm washing my hands of the whole thing, both as president and as a member," she declared.

"They released Fred Corcoran without asking me. . . .and they were warned not to do it but went ahead and did it."

She praised Corcoran, saying "he has been responsible for the money we're playing for now."

She related she and Corcoran "organized this present group in 1948, and now a lot of johnny-come-latelys are horning in and telling us how to run the show. I simply refuse to be pushed around. They are not treating Fred Corcoran fairly."

She added "let them go on with their committee and we'll form one (golfing group) with Fred Corcoran."

Musial Signs With St. Louis For $80,000

Stan Will Get Bonus Based On Attendance

By JIM SCOTT

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21—(INS)—Stan (The Man) Musial forecast a "good year" today as he signed a 1954 St. Louis Cardinal contract that calls for a pay check of at least $80,000.

The 33-year-old outfielder, highest salaried player in the National League, refused to be pinned down on the exact terms of the one-year pact he agreed to with club president August A. Busch, Jr. It was believed he signed for $80,000, including a $5,000 bonus based on attendance.

If so, Musial will have matched the annual salary he received the last three seasons—not bad for a player who was a sore-armed pitcher in the minors and received only $65 monthly in his first pro year in 1938. Stan said:

"Mr. Busch has been very fair to me. I only had an average (for him) season last year and am well satisfied with my contract. I believe I'm still in my prime and am looking forward to a great season."

"The man" got off to a miserable start in '53. Through June 20, he hit a lowly .256. But he closed with a rush to wind up with a .337 batting average — good for third place behind Brooklyn's Carl Furillo (.344) and teammate Al (Red) Schoendienst (.342).

The Donora, Pa., native, a fleet 175-pound, six-footer who plays with equal brilliance in the outfield or at first base, leads active national leaguers with a .345 lifetime batting average. Only Boston's Ted Williams—at .348—boasts a better mark among active players.

Musial tabbed the Cards "dark-horse contenders" in '54, who could go all the way "if their pitching holds up." He added that "league-leading Brooklyn, of course, and Milwaukee are the teams to beat."

The modest slugger won his sixth National League hitting crown in 1952 with a .336 average. Only two players—hall of famers Honus Wagner, with eight, and Rogers Hornsby, with seven—boast more titles in the league.

Musial is the 10th man on the Cards' 43-player roster to agree to terms.

Blue Man Develops Fever, Is Scratched; Jet Master Winner

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—White Oak Stable's Blue Man developed a slight fever today and was withdrawn from the Osceola Purse at Hialeah Park, taking the edge off the race that was to have marked his return to action after an 18-month layoff.

Jet Master, owned by Joseph Eitinger of New York, held on with courage to win the second division of the $5,000 purse, scoring by a length over K. G. Marshall's Judge J. B.

Woolford Farm's Sugarfoot was third, another length away, while Handsome Teddy was fourth ahead of seven other 4-year-olds and upward.

Jet Master, ridden by Sammy Boulmetis, paid $22.70, $7.30 and $4.60, and ran the six furlongs in 1:11 1/5 over a fast track. Jet Master won a section of the Hialeah Juvenile in 1951.

Blue Man, who won $259,585 in the winter and spring of 1952, went wrong in July that year and has not raced since.

Saxton To Face Laurent

Stars Play March 27

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — The eighth annual East-West college all-star basketball game will be held March 27 in Madison Square Garden, the sponsoring Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund said today.

A newcomer to Florida's racing wars this season will be the C. V. Reynolds' trained Dorchester Farm Stable. They will be quartered at Gulfstream Park.

Charles Town Dates Collide With Fairgo

West Virginia Track Takes July 5-Aug. 14

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 21 — Chairman James F. Edwards announced today State Racing Commission approval of dates at three West Virginia tracks for 1954, with 14 fewer days for racing than in 1953.

The dates include:

Charles Town—Feb. 20 March 20, July 5-Aug. 14 with July 29 to Aug. 4 for Charles Town Horse Show Assn., and Dec. 4-18.

Wheeling Downs—April 24-May 22, July 24-Oct. 2, and Nov. 3-27 excluding Nov. 25, Thanksgiving.

Waterford Park—May 22-July 3, and Oct. 9-30.

The announcement that Charles Town will hold its second meeting of the season July 5 to August 14 conflicts with the August 4 to 14 meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association, meaning that Cumberland must hold its 10-day session in June or make the proposed shift to Marlboro, August 4 to 14.

Racing fans here would rather see the meeting staged at Fairgo in June than have the ten days of the sport transferred to Marlboro.

Lions Retain Buddy Parker

Detroit Coach Gets One-Year Contract

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (AP) — Coach Buddy Parker reached agreement today with management of the Detroit Lions pro football champions on a new contract.

After a brief meeting in the Lions' office, Parker expressed satisfaction with the contract even though it was only for one year. He has guided the Lions to two straight National Professional League titles.

"I'm perfectly satisfied," Parker declared. "This will be my 20th season in the league and I've never had a contract longer than one year."

A Lions spokesman said it was contrary to club policy to disclose terms of Parker's contract except to note that it was for one year.

Joe Lapchick Agrees With Arbiter's Blast

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—A basketball coach backed up a referee today.

Coach Joe Lapchick of the New York Knickerbockers said that Referee Johnny Nucatola was right the other day when he blasted coaches for squawking too much.

"I watched some of our games (National Basketball Association) on television and saw a lot of useless bickering. I decided to take stock of myself," said Lapchick.

"The screaming we do incites crowds, particularly at home. It may intimidate the referees.

"It's time for us to get wise to ourselves, cross our legs, sit back, and watch the game."

Palmer Inks Pact

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21 (AP)-Tackle Tom Palmer today became the first player to sign a 1954 contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. The terms were not disclosed.

ROMNEY COACH HONORED—Richard "Dick" McElwee, above, coach of Romney High School's football team, has been named to direct the North team in West Virginia's 21st annual North-South football game to be played August 14. McElwee's Pioneers won 10 games and lost one during the 1953 season. The Romney team copped the PVC title with a 5-0 record, won 10 games in a row and lost to Sistersville in the Class B playoff, 27-12. McElwee, who played on the West Virginia University varsity team in 1940, 1941 and 1942 and captained the Mountaineers in his senior year, coached Romney to the West Virginia Class B title in 1949 when his Pioneers beat Wirt High of Elizabeth, 20-19. The Pioneers won ten and lost one that season.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(INS)—The ball clubs soon will be going south to live on the fat of the land for several weeks. And few of the players will realize how soft they have it compared with the old-timers.

These modern birds will get $25 each a week for incidentals, plus, of course, their room and board in the best hotels.

Nowadays a ball player when traveling is supposed to get along on $8 a day for meal money, and that's about right.

We can remember when even the Giants—always high rollers under the late John McGraw—were allowed two bucks a day for meal money and managed nicely on that.

McGraw used to have the club secretary hand out cash for the meal money when traveling but he changed all that when he found out that some of the boys were skimping on their meals to save a few dimes.

As for the Dodgers, we can remember when that club always lived in the cheapest fleabag hotels and ate in the cheapest joints available.

We can remember, too, when some ball players would travel a mile afoot to find a hash house where they could save a dime on their breakfast.

We recall, too, how McGraw used to watch the tabs signed by the players in hotel dining rooms. The old boy wasn't interested in saving dough but in trying to find out who was overeating.

There was one fat player McGraw couldn't reduce in spring training no matter how he worked the player. Despite all McGraw could do, the fat boy kept on gaining.

McGraw would study the restaurant tabs the fat boy signed and always found them within the limit. Then one day Mac noticed that a certain sports writer was eating tremendous lunches.

Curious, he asked the writer why he ate such heavy meals at noon.

"Why," said the surprised scribe, "everybody knows I never eat at noon. I have a late breakfast and a big dinner and that's all."

So the next day McGraw himself watched the dining room from a hidden spot and spied his fat player packing away enough for three ordinary men.

McGraw grabbed the tab when the player signed it and found he had signed the sports writer's name to it as he had been doing right along. Need we say that thereafter that fat boy really began losing weight?

Orioles Sign Bobby Young

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP) — A hometowner, second baseman Bobby Young, had the honor today of signing the first contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 29-year-old was given an increase over his salary last year with the St. Louis Browns, General Manager Art Ehlers said.

Young hit .255 and fielded .977 last season.

Dick McElwee Named North Team Mentor

Romney High Coach Chosen For Contest Scheduled Aug. 14

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 21 (AP)—Dick McElwee of Romney and Dick Ware of Barboursville were named tonight as head coaches for the 21st annual North-South football game next Aug. 14.

Russ Parsons of Charleston, the game's managing director, announced the selections at the ninth annual Victory Awards dinner which honored West Virginia's star athletes and coaches.

McElwee, whose Romney team completed its regular 1953 season undefeated but lost to Sistersville in the Class B playoff, will coach the North squad.

Ware, whose Barboursville Pirates won the Class A state championship, will direct the South team.

Principal speaker for the dinner was Leon Hart, former All-America from Notre Dame and an end on the Detroit Lions professional football team.

Gov. Marland attended and Bill Earley, backfield coach at Notre Dame, spoke briefly.

Other awards:

The Charleston Press Club's trophy went to West Virginia University football coach Art Lewis as Coach of the Year.

Enos Slaughter Plans To Enter Politics

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 21 (AP)—Enos Slaughter, 37-year-old St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, plans to enter politics, the chairman of the St. Clair County Democratic Committee announced today.

Maurice Joseph said he will head a ticket in the April 13 primary which will include Slaughter as a candidate for the office of county clerk.

Slaughter operates a Belleville jewelry store while not playing baseball.

Fort Hill And Allegany Play 37th Game Of Series Tonight

Campobello Is Scene Of Third City Cage Tilt

LaSalle Cagers Host Northern; Piedmont To Invade Romney

The thirty-seventh meeting of Fort Hill and Allegany on the Campobello court looms as the top attraction on tonight's basketball program in the tri-state area.

It's the third game of the intra-city series in which Allegany defeated LaSalle, 71-48, and LaSalle upset Fort Hill, 42-31.

Allegany is now tied with Bruce for the W.M.I. League leadership at 3-1. The game is the 12th of the season for the Campers who have bagged 10 wins and suffered one loss. Fort Hill owns a 2-2 record in the W.M.I. League and stands 7-4 for the season.

In the series which started in 1937, Allegany has won 25 games and Fort Hill 11.

Joe Stanislawczyk and John Fox will officiate in the Fort Hill-Allegany game scheduled to get underway at 8 o'clock. Jayvee quints will collide in the preliminary game at 6:40.

Two other W.M.I. League games are on tap for tonight. Bruce High's co-leaders figure to win over a crippled Valley High team at Lonaconing while Beall is favored to defeat Mt. Savage in Frostburg.

Northern At LaSalle

LaSalle's Explorers, badly jolted by Hyndman on Tuesday night, will oppose Northern High of Garrett County tonight on SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock. LaSalle has won eight and lost three while Coach Lilburn Brown's aggregation owns a 4-7 record.

Piedmont High's Lions will be angling for their 7th straight win in the P.V.C. when they collide with the Romney Pioneers tonight at Romney. Petersburg's Vikings visit Keyser while Moorefield High's Yellow Jackets will engage the Ridgeley High Blackhawks at Moorefield.

Parsons Seeks 10th Win

The third game of the triangular series for the Tucker County title is set for tonight with Parsons, only unbeaten quint in the tri-state area, scheduled to invade Thomas. Parsons with nine wins to its credit holds a 68-51 decision over Davis while Thomas also defeated Davis, 47-39.

Other scholastic games are:

Berkeley Springs at Wardensville.

Circleville at Davis.

Harman at Franklin.

Howard of Piedmont at Charles Town.

Alumni at Hyndman.

Virginia Deaf at West Virginia Deaf, Romney.

Martinsburg at Frederick.

Babe Zaharias Quits LPGA After Firing Of Corcoran

Betty Hicks' Article Displeases Golf Star

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP) — Babe Zaharias turned in her Ladies Professional Golf Association membership card in a huff today, let go with some words about some of her sister pros and talked of starting a brand new tournament group.

Her action drew varying comment from the lady golfers who play for money. Nearly all the big name pros are here for the Tampa women's open golf tournament.

The Babe was sore about two things:

1. The LPGA's dropping of Fred Corcoran as tournament director after golf equipment manufacturers who had been paying his salary took him off the payroll.

2. An article about pro women golfers by Betty Hicks in the Saturday Evening Post. The Babe said "it wasn't fair" and the "whole article was based on lies."

"I'm washing my hands of the whole thing, both as president and as a member," she declared.

"They released Fred Corcoran without asking me. . . .and they were warned not to do it but went ahead and did it."

She praised Corcoran, saying "he has been responsible for the money we're playing for now."

She related she and Corcoran "organized this present group in 1948, and now a lot of johnny-come-latelys are horning in and telling us how to run the show. I simply refuse to be pushed around. They are not treating Fred Corcoran fairly."

She added "let them go on with their committee and we'll form one (golfing group) with Fred Corcoran."

Musial Signs With St. Louis For $80,000

Stan Will Get Bonus Based On Attendance

By JIM SCOTT

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21—(INS)—Stan (The Man) Musial forecast a "good year" today as he signed a 1954 St. Louis Cardinal contract that calls for a pay check of at least $80,000.

The 33-year-old outfielder, highest salaried player in the National League, refused to be pinned down on the exact terms of the one-year pact he agreed to with club president August A. Busch, Jr. It was believed he signed for $80,000, including a $5,000 bonus based on attendance.

If so, Musial will have matched the annual salary he received the last three seasons—not bad for a player who was a sore-armed pitcher in the minors and received only $65 monthly in his first pro year in 1938. Stan said:

"Mr. Busch has been very fair to me. I only had an average (for him) season last year and am well satisfied with my contract. I believe I'm still in my prime and am looking forward to a great season."

"The man" got off to a miserable start in '53. Through June 20, he hit a lowly .256. But he closed with a rush to wind up with a .337 batting average — good for third place behind Brooklyn's Carl Furillo (.344) and teammate Al (Red) Schoendienst (.342).

The Donora, Pa., native, a fleet 175-pound, six-footer who plays with equal brilliance in the outfield or at first base, leads active national leaguers with a .345 lifetime batting average. Only Boston's Ted Williams—at .348—boasts a better mark among active players.

Musial tabbed the Cards "dark-horse contenders" in '54, who could go all the way "if their pitching holds up." He added that "league-leading Brooklyn, of course, and Milwaukee are the teams to beat."

The modest slugger won his sixth National League hitting crown in 1952 with a .336 average. Only two players—hall of famers Honus Wagner, with eight, and Rogers Hornsby, with seven—boast more titles in the league.

Musial is the 10th man on the Cards' 43-player roster to agree to terms.

Blue Man Develops Fever, Is Scratched; Jet Master Winner

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—White Oak Stable's Blue Man developed a slight fever today and was withdrawn from the Osceola Purse at Hialeah Park, taking the edge off the race that was to have marked his return to action after an 18-month layoff.

Jet Master, owned by Joseph Eitinger of New York, held on with courage to win the second division of the $5,000 purse, scoring by a length over K. G. Marshall's Judge J. B.

Woolford Farm's Sugarfoot was third, another length away, while Handsome Teddy was fourth ahead of seven other 4-year-olds and upward.

Jet Master, ridden by Sammy Boulmetis, paid $22.70, $7.30 and $4.60, and ran the six furlongs in 1:11 1/5 over a fast track. Jet Master won a section of the Hialeah Juvenile in 1951.

Blue Man, who won $259,585 in the winter and spring of 1952, went wrong in July that year and has not raced since.

Saxton To Face Laurent

Stars Play March 27

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — The eighth annual East-West college all-star basketball game will be held March 27 in Madison Square Garden, the sponsoring Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund said today.

A newcomer to Florida's racing wars this season will be the C. V. Reynolds' trained Dorchester Farm Stable. They will be quartered at Gulfstream Park.

Charles Town Dates Collide With Fairgo

West Virginia Track Takes July 5-Aug. 14

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 21 — Chairman James F. Edwards announced today State Racing Commission approval of dates at three West Virginia tracks for 1954, with 14 fewer days for racing than in 1953.

The dates include:

Charles Town—Feb. 20 March 20, July 5-Aug. 14 with July 29 to Aug. 4 for Charles Town Horse Show Assn., and Dec. 4-18.

Wheeling Downs—April 24-May 22, July 24-Oct. 2, and Nov. 3-27 excluding Nov. 25, Thanksgiving.

Waterford Park—May 22-July 3, and Oct. 9-30.

The announcement that Charles Town will hold its second meeting of the season July 5 to August 14 conflicts with the August 4 to 14 meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association, meaning that Cumberland must hold its 10-day session in June or make the proposed shift to Marlboro, August 4 to 14.

Racing fans here would rather see the meeting staged at Fairgo in June than have the ten days of the sport transferred to Marlboro.

Lions Retain Buddy Parker

Detroit Coach Gets One-Year Contract

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (AP) — Coach Buddy Parker reached agreement today with management of the Detroit Lions pro football champions on a new contract.

After a brief meeting in the Lions' office, Parker expressed satisfaction with the contract even though it was only for one year. He has guided the Lions to two straight National Professional League titles.

"I'm perfectly satisfied," Parker declared. "This will be my 20th season in the league and I've never had a contract longer than one year."

A Lions spokesman said it was contrary to club policy to disclose terms of Parker's contract except to note that it was for one year.

Joe Lapchick Agrees With Arbiter's Blast

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—A basketball coach backed up a referee today.

Coach Joe Lapchick of the New York Knickerbockers said that Referee Johnny Nucatola was right the other day when he blasted coaches for squawking too much.

"I watched some of our games (National Basketball Association) on television and saw a lot of useless bickering. I decided to take stock of myself," said Lapchick.

"The screaming we do incites crowds, particularly at home. It may intimidate the referees.

Palmer Inks Pact

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21 (AP)—Tackle Tom Palmer today became the first player to sign a 1954 contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. The terms were not disclosed.

ROMNEY COACH HONORED—Richard "Dick" McElwee, above, coach of Romney High School's football team, has been named to direct the North team in West Virginia's 21st annual North-South football game to be played August 14. McElwee's Pioneers won 10 games and lost one during the 1953 season. The Romney team copped the PVC title with a 5-0 record, won 10 games in a row and lost to Sistersville in the Class B playoff, 27-12. McElwee, who played on the West Virginia University varsity team in 1940, 1941 and 1942 and captained the Mountaineers in his senior year, coached Romney to the West Virginia Class B title in 1949 when his Pioneers beat Wirt High of Elizabeth, 20-19. The Pioneers won ten and lost one that season.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(INS)—The ball clubs soon will be going south to live on the fat of the land for several weeks. And few of the players will realize how soft they have it compared with the old-timers.

These modern birds will get $25 each a week for incidentals, plus, of course, their room and board in the best hotels.

Nowadays a ball player when traveling is supposed to get along on $8 a day for meal money, and that's about right.

We can remember when even the Giants—always high rollers under the late John McGraw—were allowed two bucks a day for meal money and managed nicely on that.

McGraw used to have the club secretary hand out cash for the meal money when traveling but he changed all that when he found out that some of the boys were skimping on their meals to save a few dimes.

As for the Dodgers, we can remember when that club always lived in the cheapest fleabag hotels and ate in the cheapest joints available.

We can remember, too, when some ball players would travel a mile afoot to find a hash house where they could save a dime on their breakfast.

We recall, too, how McGraw used to watch the tabs signed by the players in hotel dining rooms. The old boy wasn't interested in saving dough but in trying to find out who was overeating.

There was one fat player McGraw couldn't reduce in spring training no matter how he worked the player. Despite all McGraw could do, the fat boy kept on gaining.

McGraw would study the restaurant tabs the fat boy signed and always found them within the limit. Then one day Mac noticed that a certain sports writer was eating tremendous lunches.

Curious, he asked the writer why he ate such heavy meals at noon.

"Why," said the surprised scribe, "everybody knows I never eat at noon. I have a late breakfast and a big dinner and that's all."

So the next day McGraw himself watched the dining room from a hidden spot and spied his fat player packing away enough for three ordinary men.

McGraw grabbed the tab when the player signed it and found he had signed the sports writer's name to it as he had been doing right along. Need we say that thereafter that fat boy really began losing weight?

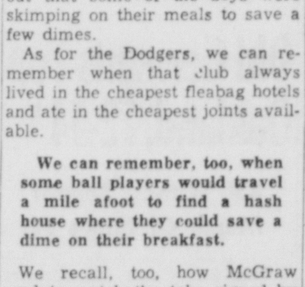

Orioles Sign Bobby Young

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP) — A hometowner, second baseman Bobby Young, had the honor today of signing the first contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 29-year-old was given an increase over his salary last year with the St. Louis Browns, General Manager Art Ehlers said.

Transfer of the Browns here meant a return not only home but to the same ballpark Young left three years ago. Then he played second base for the International League Orioles.

Young hit .255 and fielded .977 last season.

Dick McElwee Named North Team Mentor

Romney High Coach Chosen For Contest Scheduled Aug. 14

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 21 (AP)—Dick McElwee of Romney and Dick Ware of Barboursville were named tonight as head coaches for the 21st annual North-South football game next Aug. 14.

Russ Parsons of Charleston, the game's managing director, announced the selections at the ninth annual Victory Awards dinner which honored West Virginia's star athletes and coaches.

McElwee, whose Romney team completed its regular 1953 season undefeated but lost to Sistersville in the Class B playoff, will coach the North squad.

Ware, whose Barboursville Pirates won the Class A state championship, will direct the South team.

Principal speaker for the dinner was Leon Hart, former All-America from Notre Dame and an end on the Detroit Lions professional football team.

Gov. Marland attended and Bill Earley, backfield coach at Notre Dame, spoke briefly.

Other awards:

The Charleston Press Club's trophy went to West Virginia University football coach Art Lewis as Coach of the Year.

Enos Slaughter Plans To Enter Politics

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 21 (AP)—Enos Slaughter, 37-year-old St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, plans to enter politics, the chairman of the St. Clair County Democratic Committee announced today.

Maurice Joseph said he will head a ticket in the April 13 primary which will include Slaughter as a candidate for the office of county clerk.

Slaughter operates a Belleville jewelry store while not playing baseball.

JEAN ELIZABETH DAHL

Meyersdale High School Selects Entry For Annual Maple Queen Competition

MEYERSDALE — "I just don't know what to say, I'm so thrilled!" exclaimed Jean Dahl when she was informed that she had become the contestant to represent Meyersdale Joint High School in the Maple Queen Contest at Cambria County War Memorial in Johnstown, Wednesday, February 24.

Jeannie, as her friends know her, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dahl, 35 Centre Street, Myersdale, whose talent number was a pantomime suggested by her mother, of the popular "Dennis the Menace" song.

According to Miss Dahl, her main interest is personal clothing and she plans to take a two-year course in home economics at Indiana State Teachers College, followed by two more years at Penn State, eventually becoming a demonstrator or retailer in children's clothing. Her mother and father operate the Tot and Teen Shoppe, specializing in apparel for youngsters, and Jeannie has helped out there approximately seven years.

A soft-spoken girl, Jeannie is very active in school affairs. She is president of the science club, co-editor of the Hi-Point, clubs editor of the Hi-View, a member of the physical education, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y and dramatics clubs, Quill and Scroll and Honor societies.

Sports take up the remainder of her free time. Tennis and swimming, girl's basketball (four year second string guard) and her two years as a majorette for the high school band are her main interests in athletic activities.

An honor student all four years of high school, the Maple City contestant also sings second soprano in the school chorus and has been a member of a girl's ensemble which has sung before various organizations and meetings in Meyersdale.

Miss Dahl's measurements are height, five feet three and one-half inches; weight 110 pounds; waist, 22 inches; hips 33 inches and bust, 32 inches.

Jeannie has medium complexion, a pleasing personality and likes tall, well-dressed boys.

Maple Syrup Producers Meet Monday

Quality Control Is Conference Highlight

MEYERSDALE — In order to try to make the sweetest product of all—maple syrup—just a little sweeter and better, Somerset County maple syrup producers will gather in Somerset, Monday afternoon to meet with W. W. Simonds, extension forester; and Dr. J. Maghaski of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Philadelphia Regional Research Laboratory.

Called by Somerset County Farm Agent C. C. McDowell, the meeting will try to find ways and means of improving the quantity and quality of maple syrup and its other products.

Simonds will discuss some of the things he has observed in maple syrup production and marketing throughout Pennsylvania. He will explain the latest methods of producing high quality syrup, automatic draw-off valves, oil burning heat units, easy to read thermometers, better spiles and many other items.

Dr. Maghaski will speak regarding "What Makes Maple Flavor Good or Bad."

McDowell said that more than 25 organic acids, sugars and other compounds have been identified as components of maple syrup.

He also stated: "Pure maple syrup is becoming a scarce article on the grocery shelves. Those who have the foresight and vision to continue to produce pure maple syrup have now and will continue to have an exclusive field of their own."

Open to maple syrup producers everywhere, the meeting will bring out many of the problems confronting producers and possible solutions. Time of the meeting will be 1:30 p. m. in the Rural Electric Building in Somerset.

St. Paul's To Hear Seminary Student

FROSTBURG—David L. Scheidt, a senior at the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., will be guest preacher Sunday morning, 10:45 o'clock, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Supply pastors from the seminary are serving the local church until the arrival here, February 7, of Rev. William J. Yingling, of Lovettsville, Va., pastor-elect, and his family, when he will assume his new duties with St. Paul's congregation.

Kitzmiller Man Faces Hit-Run Charge In W. Va.

Paul Davis Held After Dual Crash

KEYSER — A Kitzmiller motorist is being held in Mineral County Jail, Keyser, after being involved in two sideswiping accidents Wednesday on West Virginia State Route 42 near Elk Garden.

Paul Davis, 33, is being held on a hit-run charge as the result of failing to stop after the first accident occurred. The arrest was made by Trooper W. Frank Bowley of the Keyser State Police detachment, who said additional charges are pending the completion of his investigation of the violations.

Trooper Bowley yesterday said Davis sideswiped a car driven by Howard Shuck, 18, of Kitzmiller, who was enroute to Elk Garden. Shuck stopped his vehicle after the accident and then gave chase to the Davis car after asking a family who lived near the scene to notify the State Police.

Shuck, two miles down the road arrived at the site of the second sideswiping mishap, and found the Davis vehicle wrecked after being thrown into guard rails along the highway. Davis reportedly had struck another car operated by Harold Armstrong, 23, of Vindex, while maneuvering a curve at high rate of speed, Trooper Bowley said, and left the scene after his car was wrecked.

Trooper Bowley said Davis reappeared while he was in the process of obtaining information from Shuck and Armstrong. He told the state policeman that he had taken a girl friend, who he said was injured in the accident, to a Kitzmiller doctor. He failed to give the name of the friend or the doctor however and was placed in jail to await a hearing on the hit-run charge.

Trooper Bowley said the Shuck vehicle was only dented and scratched, but that the two other cars were badly damaged where contact had been made.

Ferrebee Assigned Keyser Territory

KEYSER — Walter D. Ferrebee, 88 James Street, has been appointed local representative of The Prudential Insurance Company, George M. Martin, head of the Company's Cumberland District Office, announced yesterday.

Ferrebee is a native of Keyser and will handle sales and service of all types of Prudential Insurance in his territory. He will be a member of the Cumberland District Office staff.

Ferrebee is a veteran of World War II and saw action in the Battle of the Bulge during his 25 months of service in Europe.

Mrs. Ferrebee is the former Betty J. Butts of McCoole. They have two children.

Cresaptown Firemen Answer 53 Calls During Past Year

The Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Department answered 53 calls during 1953 for an all-time high.

In an annual report, Chief Joseph Wenrich said the previous total number of alarms for a 12-month period was 43. Property damage last year amounted to $19,500.

A breakdown of calls revealed: Woods, brush and grass, 39; homes, five; barns, two; false alarms, two and miscellaneous, five. The average number of men available for each call was 14.

Heaviest losses occurred:

August 12—barn, $5,000; September 23—Mills home above Rawlings, $8,000, and November 3—Dewey Sheppard residence, $6,000.

Wenrich said the department has three pieces of fire fighting equipment, a two-story garage or engine room and a one-story frame building for business purposes.

A home inspection campaign, resulting from telephone calls to the department, resulted in 25 investigations. However, he added, the same method of checking places has been eliminated this year.

Wenrich said cards requesting inspections of buildings have been placed in schools for pupils to take home. Parents are asked to check them "yes or no" for an inspection request.

The company summoned the La-Vale Fire Company once last year for assistance. Cresaptown firemen went to the aid of the Bowling Green department on three occasions.

West Virginia's Apple Crop Off 30 Per Cent

A combination of the elements—a late freeze and dry weather—dealt West Virginia's apple production a 1-2 blow during 1953 and resulted in a small set and below average size fruit crop.

The current crop amounted to 2,640,000 bushels, which is 30 per cent below the 1952 crop and 29 per cent less than the 10-year average production according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

In value, the 30 per cent decline will represent almost a million dollar loss to apple producers throughout the State. The 1953 crop was valued at $5,676,000 as compared to $6,598,000 during 1952. While the present crop was smaller, the preliminary price averaged 35 cents higher at $2.15 per bushel.

Largest losses were recorded for York Imperials and Golden Delicious varieties, while all other winter varieties were higher. However, the production of all summer and fall varieties was less than 1952 and the 1941-52 average crop.

West Virginia recorded the largest apple loss in the Appalachian Region. Of the other states, Pennsylvania lost 11 per cent of its productions, Maryland 29 and Virginia 29 per cent.

JEAN ELIZABETH DAHL

Meyersdale High School Selects Entry For Annual Maple Queen Competition

MEYERSDALE — "I just don't know what to say, I'm so thrilled!" exclaimed Jean Dahl when she was informed that she had become the contestant to represent Meyersdale Joint High School in the Maple Queen Contest at Cambria County War Memorial in Johnstown, Wednesday, February 24.

Jeannie, as her friends know her, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dahl, 35 Centre Street, Myersdale, whose talent number was a pantomime suggested by her mother, of the popular "Dennis the Menace" song.

According to Miss Dahl, her main interest is personal clothing and she plans to take a two-year course in home economics at Indiana State Teachers College, followed by two more years at Penn State, eventually becoming a demonstrator or retailer in children's clothing. Her mother and father operate the Tot and Teen Shoppe, specializing in apparel for youngsters, and Jeannie has helped out there approximately seven years.

A soft-spoken girl, Jeannie is very active in school affairs. She is president of the science club, co-editor of the Hi-Point, clubs editor of the Hi-View, a member of the physical education, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y and dramatics clubs, Quill and Scroll and Honor societies.

Sports take up the remainder of her free time. Tennis and swimming, girl's basketball (four year second string guard) and her two years as a majorette for the high school band are her main interests in athletic activities.

An honor student all four years of high school, the Maple City contestant also sings second soprano in the school chorus and has been a member of a girl's ensemble which has sung before various organizations and meetings in Meyersdale.

Miss Dahl's measurements are height, five feet three and one-half inches; weight 110 pounds; waist, 22 inches; hips 33 inches and bust, 32 inches.

Jeannie has medium complexion, a pleasing personality and likes tall, well-dressed boys.

Maple Syrup Producers Meet Monday

Quality Control Is Conference Highlight

MEYERSDALE — In order to try to make the sweetest product of all—maple syrup—just a little sweeter and better, Somerset County maple syrup producers will gather in Somerset, Monday afternoon to meet with W. W. Simonds, extension forester; and Dr. J. Maghaski of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Philadelphia Regional Research Laboratory.

Called by Somerset County Farm Agent C. C. McDowell, the meeting will try to find ways and means of improving the quantity and quality of maple syrup and its other products.

Simonds will discuss some of the things he has observed in maple syrup production and marketing throughout Pennsylvania. He will explain the latest methods of producing high quality syrup, automatic draw-off valves, oil burning heat units, easy to read thermometers, better spiles and many other items.

Dr. Maghaski will speak regarding "What Makes Maple Flavor Good or Bad."

McDowell said that more than 25 organic acids, sugars and other compounds have been identified as components of maple syrup.

He also stated: "Pure maple syrup is becoming a scarce article on the grocery shelves. Those who have the foresight and vision to continue to produce pure maple syrup have now and will continue to have an exclusive field of their own."

Open to maple syrup producers everywhere, the meeting will bring out many of the problems confronting producers and possible solutions. Time of the meeting will be 1:30 p. m. in the Rural Electric Building in Somerset.

Kitzmiller Man Faces Hit-Run Charge In W. Va.

Paul Davis Held After Dual Crash

KEYSER — A Kitzmiller motorist is being held in Mineral County Jail, Keyser, after being involved in two sideswiping accidents Wednesday on West Virginia State Route 42 near Elk Garden.

Paul Davis, 33, is being held on a hit-run charge as the result of failing to stop after the first accident occurred. The arrest was made by Trooper W. Frank Bowley of the Keyser State Police detachment, who said additional charges are pending the completion of his investigation of the violations.

Trooper Bowley yesterday said Davis sideswiped a car driven by Howard Shuck, 18, of Kitzmiller, who was enroute to Elk Garden. Shuck stopped his vehicle after the accident and then gave chase to the Davis car after asking a family who lived near the scene to notify the State Police.

Shuck, two miles down the road arrived at the site of the second sideswiping mishap, and found the Davis vehicle wrecked after being thrown into guard rails along the highway. Davis reportedly had struck another car operated by Harold Armstrong, 23, of Vindex, while maneuvering a curve at high rate of speed, Trooper Bowley said, and left the scene after his car was wrecked.

Trooper Bowley said Davis reappeared while he was in the process of obtaining information from Shuck and Armstrong. He told the state policeman that he had taken a girl friend, who he said was injured in the accident, to a Kitzmiller doctor. He failed to give the name of the friend or the doctor however and was placed in jail to await a hearing on the hit-run charge.

Trooper Bowley said the Shuck vehicle was only dented and scratched, but that the two other cars were badly damaged where contact had been made.

B & O Railroad Plans To Issue New Credit Cards

Will Simplify Needs For Sums Of Cash

A comprehensive credit card program enabling travelers on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to charge practically all expenses incidental to travel has been announced by Howard E. Simpson, president of the B.&O.

"The credit card is being offered as an added convenience to both commericial and pleasure travelers," Simpson said. "Our objective on the B&O is to make the purchase of rail and Pullman transportation simple and convenient."

The credit cards will eliminate the need for a traveler to carry large sums of money and at the same time provide a detailed and accurate statement of his traveling expenses for tax and other purposes.

The credit cards, which will be issued to both individuals and business concerns, will be honored:

At all B&O ticket offices—for rail, Pullman, parlor car and all-expense tour tickets routed via B&O or via B&O and connecting railroads; on B&O trains, for one-way rail, Pullman or parlor car charges; In B&O dining cars, for meals and refreshments; at B&O baggage offices, for baggage charges; at all Hertz-Rent-A-Car stations, for identification and credit privilege, if desired.

The credit cards also will be recognized as identification for acceptance of company or personal checks in payment for transportation or other services.

The credit card will be issued on application to the treasurer of the B&O. Application forms are now available at all local passenger and ticket offices of the railroad. Card holders will sign a receipt form covering each purchase and will receive a monthly statement covering all transactions made during the period.

Hitchhiker Hurt In Truck Accident

A 19-year-old Air Force man, who hitched a ride on a tractor-trailer was injured yesterday when the vehicle in which he was riding was rammed by another tractor-trailer on the Pennsylvania Turnpike about a mile east of the Bedford interchange.

State Police at Bedford said Theodore Brockett, Coopersville, Mich., was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a laceration of the mouth, abrasions of the right knee and a right hand injury. His condition was termed good.

Police said Brockett was riding in the front cab with Harry Poling, 48, of RFD 2, Bedford, who was driving his truck east on the highway, when a truck operated by Randolph Cox, 27, of Keysville, Va., rammed the Cox vehicle in the rear.

Neither of the drivers was hurt, but damage to the Cox tractor-trailer was estimated at about $7,000, and damage to Poling's vehicle was about $150.

W. Md. Railway Featured On Color Television Show

The Western Maryland Railway Company this week became the first railroad to participate in a television colorcast devoted exclusively to one railroad.

The 15-minute show, featuring slides of the Western Maryland's large marine terminal at Port Covington, Baltimore, was colorcast Wednesday over WMAR-TV, CBS's Baltimore outlet. The show was also seen on black and white sets.

John A. Inglis, foreign freight traffic manager; E. K. Jett, vice president of the A. S. Abell Company which operates the Baltimore Sunpapers and TV station; railroaders and others saw the show on the color TV set in the lobby of the old Sunpapers building.

C & P Telephone Co. Expands Rural Service

25 Subscribers Here Await New Phones

Expansion and improvement of telephone service in rural areas throughout Maryland is continuing, officials of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, explained. They noted a gain of 6,700 telephones in 1953 in areas served by the concern.

The number of subscribers waiting for service in rural areas was substantially reduced during the year and as of January 1, 1954 there were only 117 in Western Maryland, G. C. Hicks, division manager of the C&P explained.

C. Walter Haschert, Cumberland manager of the company, pointed out there are 25 applicants in rural areas surrounding the Queen City awaiting telephones.

Total telephones in rural areas in Maryland now stand at an all time high of 75,000, Hicks said. In 1945 only three out of 10 farms and other establishments in outlying districts had service. Now at the end of 1953, seven of 10 places have telephones, he continued.

Families with telephone service in the entire state, including those in metropolitan centers, also number some seven out of 10.

For new plant and equipment to serve the rural areas, expenditures of nearly $3,000,000 were made in 1953, Hicks explained. The total spent since 1945 for such purposes amounts to almost $18,000,000 providing for 2½ times as many telephones in rural areas during the same period.

Water Tank Tests Begin

Three small leaks were found yesterday when the North End water tank was filled to the halfway mark, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

He said the leaks will be closed and tension rods tightened before the rest of the 75,000 gallon water tank is tested.

Firemen from Central Fire Company yesterday used a second line fire truck to pump water for the test.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, said it took two hours and five minutes to pump the water.

Two big electric pumps which are being installed in the pump house will do the work in a few minutes after they are hooked up.

Final tests of the tank will be made in a few days, unless delayed by cold weather.

FATHER of five children, 29-year-old Charles E. Rogers has been charged with first degree murder by Albany, N. Y., police, who say that he admitted the brutal slaying of Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh, 65, a resident of the rooming house where Rogers also lived. The elderly woman was strangled, stabbed with scissors and slashed with a butcher knife. (International)

Cab Drivers Plan Contract Meetings

C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters Union, which represents the drivers, said Yellow Top drivers will meet at 2 p. m. and Astor Cab employes at 2:30 p. m.

Area Census Office Gets New Supervisor

Ralph E. Pearcy has been appointed supervisor of the Pittsburgh district office of the U. S. Bureau of the Census, according to Edwin P. Slabaugh, New York regional supervisor of that bureau.

Pearcy is a graduate of Salem (W.Va.) College and has been in charge of the Norfolk (Va.) office. The Pittsburgh Census Office conducts surveys and censuses pertaining to population, housing, agriculture, business, industry and a variety of other subjects. It has jurisdiction over bureau activities in Western Pennsylvania and parts of West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio.

Richmond Pastor To Speak Here

Rev. J. W. Leggett, Richmond, Va., will be the guest minister at the 50th anniversary of Central Methodist Church Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

The anniversary service will be open to the public and Rev. Harry C. Marsh, district superintendent of the Methodist Church, also will participate in the affair.

Rev. Leggett is a former pastor of the local Central congregation. Rev. Edgar Ward Hammersla is now the pastor of the church.

Do . . . Prescriptions Cost Too Much?

There's another way of putting this question. You can also ask—how much should you pay for a miracle?

Before the discovery of the wonder drugs like penicillin, the sulfas and others, many common illnesses were genuine family tragedies. Two examples were influenza, and pneumonia.

When either of these struck, the family breadwinner was off the job a long time. And sometimes permanently.

Million-dollar laboratories are working day and night to bring you and your doctor new discoveries in drugs that will make you well, keep you well. To you and everyone, that means less off-the-job-time, fewer deaths, longer life.

Any prescription that helps to accomplish that for you is a reasonable investment . . . isn't it?

Most drugs cost very little — thanks to American business volume and American competition, both of which keep prices low. Our fellow-scientist, the doctor, knows as we do that the miracle drugs do cost a little more, but a miracle, after all, is worth much more than dollars. Your doctor believes that. We do. Don't you?

Any prescription that helps to accomplish that for you is a reasonable investment . . . isn't it?

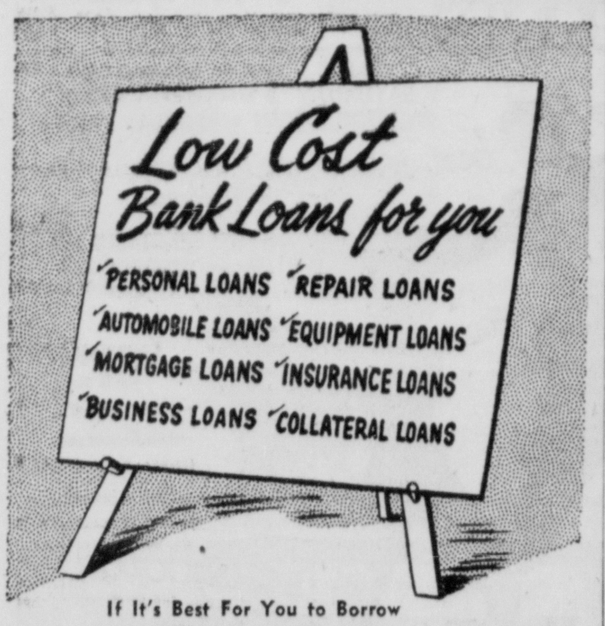

Most drugs cost very little — thanks to American business volume and American competition, both of which keep prices low. Our fellow-scientist, the doctor, knows as we do that the miracle drugs do cost a little more, but a miracle, after all, is worth much more than dollars. Your doctor believes that. We do. Don't you?

C & P Telephone Co. Expands Rural Service

25 Subscribers Here Await New Phones

Expansion and improvement of telephone service in rural areas throughout Maryland is continuing, officials of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, explained. They noted a gain of 6,700 telephones in 1953 in areas served by the concern.

The number of subscribers waiting for service in rural areas was substantially reduced during the year and as of January 1, 1954 there were only 117 in Western Maryland, G. C. Hicks, division manager of the C&P explained.

C. Walter Haschert, Cumberland manager of the company, pointed out there are 25 applicants in rural areas surrounding the Queen City awaiting telephones.

Total telephones in rural areas in Maryland now stand at an all time high of 75,000, Hicks said. In 1945 only three out of 10 farms and other establishments in outlying districts had service. Now at the end of 1953, seven of 10 places have telephones, he continued.

Families with telephone service in the entire state, including those in metropolitan centers, also number some seven out of 10.

For new plant and equipment to serve the rural areas, expenditures of nearly $3,000,000 were made in 1953, Hicks explained. The total spent since 1945 for such purposes amounts to almost $18,000,000 providing for 2½ times as many telephones in rural areas during the same period.

Water Tank Tests Begin

Three small leaks were found yesterday when the North End water tank was filled to the halfway mark, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

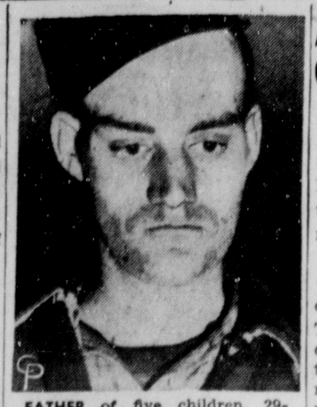

He said the leaks will be closed and tension rods tightened before the rest of the 75,000 gallon water tank is tested.

Firemen from Central Fire Company yesterday used a second line fire truck to pump water for the test.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, said it took two hours and five minutes to pump the water.

Two big electric pumps which are being installed in the pump house will do the work in a few minutes after they are hooked up.

Final tests of the tank will be made in a few days, unless delayed by cold weather.

FATHER of five children, 29-year-old Charles E. Rogers has been charged with first degree murder by Albany, N. Y., police, who say that he admitted the brutal slaying of Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh, 65, a resident of the rooming house where Rogers also lived. The elderly woman was strangled, stabbed with scissors and slashed with a butcher knife. (International)

Keeping Up With Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21 (INS) — With just a few details to be ironed out in the matter of borrowing her from MGM, Grace Kelly will get the femme lead in "Country Girl" with Bing Crosby. Both Producer William Perlberg and George Seaton want her, and it's now a question of permission from MGM.

She's getting a new contract with much more money at Metro, but the chance to play in a well-known property like "Country Girl" with Bing would certainly enhance her value.

Bing returned to town from Pebble Beach. He'll rehearse the rest of the week with Jack Benny for Jack's show.

Bing and Grace Kelly would certainly be a good combination. She's a beautiful girl and a good actress. As for Bing, he's one of the best.

The best break that Katharine Hepburn could get in the movie version of "The Millionairess" is that Alec Guiness, one of the world's great actors, will be her co-star.

La Hepburn emoted in the Shaw comedy very successfully on the London stage, but when it opened in New York the critics weren't so kind and commented that Katharine "over-emoted" to the point of scenery chewing.

Jose Ferrer was to have been her partner in the film, which will be made in England, but had to bow out. It delights Producer Lester Cowan's heart that Guiness read the script, liked it and says he will do it.

About the time that John Huston's father, Walter Huston, died, John was getting Frank Harris' classic, "Reminiscences of a Cowboy," ready to star Walter.

After his father's death John had no heart to go on, so he sold his script to Columbia. Now Jerry Wald has planned to film it as soon as he can get a lead.

He's handed the script to Randy McDouglas to revise, and he's talked to Humphrey Bogart, Kirk Douglas and several other top stars. Of course, it wouldn't be bad if he could get Clark Gable, but under the ruling of the Eric Johnston office, it's impossible to negotiate with any actor while he's still under contract to another studio.

But, Clark should be free the first of March if his figuring is right.

Looks as if Stanley Kramer hasn't a worry in the world about "Caine Mutiny." Two hundred and fifty officials of the Department of Defense and the Navy Department gave him an official letter of approval.

Stanley showed the picture in Washington, with Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Robert C. Carney present. The official letter reads in part: "We consider the job well done, and will look forward to working with you in the future."

I hear from Stanley that Composer Jimmy McHugh's song, "I Can't Believe That You're in Love With Me," is one of the highlights of his picture.

Deborah Kerr and Tony Bartley flew to their home in California for two weeks before she leaves for England to star in "The End of the Affair." She closes "Tea and Sympathy" June 10.

Ronald Reagan is named master of ceremony on the Lux radio show later this month when "Place in the Sun" is presented. Ann Blyth is the star. She probably plays the society girl.

Zsa Zsa Gabor has as usual plenty to talk about. One thing seems pretty certain — that there will be no reconciliation with George Sanders. Yet, you can never tell with this lady.

Nice that Dorothy Lamour has been held over at the Chez Paree in Montreal until Feb. 5.

Murderer's Victim Buried At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP) — Miss Della Honeyman, murder victim whose grocery store was a favorite hangout of neighborhood youngsters, was buried here today.

There was a requiem mass for the kindly, 67-year-old spinster at St. Gregory's Catholic Church.

She was beaten, strangled and raped in her little store some time Sunday by brutal burglars who missed about $1,800 in cash and some $900 in government bonds hidden in her living quarters behind the store.

Police today continued questioning a number of suspects and scoured dry cleaning establishments and laundries for blood-stained clothing in their effort to find the criminals.

It is believed more than one man was involved in the killing.

Co-Ops Told Further Price Drops Likely

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Members of the Maryland farm cooperatives heard today their long-range business prospects "are more optimistic" but received little comfort for the months just ahead.

Evidence at hand indicates a "further drop in net farm income," said Dr. Paul R. Poffenberger, University of Maryland agricultural economist.

Poffenberger spoke at the first state conference of its kind for farm co-ops. About 100 gathered for the opening of the two-day meeting, a series of clinics on co-op problems.

First state to adopt an unemployment insurance law was Wisconsin, in 1932.

The line of your back largely determines your beauty in standing! Let it be one of beauty!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How do you stack up? In other words, what is your silhouette as you assume an erect, standing position?

If you have ever studied the silhouette of trees, you are aware that what goes up straight can be mighty willowy and slim in effect. But when a tree branches broadly to the right, there are usually other branches to equal it in the opposite direction.

Translated into the terms of a feminine figure, this means that any irregularity in back is compensated by some irregularity in front in order to maintain a perpendicular balance. But, align the body correctly and you have a slim looking, erect column.

Out Of Line

That is something, however, that few women have as the years go by. They fall into exaggerated stances, throwing their bodies out of natural, easy and beautiful alignment. The greater the distortion, the less comfortable—and the greater the loss in physical beauty. The longer women persist in their bad habits, the greater their figure distortions become. And the line of the back is all important.

Take this little test . . . to see how well your body aligns: Seat yourself on the floor right up against the wall. Place your hands on top of your head. Cross your legs, and keeping them crossed, bring your knees up to your chest. Put your arms around them and hug them tight. Now check to see whether your spine touches the wall all the way. If it does, and you find the position comfortable, the chances are that your posture is pretty good.

Back-flattening Routine

But if you find the position uncomfortable, try this as an improving routine: Slowly straighten your legs in front of you as you pull your abdominal muscles in and keep your back flat against the wall during the entire attempt. Repeat ten times each day until you can accomplish the procedure on the floor, bring your knees up to your chest and cradle them in your folded arms. Now roll back till your head touches the floor and then forward to touch your toes to the floor. This rocking motion is a kink eradicator; most women can benefit by carrying it out twenty times a day. Furthermore, it's a relaxing activity, good to do when you are fatigued or full of tension.

The News From Washington, Ill.

My spy in Washington, Ill., has just bustled in, brimming with information about the thirty-five-foot, five-ton space ship which has just been awarded to a 10-year-old red-headed, freckle-faced Washington boy named Ricky Walker. Ricky won this curious gift, which wins the Crosby Prize for dizzy give-aways for 1954, by suggesting the best name for a new planet just discovered by Commander Buzz Corey on ABC-TV's "Space Patrol."

John Crosby

First question I asked my Washington spy: How did Mr. and Mrs. Walker react to the sudden acquisition of a thirty-five-foot, five-ton space ship. Well, said my man, the elder Walkers are not exactly overwhelmed with joy. They've got a small backyard and they don't want it cluttered up with thirty-five foot, five-ton space ships.

"Well," I asked, "how did Washington, Ill., (pop. 4,285) take it? Calmly?"

"Washington, Ill.," said my man, "went out of its mind. Biggest thing that ever happened in Washington, Ill. The mayor proclaimed it Ricky Walker Day. Schools closed. Banks closed. Everything closed. Saturday was proclaimed another Ricky Walker Day but on this one everything was open. Local merchants had 'out of this world' bargain sales to cash in on the space ship publicity."

"How about Ricky? This won't wreck his life or anything? Won't make him get out of step with the other 10-year-olds?"

"No. Level-headed boy, Ricky. Of course, he's pretty happy. He's had more pictures taken of him than he ever will have again for the rest of his life. News services, newspapers, 'Life,' newsreels. The newsreels were for NBC's program 'Today.' I wonder if the 'Today' people realize that 'Space Patrol' is an ABC program?"

The space ship, I ought to explain, is strictly earthbound and is really just an odd-shaped trailer. It is twelve feet high, eight feet wide and is pulled by a three-ton tractor-trailer which is part of the gift. The interior is a clubhouse with a circular table and benches, eight folding cots with sleeping bags, a kitchen compartment and food locker. It was built by a Los Angeles carriage company and cost $30,000, which is quite a load of dough for a 10-year-old boy's toy.

"What in tarnation does Ricky plan to do with the thing?" I asked.

"He wants his dad to drive the family to Cleveland in it to visit his grandparents. His father is a truck driver for a refrigerating company so he should be able to manage it. Eventually, Ricky wants to make it a Boy Scout clubhouse. He's not a Scout yet but he plans to be one in a couple of years. Right now he's busy showing the residents of Washington, Ill., through his space ship. Plans to show all 4,285 through it personally.

"And that," said my spy, stuffing his notes back in his briefcase, "winds up the space ship news from Washington, Ill. Hot rockets to you."

"Hot rockets to you, too," I said dreamily. I was wondering what it was like to be a 10-year-old boy who had suddenly acquired a $30,000 space ship. When I was 10, I was incessantly selling subscriptions to "Boy's Life" in the hope of being awarded a pony. I never got the pony and I never knew anyone who did get one. I got pretty bitter about it, figuring there weren't any ponies and the whole thing was a trick.

But now, along comes Ricky and his thirty-five-foot, five-ton space ship to prove that such wonders can happen to a 10-year-old boy. It restores a man's faith.

Come to think of it, I don't know what I would have done with a pony if I'd won one.

Right now he's busy showing the residents of Washington, Ill., through his space ship. Plans to show all 4,285 through it personally.

"And that," said my spy, stuffing his notes back in his briefcase, "winds up the space ship news from Washington, Ill. Hot rockets to you."

"Hot rockets to you, too," I said dreamily. I was wondering what it was like to be a 10-year-old boy who had suddenly acquired a $30,000 space ship. When I was 10, I was incessantly selling subscriptions to "Boy's Life" in the hope of being awarded a pony. I never got the pony and I never knew anyone who did get one. I got pretty bitter about it, figuring there weren't any ponies and the whole thing was a trick.

But now, along comes Ricky and his thirty-five-foot, five-ton space ship to prove that such wonders can happen to a 10-year-old boy. It restores a man's faith.

Come to think of it, I don't know what I would have done with a pony if I'd won one.

Goldfish Is Not "Article," England's Chief Justice Rules In Barter Case

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—England's lord chief justice, Lord Goddard, after deliberations with two other judges ruled yesterday that a goldfish is not an "article."

The strange action before the Queen's Bench Divisional Court grew out of transaction between a 14-year-old boy and a rag and bone merchant.

The boy brought a bundle of old clothes to the merchant, Willian Cannon, who paid the lad with a goldfish. This is a form of payment traditional among English rag and bone dealers who have discovered that children often prefer the pretty fish to money.

But a sanitary inspector stepped into this deal, and Cannon was charged with violating a 1936 health law.

The law reflects a popular view that objects handled by rag men are inclined to be dirty.

The statute says that in acquiring their wares rag men must not enter barter deals, and must not give any "article" to small boys.

But the rag men, on legal advice, continued to pass out the goldfish. A naked fish seemed to be something not covered by the law.

Justice Goddard, who usually presides over the most weighty criminal cases, said he had a long session with dictionaries last night. He found no goldfish among any of the definitions of an article.

In dismissing the appeal brought by the sanitary officials Lord Goddard said:

"Would anybody in ordinary parlance talk about a goldfish as an article? I do not think they would. It is straining the language to say that a goldfish is an article."

Little boys, therefore, can continue to count on getting a goldfish for their discarded wares.

The European Starlings which were first introduced into New York City in 1890 have spread to the Rocky mountains and a few scattered places beyond, to Mexico and to Canada as far north as Hudson Bay.

MINOR GAMES TOUGH

MAKING a minor suit game, requiring eleven tricks, is a tough proposition compared to scoring a ten-trick game in a major or a nine-trick one in No Trumps. That is, unless the minor suit situation is very good and the major or No Trump outlook very dismal. That's why fine players frequently strain to get into one of the other contracts, even at the cost of assuming a calculated risk. They will do it in No Trumps sometimes, with a totally unstopped suit, if they can assume that the partner is likely to have some kind of stopper in it.

	♠ Q 10 9 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ A K J 9 8 2 ♣ 9
♠ A K ♥ 9 5 2 ♦ 10 6 4 3 ♣ 10 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ A J 10 7 4 ♦ None ♣ 4 3
	♠ J 8 ♥ K 8 ♦ Q 7 5 ♣ A K Q J 8 7

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

There you have bidding, at two tournament tables, which, in its late stages, varied widely. At the second table, South, who kept his solid club suit hidden, reckoned he was ready for a heart lead and, since North could have nothing high in clubs, he was likely to hold at least three to the queen in spades. That proved right. All No Trump declarers took ten tricks, losing only three in the majors, except at one table where West led the heart 9, East put in the 10 to retain his A over the Q. South won with the K and twelve minor suit tricks enabled South to score all thirteen.

Minor suit game bidders all came to grief. One 5-Clubs declarer went down two because the spade A and K and heart 9 to the A brought a spade lead which South ruffed with an honor, thereby establishing West's 10 for a later trick. The diamond game seekers went down one through two tricks in spades and one in hearts. So the only good scores went to those who attempted No Trumps in the North or the South.

Daily Bridge Lesson

MINOR GAMES TOUGH

MAKING a minor suit game, requiring eleven tricks, is a tough proposition compared to scoring a ten-trick game in a major or a nine-trick one in No Trumps. That is, unless the minor suit situation is very good and the major or No Trump outlook very dismal. That's why fine players frequently strain to get into one of the other contracts, even at the cost of assuming a calculated risk. They will do it in No Trumps sometimes, with a totally unstopped suit, if they can assume that the partner is likely to have some kind of stopper in it.

	♠ Q 10 9 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ A K J 9 8 2 ♣ 9
♠ A K ♥ 9 5 2 ♦ 10 6 4 3 ♣ 10 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ A J 10 7 4 ♦ None ♣ 4 3
	♠ J 8 ♥ K 8 ♦ Q 7 5 ♣ A K Q J 8 7

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1. Pass	1 ♦	Dbl.	Rdbl.
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
Pass	2 ♦	2 ♥	4 ♣
Pass	4 ♦	Pass	5 ♦
2. Pass	1 ♦	Dbl.	Rdbl.
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
Pass	2 ♦	2 ♥	2 NT
Pass	3 ♦	3 ♥	3 NT

There you have bidding, at two tournament tables, which, in its late stages, varied widely. At the second table, South, who kept his solid club suit hidden, reckoned he was ready for a heart lead and, since North could have nothing high in clubs, he was likely to hold at least three to the queen in spades. That proved right. All No Trump declarers took ten tricks, losing only three in the majors, except at one table where West led the heart 9, East put in the 10 to retain his A over the Q, South won with the K and twelve minor suit tricks enabled South to score all thirteen.

Minor suit game bidders all came to grief. One 5-Clubs declarer went down two because the spade A and K and heart 9 to the A brought a spade lead which South ruffed with an honor, thereby establishing West's 10 for a later trick. The diamond game seekers went down one through two tricks in spades and one in hearts. So the only good scores went to those who attempted No Trumps in the North or the South.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 7 6 3 ♥ K 5 3 ♦ 10 6 3 ♣ A J 9 5
♠ Q J 9 5 ♥ J 7 2 ♦ 9 5 ♣ K Q 8 7	N W E S	♠ 4 ♥ A Q 10 9 8 6 4 ♦ K Q J 4 ♣ 10
	♠ A K 10 8 2 ♥ None ♦ A 8 7 2 ♣ 6 4 3 2

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

If you sat in the East and knew South as a hater of high original bids and overcalls, what would you do?

BLIND!

It you can't see where you can save as much as $300 by buying your next car from us you'd better have your eyes examined at once. The difference between our prices and those of others is, they try to see how high a price they can get and, we try to see how low we can sell!

We want to sell 500 cars in 1954 and are going to sell them no matter how small the profit. We pay no rent and have no one to support; not even a wife. We defy anyone to meet our prices.

BLIND!
If you can't see where you can save as much as $300 by buying your next car from us you'd better have your eyes examined at once. The difference between our prices and those of others is, they try to see how high a price they can get and, we try to see how low we can sell!

We want to sell 500 cars in 1954 and are going to sell them no matter how small the profit. We pay no rent and have no one to support; not even a wife. We defy anyone to meet our prices.

On The Line
by Bob Considine

GROTON, Conn. (INS) — Here sits Nautilus, ready for Mamie Eisenhower to tap her on the shoulder with a bottle of fizzy and tell her to go to work.

It is hardly hyperbole to say that Nautilus will be prettier in the water than Esther Williams. Also, Nautilus can cook. She can whip up tempting meals from her big refrigerators and send some of them up the world's only submerged dumb-waiter to officer country on the top deck. The food will contain imprisoned sunshine, for Nautilus is a ship that could keep its crew under water for weeks or even months.

She'll be able to sail, if that's still the word, to the very roots of the North Pole, after a voyage under the ice cap that crowns the earth. She'll be able to explore depths unknown to all save a few intrepid scientists, and they had to remain in one place. The world is Nautilus' beat.

Conceivably, Nautilus could destroy the fleets of the world (including our own) single-handedly. She can cruise 30,000 miles on a few little nuggets of uranium or plutonium, at depths and speeds which render retaliation next to impossible. Her torpedoes can be shot in bursts against an enemy concentration or pinpoint a single target. They are equipped to "home" on targets. They could be equipped with atomic warheads if necessary.

She could surface many miles off a naval installation, or ships anchored as they were at Pearl Harbor, launch radio-controlled supersonic atomic rockets, dive, and no searching force could find her.

Against any rival submarine, she has incredible electronic devices that see and hear underwater and aim the torpedo properly. These and other devices will serve as headlights for the skipper, Commander Eugene Parks Wilkinson, as he sends Nautilus through the ink of very deep and wholly unexplored depths.

Nautilus was not built to be a member of a submarine pack. She is the pack.

Until Nautilus was being built, nobody in the Navy worried much about the word habitability. Then it occurred—as it will more and more in this age of engineering marvels—that Nautilus could be only as great as her crew. It had to be a happy, efficient, rested crew. But you can't put men below the surface for weeks or maybe months in the latest postwar type conventional submarine and keep them happy, efficient and rested.

Enter Lippincott and Marguilis, Inc., industrial designers. Result: a crew mess with yellow walls and bright red seat cushions, other colors tested to relieve tension and irritability, tables that fold into comfortable movie benches, foam rubber mattresses, increased head room between bunks, an adequate library, a juke box, writing "room," perpetual snack bar, special area for the chiefs, storage room for personal effects, recreational areas, officers' staterooms, reading lights on each bed, lockers, etc. etc. etc.

If Nautilus' atomic "engine" breaks down, nobody will go in the reactor room and try to fix it. It is no man's land on this ship. Nautilus has conventional Diesel and battery propulsion tucked away inside her, against just such an emergency. If her specially designed oxygen-making equipment goes on the blink, Nautilus can come up near the surface, stick up her snorkel and suck in fresh air.

As Clay Blair remarks in "The Atomic Submarine and Adm. Rickover," (Henry Holt and Co.) Nautilus and her crew have nothing to fear in the future unless the enemy comes up with a Nautilus: "Nothing scares a submariner as much as the thought of another submarine stalking him through his private depths . . . Adm. C. B. Momsen once described it as being like two blindfolded adverseries with baseball bats locked together in a room, each waiting for the other to strike."

Anyway, let 'er go, Mamie!

Adv. N—Jan. 8-15-22.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE KNOWN AS ALL THAT LOT OR PARCEL OF GROUND SITUATED ON THE EAST SIDE OF HOMER STREET IN THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND, ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND, KNOWN AND DESIGNATED AS NOS. 432-434 HOMER STREET AND AS PART OF LOT NO. 59 AND ALL OF LOT NO. 60, SUB-DIVISION KNOWN AS "WILSONIA" AND IMPROVEMENTS THEREON CONSISTING OF A 2 STORY, 2 FAMILY FRAME DWELLING HOUSE.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage dated June 22, 1946 and recorded among the Mortgage Records of Allegany County, Maryland in Liber No. 183, Folio 378 and duly assigned to George W. Legge for the purpose of foreclosure and collection, default having occurred in the covenants and conditions in said mortgage, the undersigned Assignee of said mortgage will sell at public auction on South Liberty Street, along side of the Second National Bank in Cumberland, Maryland on

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1954
At 10:30 o'clock A. M.

All that lot or parcel of ground situated on the East side of Homer Street, in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, known and designated as part of Lot No. 59 and all of Lot No. 60 in a certain sub-division known as "Wilsonia", a plat of which is recorded in Liber No. 82, folio 318, of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and the courses and distances of the lots therein recorded in Liber No. 82, folio 314, etc., and which said particular parcel is described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the East side of Homer Street at the end of 21.2 feet on the first line of Lot No. 59 of "Wilsonia" addition to Cumberland, said point also being the end of the first line of part of Lot No. 59 described in a deed from Magdalene V. Hoyle to Glisppia B. Hoyle et ux, dated September 11, 1928, and recorded in Liber No. 159, folio 130, one of said Land Records, and running then with the East side of Homer Street, South 13 degrees 35 minutes West 28.8 feet to the dividing line between Lots Nos. 60 and 61; and with said division line, South 76 degrees 25 minutes East 100 feet to a 15 foot alley; and with it, North 13 degrees 35 minutes East 25 feet to the dividing line between Lots Nos. 59 and 60; then with part of said division line, North 76 degrees 25 minutes West 37 feet; then North 26 degrees 10 minutes West 5 feet; then North 76 degrees 25 minutes West 60 feet to the beginning.

Together with and including a special right-of-way over all that adjoining part of Lot No. 61 in said "Wilsonia Addition" fronting 4½ feet on the east side of Homer Street and running back an even width of 65 feet for the purpose of a walk-way, ingress and egress to and from the property herein conveyed and also for the purpose of maintaining and repairing sewer and water lines through and under said parcel of land.

BEING the same property conveyed by John R. Treiber and Sarah R. Treiber, his wife, to Millard Daniel Robertson and Hallie I. Robertson, his wife, by deed dated the 22nd day of June, 1946, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, in Liber No. 209, folio 580.

The above described property is improved by a two family, two story frame dwelling house, no basement, heated by stoves with partial baths on each side and rubberoid roof.

State, county and City of Cumberland taxes and other public liens and charges will be adjusted to the date of sale.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash on day of sale and upon the ratification of said sale by the court a good and sufficient deed will be delivered to the purchaser or purchasers thereof.

George W. Legge,
Assignee of Mortgage for the purpose of foreclosure.

GROTON, Conn. (INS) — Here sits Nautilus, ready for Mamie Eisenhower to tap her on the shoulder with a bottle of fizzy and tell her to go to work.

It is hardly hyperbole to say that Nautilus will be prettier in the water than Esther Williams. Also, Nautilus can cook. She can whip up tempting meals from her big refrigerators and send some of them up the world's only submerged dumb-waiter to officer country on the top deck. The food will contain imprisoned sunshine, for Nautilus is a ship that could keep its crew under water for weeks or even months.

She'll be able to sail, if that's still the word, to the very roots of the North Pole, after a voyage under the ice cap that crowns the earth. She'll be able to explore depths unknown to all save a few intrepid scientists, and they had to remain in one place. The world is Nautilus' beat.

Conceivably, Nautilus could destroy the fleets of the world (including our own) single-handedly. She can cruise 30,000 miles on a few little nuggets of uranium or plutonium, at depths and speeds which render retaliation next to impossible. Her torpedoes can be shot in bursts against an enemy concentration or pinpoint a single target. They are equipped to "home" on targets. They could be equipped with atomic warheads if necessary.

She could surface many miles off a naval installation, or ships anchored as they were at Pearl Harbor, launch radio-controlled supersonic atomic rockets, dive, and no searching force could find her.

Against any rival submarine, she has incredible electronic devices that see and hear underwater and aim the torpedo properly. These and other devices will serve as headlights for the skipper, Commander Eugene Parks Wilkinson, as he sends Nautilus through the ink of very deep and wholly unexplored depths.

Nautilus was not built to be a member of a submarine pack. She is the pack.

Until Nautilus was being built, nobody in the Navy worried much about the word habitability. Then it occurred—as it will more and more in this age of engineering marvels—that Nautilus could be only as great as her crew. It had to be a happy, efficient, rested crew. But you can't put men below the surface for weeks or maybe months in the latest postwar type conventional submarine and keep them happy, efficient and rested.

Enter Lippincott and Margullis, Inc., industrial designers. Result: a crew mess with yellow walls and bright red seat cushions, other colors tested to relieve tension and irritability, tables that fold into comfortable movie benches, foam rubber mattresses, increased head room between bunks, an adequate library, a juke box, writing "room," perpetual snack bar, special area for the chiefs, storage room for personal effects, recreational areas, officers' staterooms, reading lights on each bed, lockers, etc. etc. etc.

If Nautilus' atomic "engine" breaks down, nobody will go in the reactor room and try to fix it. It is no man's land on this ship. Nautilus has conventional Diesel and battery propulsion tucked away inside her, against just such an emergency. If her specially designed oxygen-making equipment goes on the blink, Nautilus can come up near the surface, stick up her snorkel and suck in fresh air.

As Clay Blair remarks in "The Atomic Submarine and Adm. Rickover," (Henry Holt and Co.) Nautilus and her crew have nothing to fear in the future unless the enemy comes up with a Nautilus: "Nothing scares a submariner as much as the thought of another submarine stalking him through his private depths . . . Adm. C. B. Momsen once described it as being like two blindfolded adverseries with baseball bats locked together in a room, each waiting for the other to strike."

Anyway, let 'er go, Mamie!

Aircrafts Best Performers In Irregular Stock Market

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Aircrafts were the best performers today in an irregular Stock Market.

They got a boost when President Eisenhower recommended 22 per cent of the defense budget be devoted to aircraft.

Leader in that division was Douglas Aircraft up 3 at 88½ after touching a new 1953-54 high of 89½. Douglas had the added push of excellent earnings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $111.90. As a consequence the day will go into the records as a decline. But the mixed nature of things was shown by the fact that the industrial component of the average was up 20 cents, while the railroads were off 30 cents, and the utilities held unchanged.

The slightly higher tinge to the market was shown by the 419 gainers as compared with 413 losers. In this case the description of higher can be justified only by the numerical evidence. There were 45 new highs and no new lows for 1953-54 touched.

Burroughs Corp. was the day's most active issue off ¼ at 16¾. It was followed by Curtiss Wright up ¼ at 8⅜, Consolidated Vultee up ¼ at 20, New York Central up ⅛ at 20⅜, and North American Aviation up ⅜ at 22⅞.

Law May Halt State Plan On Sewage Plant

Kimble Measure Exempts County

Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble said yesterday the State Board of Health cannot force the city to sell bonds for a sewage disposal plant without a referendum.

He said a bill he introduced in the Senate last year will stop mandatory action by the Board of Health on the issue until the people vote on the bond issue which would finance the work.

Under a state law passed in 1951, the Board of Health can compel municipalities to issue bonds, up to two per cent of the assessed evaluation, to finance sewage disposal facilities.

One county, Dorchester, was exempted from the mandatory provisions by an amendment which required that bonds could not be issued for sewage disposal without a referendum.

Exempts Allegany

Last year, Senator Kimble introduced and pushed through the Assembly SB 297, which amended the Dorchester exemption law by adding Allegany County.

The law provides that in Allegany and Dorchester Counties, no bonds can be issued for a sewage authority unless they are approved by the voters.

He said the Board of Health asked Governor McKeldin to veto the law, insisting it would deprive the board of its authority to force action.

The law was enacted following a hearing, and after Senator Kimble insisted no major project such as the $2,000,000 sewage plant should be forced upon the city in its present economic condition until the people vote on the plan.

He admitted the state might force the issue if it can find some plan to finance the plant without issuing bonds.

People Must Vote

Court action will come to naught, he predicted, unless the courts decide the law exempting the two counties is unconstitutional.

The state, he said, might compel the city to put the issue up to referendum this year, and at each succeeding city election.

Cumberland, he added, should have a good sewage plant, but cannot afford it at present due to other commitments.

The Board of Health is now pressing for action on a demand that the city proceed with the construction of the plant.

A conference will be held in Baltimore on January 28, at which time the city and the Attorney General's office will learn the results of a recent pollution survey of the Potomac River here.

A. T. Hartman, assistant attorney general, has told Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, that the health board wants the case against Cumberland expedited.

City officials are committed to build the plant, have plans for the project, and have set aside land for the site, but are asking that the work be deferred until some of its other projects are out of the way.

They refused to put a $1,500,000 sewage plant bond issue to a referendum in 1952, because costs were not known.

Former District Man Killed In Motor Mishap

Bennie T. Via Dies In Auto-Truck Crash

A former area man was killed instantly in a headon auto-truck collision Wednesday on Route 50 about six miles west of Winchester, Va.

Authorities said the accident occeurred as Bennie Thurston Via, 26, of Richmond, Va., formerly of near Hartmansville, W. Va., was returning to Richmond after visiting his parents at Hartmansville.

Virginia State Trooper L. P. Covestone said Via's auto, headed west on Route 50, and a pickup truck, headed east and driven by Louis Melvin Prather, 32, Kearneysville, W. Va., collided headon on a curve in the road. The accident occurred about 5:25 p. m.

Via was killed instantly and Prather was taken to a Winchester hospital where attaches said he sustained cuts of the face and head, a fractured right knee and a dislocated hip. His condition was reported as good.

Authorities said both vehicles were demolished and they estimated property damage at about $1,100.

Via was born December 21, 1927 in Baltimore, a son of Norman Bennie and Louise Wooding (Thurston) Via. His parents' home is on Route 50 near Hartmansville on top of Allegany Mountain. The mother has been a patient in Potomas Valley Hospital, Keyser, for two months.

Via has been a yard clerk for the C. and O. Railroad at Richmond, for several years. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and served two years in the U. S. Army during World War II.

Besides his parents, he is survived by four brothers, Solomon, Thomas, Garry, and David Via, all at home, and seven sisters, Mrs. Thomas Aronholt, New Creek; Mrs. Harry Owens and Mrs. Melvin Oates, Kitzmiller; Betty, Gloria, Donna and Kerry Via, all at home.

The body is at the Sharpless Funeral Home, Blaine, W. Va.

Four Men Enlist In Army, Air Forces

Three men were enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Forces and one in the United States Army at the local recruiting station this week.

Sent to Sampson Air Force Base at Geneva, N. Y. for basic training and to begin four-year enlistments are, Donald L. Short, LaVale; Robert G. Snyder, 306 Front Street, Westernport; and Frederick D. Harrison, RFD No. 1, Ridgeley.

Gerald F. Whetstone, RFD No. 1, Frostburg, began a three-year Army enlistment at Fort George G. Meade.

Optimist Club Will Sponsor "Annie Get Your Gun" Here

"Annie Get Your Gun," direct from Broadway with an all star New York cast, will be staged here on March 29 in Fort Hill High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Heading the cast of the hilarious comedy and great love story with exciting dancing, eye filling costumes and scenery, will be Miss Lynne Torres.

The Stanley Woolf production is described as the greatest musical under the sun and includes a number of song hits by Irving Berlin.

General chairman for the program will be Donald W. Mason, with Paul Bixler in charge of publicity. Tickets for the stage play, according to Bixler, will go on sale in about a month.

Proceeds from the program will be used in furthering boys work of the Optimist Club. At present, according to Frank Kaplon, who is in charge of boys work, there are about 40 members in the Boys Club.

The Optimists pay membership fees for the boys at Central YMCA and during the year have various activities including a summer outing, Christmas party and also sponsor a ball team.

LYNNE TORRES

Each year the Optimist Club plans to bring a stage production similar to "Annie Get Your Gun," to Cumberland. Last year, "Kiss Me Kate," presented here, was a sellout.

Snow And Sleet Expected To Hit Maryland Today

Storm Reported Moving From Gulf

The Weather Bureau issued a special bulletin last night, warning Marylanders that a "developing storm system" with snow and sleet was heading toward the state.

Temperatures in Cumberland and sections east were in the 40s late last night. To the west, where the storm was expected to enter the state mercury was in the mid-30s.

"Below Freezing"

The bulletin said the storm was to enter the state in the extreme west section late last night or early this morning and added, "temperatures will be below the freezing point and will remain so all day today."

"A developing storm system has moved up out of the Gulf of Mexixco and is moving northeastward from the Lower Mississippi Valley and is causing an extensive area of precipitation.

"This precipitation should be moving into the extreme west portion of Maryland as snow mixed with sleet. This combination will be moving eastward to the coast through morning hours," the bulletin said.

Sharp Drop

The preliminary snow bulletin was issued after a sharp drop in temperatures ended the relatively balmy weather Maryland had experienced for about 24 hours, the Bureau added. Earlier the state had been cloaked by heavy fog.

The first evidence of the storm was seen in Oakland in Garrett County about 10 o'clock last night when a heavy sleet began falling. Mercury was falling rapidly and a dense fog, which engulfed the town all day, made travel hazardous.

Earlier last night, travelers from that area said roads were slippery and wet, and visibility was at zero. Temperature before the sleet was in the 30s.

Although mercury skidded to freezing in other sections of Maryland yesterday, the Cumberland area experienced no sudden drop in thermometers up to 10 o'clock last night.

Shortly after 10 p. m. mercury was dropping rapidly in Hagerstown and Frederick according to Maryland State Police, who also reported heavy sleet in Garrett County. Indications were the storm was moving eastward.

Besides Garrett County, a heavy fog cloaked Elkins and Thomas, W. Va. at 9 p. m. with mercury at 28 and 34 degrees. Other sections in the Tri-State had only cloudy skies, and temperatures were comparatively high.

The Bedford, Pa. area got a heavy rain yesterday afternoon, but mercury was still around 40 at about 9:30 p. m. West Virginia State Police at Romney said temperature in that section was in the 40s also.

A spot check of the district at 9 p. m. showed temperatures as: Hardman, 36; Blazer, 32; Terra Alta, 32; Altamont, 30, Orleans Road, 40; Harpers Ferry, 40; Rockwood, Pa., 30, and Deal, Pa., 26.

Legislators To Meet With Municipal League

The Western Maryland section of the Maryland Municipal League will outline its legislative program to area legislators today at 6:30 p. m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Ed Johnson, executive secretary of the league, will be present to explain the program asked by communities in Maryland.

All members of the Allegany and Garrett delegations to the General Assembly and area mayors have been invited to attend.

Boy Remains Fair

Vincent Blake, 14, of 144 Hanover Street, is reported as resting comfortably at Sacred Heart Hospital. The youth was badly burned when a phosphorus stick he was carrying in his pocket exploded. His condition remains fair.

Way Being Cleared For Approach

City workers are busy in Riverside Park, clearing away trees and flower beds which must be removed to make way for the Maryland approach to the new Potomac River Bridge. Workmen yesterday topped the trees which will be victims of the road work, and plan to fell the trees today. The supports of the span can be seen in the background, along with rigs being operated by the E. J. Albrecht Company, which is rushing the Industrial Dam toward completion.

Work Load Case At Amcelle To Be Continued

Arbitrator Rules For Continuation

Negotiations on a dispute concerning proposed work loads in the Twisting Examination Department of the Amcelle plant will be continued as a result of an arbitrator's decision.

In an award forwarded to Neil Toey, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), Robert P. Brecht, arbitrator, denied the Celanese Corporation's request for dismissal of the case.

He directed both parties to continue the case on its merits, saying the issue had been processed literally.

The work assignments pertained to the packing of 9-SK and 9-KD bobbins into newly designed packing cases. Before the new work assignments, workers were required to pack 10 cases, or 1,200 bobbins each shift. New assignments put into operation June 15 boosted the work load to 24 cases, or 2,800 bobbins, an increase of 140 per cent.

The company's position was that the case was not arbitable, since the time limit for processing the grievance had elapsed. The union said its counter proposal for a work load of 20 cases was still under consideration when the deadline arrived.

A hearing on the company request was held here November 18.

Water Company Names Officers

Directors of the Evitts Creek Water Company were relected at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon in City Hall.

They are Clifton W. White, chairman; Mayor Roy W. Eves and Charles M. Koontz, Bedford, Pa., solicitor. Miss Mary Clay was re-elected as secretary.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, was present.

The company is a Pennsylvania corporation set up to control the city's holdings in nearby Pennsylvania, where the city's dams and filtration plant is located.

The water officials recommended that the Mayor and Council renew the contract of its superintendent, George M. Hitchcock, at the present salary of $6,500 a year. Hitchcock's contract technically expired on January 15.

The position includes quarters at Lake Gordon, where the superintendent is required to live.

The Weather

While the weatherman last night was predicting lowering temperatures with possible sleet and snow for this area today and tonight, a rise in temperature and slight rainfall Thursday removed some of the ice and snow. Mercury yesterday reached an official high of 52 in the early morning hours. During that period four one-hundredths of rain fell. Low for the day was 37 and at 8 p. m. yesterday mercury again steadied at 37 officially. Humidity was recorded at 82 per cent at 6 p. m.

Editors Take Up Justice Douglas' Hike Challenge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Two Washington Post editors have accepted Supreme Court Justice Douglas' challenge to take an 185-mile walk with him along the historic Chesapeake and Ohio Canal towpath.

Douglas hurled the challenge in a letter to the Post after the newspaper had published an editorial endorsing use of the strip from here into Western Maryland for a scenic parkway.

The justice, who spends his vacations mountain climbing, called that stretch of country "a sanctuary for everyone who loves woods."

Douglas said this sanctuary would be "utterly destroyed by a fine two-lane highway."

He then said he wished "the man who wrote your editorial . . . approving the parkway would take time off and come with me" to take a look at it.

Today, Robert H. Estabrook, editor of the Post's editorial page, and Merlo J. Pusey, the Post's associate editor, took up the dare. Estabrook said he and Pusey were double-teaming so they could spell each other against the athletic justice.

First Federal Names Officers

C. Arthur Brotemarkle and Robert T. Powell were re-elected for three-year terms as directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association at the annual meeting Tuesday.

Following their election, the board organized by re-electing Lynn C. Lashley, president; Powell and Brotemarkle, vice presidents; Gerald L. Harrison, vice president and secretary; William H. Harman, treasurer; Mrs. Henrietta C. Ponton, assistant secretary; Mrs. Cora Z. Hardin, assistant treasurer, and George W. Legge, counsel.

Holdover directors are Lashley, Gordon L. Bowie, John G. Weible and Joseph K. Trenton.

In his annual report, Lashley listed total assets as of December 31, 1953, at $11,008,031.24, an increase of $1,634,330.47 over the previous year. The net increase in savings amounted to $1,454,972.86 to put total savings in the association now at $9,490,253.84.

Lashley also reported 7,029 savings account holders and dividends paid in 1953 in the amount of $166,455.66. Of earnings, $72,203.60 was allocated to reserves, boosting total reserves to $757,969.10. In the past year 509 home loans totaling $2,395 of that total devoted to new 395 of the total devoted to new construction.

County Lawyers To Attend Meet

Many Allegany County lawyers will attend the mid-winter meeting of the Maryland Bar Association to be held today and tomorrow at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

Included in the group from here will be William C. Walsh, Edward J. Ryan, William A. Gunter, William J. Gunter, Leslie J. Clark and Thomas B. Finan.

Also attending the two-day conference will be Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of the Allegany County Circuit Court. They are in Baltimore attending a conference of the Maryland judges being held yesterday and today.

Tonight at a dinner in the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, the county attorneys will hear a talk by Justice Felix Frankfurter, of the U. S. Supreme Court.

This afternoon the judges will attend a discussion with the bar association on pre-trial conferences.

ICC Opposes W. Md. Plan For Stocks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner recommended today against proposed corporate changes in the Western Maryland Railway Co., relating to terms of its preferred and common stocks.

The railway proposed to issue new 5 per cent first preferred stock with dividends cumulative to $15 a share; new 4 per cent noncumulative second preferred stock and new common stock of $10 par value.

The report said the purpose of the plan was to eliminate dividend stock and eliminate provisions that prevent unlimited accumulations of such dividends; and to make possible the declaration of future dividends on second preferred and common stocks.

Examiner T. M. Cremins said the plan doesn't seem in the interest of the public or first preferred stock holders.

News In Brief

John Meister, Bedford Road, who was admitted Monday to Sacred Heart Hospital with injuries suffered while at work at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, was reported mproved yesterday. Meister suffered a fractured skull and fractured nose when he was struck by a piece of metal.

Two area youths have enlisted in the Marine Corps at the local recruiting station for three years. They are Samuel Lee Keister, of Centreville, and Floyd Ray Tallman, of Ridgeley. Both were assigned to Parris Island, S. C., for training.

The Branch Motor Express of Oakland was fined $51.45 during the final week of 1953 on overloading charges filed by the State Roads Commission.

East Side firemen were called yesterday at 10:48 a. m. to the home of Mrs. W. L. House, 478 Goethe Street, to investigate a smoke scare.

Applies For License

Edward J. Wilson yesterday submitted an application to the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners for a beer, wine and liquor license on the premises at 200 South Mechanic Street.

City Collections High, Spending Is Below Par

Tax Levy Reaches 94½ Per Cent Mark

The City of Cumberland ended half of the 1953-54 fiscal year with 84 per cent of its $1,400,630 levy collected, and with spending several points below par.

The tax levy was even better, as collections hit the 94½ per cent mark by December 31, 1953.

A report on the condition of the levy, released yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, showed that total collections were at the $1,175,420.88 mark, or 84 percent of the total levy.

The major item in collections were taxes. The $930,740.68 collected represented 84 per cent of the tax levy.

State shared income has brought in $49,917.82 from the city's share of state income taxes, $37,845.30 from state gas and auto tax and $22,742.01 from state racing income.

Uncollected items totaling $225,209.12 include $54,159.32 in city taxes, $58,528.25 from general taxes, $24,490.85 from general and special income, $11,759.89 in recreation income, $28,154.70 from state gas and auto taxes and $22,257.99 from state racing income.

Some of this state-shared income is not expected until toward the end of the fiscal year, and amounts due are based on past collections.

To operate the various departments of the city, $548,233.99 has been spent. This represents about 47 per cent of the $1,171,676.79 which was allotted in the levy. Fifty per cent would have been par on December 31.

Most departments appeared to be spending about on schedule.

Kingwood Tipple Fire Being Probed By Fire Marshal

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 21 (AP)—State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper said his office has been asked to investigate a fire which occurred near Kingwood early yesterday.

Raper said the fire, of unknown origin, broke out about 2 a.m. in a tipple of the Kray Coal Co., four miles from Kingwood.

Stanley Ashby of Crellin, Md., a mine stockholder, said damage was estimated at $6,000 to $8,000. About one-fourth of the tipple which serves several small mines in the Howesville area of Preston County was destroyed, he said.

Ashby said the operation is insured for approximately $100,000.

Spring Gap 4-H Club Elects Officers, Sets 1954 Program

Billy Twigg was elected president of the Spring Gap 4-H Club last night at a meeting in the Spring Gap Community Center. Twigg had been acting president of the club.

Other officers named last night were Randy Piper, vice president; Thomas Benson, secretary; Ernest Bishop, treasurer; Richard McLaughlin, chaplain, and Herbert Shipe, publicity officer.

Other business at the meeting was formulating a program for the club's 1954 activities. Next month the boys will begin work on their game reserve. Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke has promised the club seed for the project.

At the March meeting of the club, members will see an electricity demonstration conducted by Iradean Riley and Randy Piper, and one by Richard McLaughlin and Herbert Shipe.

In April the club will see a gardening demonstration conducted by Ernest Bishop and Thomas Benson, while in May the boys will hear an insect report by Joseph M. Steger. The members also will plan a booth for the Cumberland Fair.

In June 4-H members will take a tour of area farming projects, followed by a club picnic. This year each member will keep a report on one farming project in the area. Other activities planned include:

July, plans for Cumberland Fair and 4-H Camp; August, a campfire meeting; September project reports; October, soil conservation; November, handicraft, and December, a Christmas party.

Officers said between monthly meetings the club will hold a special sessions concerning community projects.

Salvation Army Installs Board And Officers

Expanded Program For '54 Announced

"The confidence expressed in the Salvation Army by the citizens of Cumberland in supporting the recent fund campaign and all the Army's endeavors, is a challenge which cannot go unheeded," Col. V. J. Huffman said last night, at the annual dinner meeting of the local advisory board.

Col. Huffman, accompanied by Major Paul Thronburg, came here from Baltimore for the annual meeting and to install new board members and officers.

Browne President

Daniel Y. Browne was installed as president of the board succeeding Lewis J. Ort who was installed as first vice president. Russell Pancake was installed as secretary and Albert Macy was installed for a second term as treasurer.

R. Finley Thompson was installed for a two-year term, since he was elected to fill a vacancy. New three-year board members installed include John Ankeney, A. E. Beckman, Glenn Morris, George Millenson, William G. Rice, H. C. Spiker and William Wendt.

According to the by-laws of the Salvation Army, board members cannot be reelected and those who have completed their three-year terms include Carl Amtower, Frank Carpenter, Charles L. Kopp, William J. Edwards, F. T. Bell, Henry Price, Adolf Blunk, Roy W. Eves and Harold W. Smith.

Two-Year Members

Other two-year members of the present board are Woodward Peeler, Charles E. Patterson and Anthony Saeli. Members who have one more year to serve are Robert E. Barnard, Jr., A. Trago Brust, Jr., and Victor D. Heisey.

Life members, both of whom were introduced last night are Robert W. Young and Arthur J. Weber.

Rev. Seth C. Morrow, a former board member and former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church came here last night from Orange, N. J., where he now resides, to attend the annual meeting.

In his response to Col. Huffman's address, Rev. Morrow told the 75 members and guests present that the Salvation Army is an important agency in the community and the nation. He declared that the Army is a church because it is based upon the body of Christ.

Rev. Morrow said he has met many of the leaders of the Salvation Army, and from the top level to the lowest level of leadership, "all these people are sincere, Christian, God-fearing individuals, doing the Lord's work the way it is intended that it should be done."

Offers Congratulations

Rev. Morrow complimented Ort on his leadership and congratulated Browne upon being named board president. He said to Browne, "Dream your dreams. Then see your dreams as being realized. Then in a relaxed manner, set about the task of making your dreams work."

Col. Huffman, on behalf of the Maryland and Northern West Virginia District, presented gifts to Rev. Morrow, Blunk and Ort for their leadership in the recent fund campaign. The gifts, desk pen and calendar sets are to be appropriately inscribed.

Col. Huffman outlined for his audience some of the history of the Salvation Army and said the Army is the "Church of the Dispossessed," the "Church of the Disheartened" and the "Church of the Disillusioned."

It is the Army's job, he declared to help those who are in distress, keep them close or lead them back to God through the Army and the church of their own choice, and to develop broader youth programs.

Captain Daniel K. Biggs referred briefly, as did also Lt. Harry Powell, to detailed financial and activity reports distributed to those present. Capt. Biggs also noted that the Army has an expanded program of social service and youth service for 1954 and has set some very important goals.

Col. Huffman announced, as previously published, the transfer of Lt. Powell to Frederick and Lt. John Ray to Baltimore.

He said changes throughout the district, made these transfers necessary and they are advancements for the two young lieutenants who have operated the Salvation Army in South Cumberland.

Succeeding them here will be Lt. and Mrs. Harold May of Parkersburg, W. Va., Col. Huffman disclosed.

Parochial Schools To Be Closed Today

Catholic schools in Cumberland will be closed today for the annual diocesan mid-year semester holiday, which comes at the end of first semester examinations.

Students of the local Catholic parishes were given semester examinations this week, ending yesterday. The second semester schedule will begin Monday.

There will be no classes at Ursuline Academy, SS. Peter and Paul's School, St. Patrick's School, Girl's Central High School, St. Mary's School, St. Mary's High School and LaSalle High School.

Parochial schools in all other nearby parishes in the Baltimore Diocese will also be closed today.

Public schools in Allegany County will end their first semester on Friday, January 29.
